nine attractions—the style show and Women's League luncheon, for instance.

The Oregon Knights are rendering conspicuous service in meeting the trains and conducting the delegates to Frank Carter's registration desks in the Ad building. It was probably only the reporter's imagination which caused him to think the fancy-sweated men somewhat neglected the boy delegates in favor of the others.

John D. Dopp, superintendent of the Forest Grove schools, came in and registered yesterday afternoon. He was the only representative of his school that was able to attend. A number of Forest Grove students were anxious to come but could not make the necessary arrangements, according to Mr. Dopp. Professor J. Hugh Pruett, of the physics department, is an old friend of Mr. Dopp. The two were together in the Forest Grove school when Mr. Pruett taught physics there before the war.

Jefferson, Portland's largest high school, has four of its seven delegates already here. The president of the student body, president of the class of '23, president of Pi Delta Epsilon debating society, and the president of the Jefferson Hi Y's are registered.

Hugh Miller, the 14 year old president of the sophomore class at the University high school is out after the honor of being the youngest delegate at the conference.

The lobby of the administration building, looked like the setting for a mob scene in the movies about 7 o'clock last night.

OLD OREGON TO BE OUT

says, "Although competition is stiffer Oregon shows a higher percentage of victories under Huntington than under Bezdek."

A story by Mozelle Hair, '09, secretary of the extension division, reporting some of her experiences with people taking extension work, will be an interesting contribution, Miss Edgington said.

The staff of the publication, Miss Edgington said, is trying to show the alumni that the University expenses here are not more but less than those of colleges elsewhere.

Ground Hog Will Appear This Morning

Today is the day. Sometime in the a. m. or p. m. Arctomys Monax will awaken, stretch, yawn, poke his head out of his sanctuary and then drag his carcass out into the chill air. Arctomys Monax will stand very still for an instant and will then turn cartwheels, sidewinders, and will also sunfish. If while doing these calisthenics he see the shadow of his anatomy cast upon frozen terrain, he will give one yelp, dive for his domicile and pound the hay for another six weeks.

In other words this is the big day for old John Ground Hog. If he gets a glimpse of his scrawny shadow it means more winter. If his glimmers are on the Fritz and he doesn't see himself in a dirt half-tone, he won't have sense enough to go back and hole up, but will linger in the open and the Book-tionary has it that when friend pig does this the little bird starts to tweet in the trees, the little sap to sip up into the limbs, and the little buds to bloom. Ain't nature the grand thing.

Talk to Prove Identity of Pharaoh; Instructors Lecture by Radio

Proof that the Pharaoh, whose tomb has recently been discovered and opened, is the real Pharaoh of the Oppression, who taught the children of Israel to make brick without straw, is contained in a lecture to be broadcasted from the Portland Oregonian radio station tonight at 9 p. m. by Professor Frederick S. Dunn, head of the Latin department of the University.

The lecture is the second of a series of talks on popular subjects being broadcasted by University instructors; the first having been given last Saturday night by Professor Parsons, of the sociology department on the subject of prisons and prison reform.

Next week's lecture will be by Professor Conklin, head of the psychology department, whose subject will be a discussion of Dr. Emile Coue's theory of subconscious suggestion and its relation to the study of psychology.

This game means a lot to both squads as the one which is defeated will practically be out of the running for honors, while the winner will fight it out with Washington, for the right to play a California team for the championship of the coast.

INCREASING DEMAND OUR ILLUSTRATED CIRCULAR describes the Mountain States Power Company and the 47 communities served in four states. It shows the growth of the Company's business, which growth continued in a very satisfactory measure during 1923. A large amount of additional business is now awaiting the construction of additions and extensions. The demands for service increase steadily in a much faster ratio than the increase in population. These services are vital to public welfare. The market for them is as stable and enduring as our cities, towns and agricultural districts.
