Welcome, Lawmakers!

The Emerald voices the opinion of the campus in extending a welcome to the state's lawmakers who visit the University today. The keys have been thrown away and the University is at your command. That the day may be pleasant and that the trip may prove mutually beneficial is the sincerest wish of the students.

You will have the opportunity to see your state University at work. You will see the students in their working clothes. You will see, not empty buildings and a deserted campus, but the University doing a full day's work. If you care to do so, you can drop in here and there—seeing professors and students at work. You are to see, not an institution in holiday attire, but the University as it is nine months of the year.

Do not be surprised if students greet you with the informal "hello." It is a tradition that everyone, including professors, speaks to everyone else. Members of the faculty and the administration consider it a mark of respect to be democratically greeted by a "hello."

Today each individual student considers that he is your host. All are anxious to make your visit a pleasant one. All are hoping that you will go back to Salem with the feeling that you really know conditions at the University.

Real Campus Service

Reports that more than $10,000 had been paid to students for regular and odd jobs during the fall term may be surprising to the outsider, but are passed over entirely too lightly by the average student. So frequently is it stated that students have received such substantial sums that the average individual forgets what it means. The services of the campus employment agencies too often do not receive all the credit which they deserve.

According to the chairman of the employment committee of the Y. M. C. A. there is a demand for regular and odd jobs by sixty per cent of the men in the University. When this number is to be taken care of there must be the fullest degree of cooperation between campus activities and townspeople. The committee has done excellent work and the Y. M. C. A. is to be commended. Students should remember that Eugene people have shown willingness to help. If it were not for the cooperation many of the students would be compelled to withdraw.

It is absolutely essential that every student attend the assembly in the Woman's building today. And it is just as important that everyone is on time. In order that the students may have an opportunity to get seated, the legislators will not go to the auditorium until just after eleven. Be there and be on time.

RENT BOOKS IN DEMAND

Seven Books Have Been Paid For; Library Receives Several New Editions

The five cent rent collection of books of the University library continues to be popular. Many students are glad to read a recent and popular novel by paying the small sum of five cents a day for its use. Often they are borrowed by general readers also. New books recently added to the list are:

"The Green Overcoat" by Belloe, "The Hidden Force" by Couperus, and "The Goose Man" by Wasserman.

Seven of these books have recently been taken off the rent list and placed in the general circulation department. Students may now read them without paying five cents. They are: "Gentle Julia" by Tarkington, "Adrienne Tonnar" Sedgwick, "The World's Illusion" Wasserman, "Batouala" Maren, "My Northern Exposure" by Traprock, "Tramping on Life" Kemp, "Miracles of Clara Van Haag" by Buchholtz.

Some recent editions to the general reading list are, "Hail Columbia" by W. L. George, which contains Mr. George's impressions of America on a recent visit here from England; a book of poems is "Profiles from China" by Eunice Tietjens, and Arnold Bennett's "Body and Soul" a play in four acts.

PROFESSOR DUNN HAS REVIEW IN BULLETIN

Sons of American Revolution Reprint Article Written by Latin Head for Portland Kiwanis

In the December issue of the official bulletin of the Sons of the American Revolution is a reproduction of an article written by Professor Frederick S. Dunn, head of the Latin department, which was printed in a folder placed prepared for a Portland Kiwanis club luncheon given on Constitution day, September 16. The article, the original of which was distributed to all teachers of Eugene, is a review of the epochs which have occurred in ages of the past, and which have produced great men as leaders, beginning with the Babylonian despot, before the age of Caesar and leading up to the adoption of the constitution of the United States which he speaks of as "the greatest achievement yet attained in political history."

"Like the Cross itself, which drew the world to its foot, was the Constitution, for its adoption, one hundred and thirty-five years ago today, proved the greatest achievement yet attained in political history and still wants but little of marking as great a cleavage as the Christian Era between all times previous and subsequent," are the final words of the article.

Professor Dunn is one of several members of the National Organization and is interested in the forming a local chapter in Eugene as none has been attempted as yet. "There are about twenty-four residents of Eugene who would be eligible for membership" said Professor Dunn yesterday, "and no census has yet been taken among college students. Certification of descent from revolutionary parents is necessary to become a member of the society and such records have not been procured as yet so that very little can be done about it."

POINT SYSTEM REVISED BY W. A. A. AMENDMENT

Points to be Given Upperclassmen for Past Records; System to Apply on Varsity Awards

The proposed revisions to the point system of awards in women's athletics and amendment to the constitution were unanimously passed at the mass meeting of the Women's Athletic association yesterday. Both measures will be presented before the student council for its adoption by that body at its next meeting in March.

In revising the point system, it was voted that no points would be awarded for intercollegiate interclass games which will be played with O. A. C. during the year. It was also decided that members of the all-star teams which will be chosen at the end of the seasons of the various sports, will receive no extra points for this honor. In order to afford the same opportunity to junior and senior girls who have participated in athletics in past years to win letters or sweaters, it was voted that the athletic records of upperclass women be gone over and points be awarded according to the new point system.

An amendment to the constitution of the Associated Students adopted at the meeting, will if accepted by the council, strike out the measure providing for sweaters for varsity awards and install the point system. This same amendment will replace that of the varsity awards in the constitution of the Women's Athletic association.

COMMERCE MAJOR WINS IN OLD LINE TRYOUTS

Paul Patterson to Represent University at Albany

Paul L. Patterson of Seattle, senior in the school of business administration, will represent the University at the Old Line Oratorical contest to be held in Albany March 9. He was selected last evening from a group of three at the final tryouts held in the Commerce building. He has been active in forensic work during his four years at the University, and is a member of the men's varsity debate team.

The Old Line Oratorical contest is a state wide activity established about twenty years ago. The various colleges and universities of Oregon annually compete. The prize awarded has been in previous years a gold medal, but there has been some talk this year of giving a cash prize. Ernest J. Hendrikson was the Oregon candidate at the meet last year, in which the O. A. C. representative won.

Competition in the work has been keen this year according to Professor C. D. Thorpe of the public speaking department. Seven students first started in the tryouts, but due to illness only three competed in the final trial. They were James H. Brown, Paul L. Patterson, and Ernest Hendrikson.

Ralph Hoerber, graduate assistant in the economics department, won the contest two years ago for Oregon. Faculty members at the University who won the contest in previous years are Karl Ontank, Carlton Spencer and Dr. Peter Crockatt.

The judges at the tryout last night were Professors George Turnbull, Melvin T. Solve and Franklin Folts.

The Eugene Bible University will be represented by Earl Ladd of Amity.

"A FOOL THERE WAS" AT HEILIG

When Rudyard Kipling wrote "The Vampire" he little thought that it would some day be the theme of a great photoplay, but "A Fool There Was," the 1922 version of that famous play by Porter Emerson Brown, had its opening here yesterday at the Heilig theatre, and scored a popular hit, an entirely new version produced by William Fox, with Estelle Taylor and Lewis S. Stone. Almost everyone has at one time or other read Kipling's poetic description of the woman who strip men of their wealth and honor and then cast them aside, but Estelle Taylor's screen version of the Vampire surpasses anything in that line heretofore done on the silver sheet.

"ON THE HIGH SEAS" SCORES

"On the High Seas," a Paramount production, co-starring Dorothy Dalton and Jack Holt at the Rex theatre, had a deservedly auspicious opening last night. There is action enough in this production to satisfy the most avid movie fan, for it includes in detail the burning and sinking of an ocean liner, the thrilling experiences of a girl and two men in an open boat in mid-ocean, their finding and running of a death-filled plague ship, the eventual sinking of the vessel by an American battleship and a fascinating kidnapping of a bride at the church door.

PLAY TO BE AT HEILIG

Ranking with the Chicago and Metropolitan Grand Opera companies in social importance will be the visit of the famous "Merry Willow" which Henry W. Savage, the noted New York theatrical producer is sending to this city for an engagement of one night, Tuesday, February 6, at the Heilig theatre. In every city where this fascinating operetta has played, society has turned out en masse to welcome it, and the list of box-holders and occupants of the main floor reads like a page from the local Blue Book or Social Register.
