Unfair to the Women

The Frosh Glee and the first home basketball game of the year with O. A. C. are both scheduled for Friday night. The women of the University say that if they go to the dance they cannot go to the game, because the dance is formal for women. They are hardly to be blamed for not wanting to sit through the game in evening gowns and then return to the Woman's building to dance. It is unfortunate that two all-University functions had to be planned for the same night.

The Frosh Glee is a tradition and should not be relegated to the status of a student body dance. No one wants to see it made informal. If it is at all possible the thing to do is to postpone it.

If it is impossible to hold it some other time a change in the plan of the basketball game will be necessary if any of the women who go to the dance are to go to the game. If it were not for the Frosh-Rook preliminary it might be possible to play the game early enough to permit the change to evening dresses, starting the dance soon after nine o'clock. If the game could start promptly at seven, it would be over a little after eight and the dance could start at nine. Then it might be arranged to extend for half an hour the time for getting in. The varsity game might even be played before the frosh contest. If the babes could play in the afternoon the problem would be less complicated.

The women have a right to see the game Friday night, and they also have a right to go to the dance. It is up to the authorities to provide some arrangement whereby they can do both.

Did Bohler Pull a "Boner?"

A "boner" by George Bohler was the cause of the Oregon defeat by the Aggie basketball team last Friday night, according to the Eugene Daily Guard. The sport critic declares that the coach's instructions to Chapman to stay "in the hole" permitted Gill to shoot at longer range and lost the game. Yet—two weeks ago Oregon won a game with Idaho just because George Bohler instructed Chapman to stay "in the hole." The Guard failed to notice it on that occasion.

The Guard admitted that Latham and Gowans had an off night on account of colds, and also admitted that the Aggies have a "crackin'" good team, "one of the best coached on the coast. Nevertheless it was George Bohler's "boner" which was disastrous.

Sport critics have a certain amount of license, but when it becomes chronic it exceeds the bounds of good sportsmanship. They should at least try to be consistent in their criticism.

It Never Rains But It Pours

While the University is anticipating the lectures of Dr. Charles Upson Clark comes the announcement that Carl Sandburg, poet and lecturer, will visit the campus in the near future. The committee is to be commended for securing the services of Sandburg, who is perhaps better known than Vachel Lindsay.

There is no reason why such speakers should not be a regular part of a university's program. The time will come when this type of speaker will be listed in the catalogue, and when University credit will be given to students who sign up in the course. And why not?

After paying lab fees the average student wonders why it is necessary to ask the legislature for money.

"THE MERRY WIDOW" AT HELIG

The Helig will have as a gala attraction for tonight only, Henry W. Savage's newest production of the sensational light opera success, "The Merry Widow," revived for the first time in the United States fifteen years after its original presentation here.

In scenic array and costuming the revival will be more elaborate it is said, than was the introductory production, admirable though that was. The fact that Joseph Urban, master scenic artist of this country has designed the scenery, insures unique and beautiful stage settings.

To the Editor:

One of the things which contributed most to the success of "Legislator's Day" last Wednesday was the fine spirit of co-operation on the part of the students, and particularly of the committee headed by Haddon Rockey. For the good judgment of President MacGregor in his selection of committee members and for the efforts of the men and women who made up that membership, we may well be grateful.

Recognition of service is practically the only reward ever given for committee work and, unfortunately, as it is usually unseen, it is also usually unrecognized. The members of the faculty committee who worked with the student committee were in a position both to see and to appreciate the value of the service rendered. It is a pleasure to be in a position to give credit where credit is obviously due.

R. JUSTIN MILLER, Chairman of Faculty Committee.

BIRDS ARRIVED OCT. 25

To the Editor:

Not wishing to appear too critical I would, however, like to call to attention the fact that the article published in Wednesday's edition of the Emerald regarding the robin visitors to the campus is slightly misleading. The birds have been on the campus since the 25th of October and might have been seen at any hour of daylight around the fir and cedar trees.

Sincerely, G. W. P.

ed off this week. The sophomore-freshman game was the first interclass tilt this season. The second teams are very important this year, said Miss Waterman, who refereed the games last night, as the substitutes for the O. A. C. games will be picked from these teams. For the sophomores, Melba Byron, forward, did good work, as the seven baskets shot were all to her credit. Eleanor Houck and Janet Woods worked in good combination for the freshman team.

The lineups for last night's games were as follows:

JUNIORS ARE PLANNING GREAT MAY WEEK-END

Provision to Be Made for Big Crowds, Says Meek

Junior Week-end plans, with the usual round of festivities and gaieties are being made by the junior class. It is hoped that many of the high school delegates and representatives who were on the campus last week will be able to return for this occasion, according to James Meek, president of the class, who states that it is planned to make provision for as many students as possible this year.

One of the most characteristic features of Oregon life is the annual canoe fete which will take place this year on Thursday night, May 10. Guests are urged to arrive in Eugene in time to see this event. About 20 floats will be displayed on the race and entries will show the usual novelty, originality, and beauty in design, according to those in charge. In former years, scenes from mythology and ancient civilization as well as colorful glimpses of modern life have been depicted.

Friday morning senior cops will be much in evidence and underclassmen will be rounded up for the clean-up fracas on the campus. Junior men will act as supervisors.

Variety, quality, and quantity are the keywords applied to the campus luncheon at noon at which time all faculty members, guests, and University students will gather at the gymnasium for eats. Then there will be a rush for the mill race where the tug of war between the freshmen and sophomores will take place. The event will end in the icy plunge for all wearers of the green caps. Thereupon these same wearers will hasten over to Kincaid field, where they will part company with the little green headpieces which have been with them since the first days of their college life.

The senior play takes place Friday night and Saturday is taken up with athletic events including a baseball game and a track meet. The annual junior prom Saturday night marks the grand finale.

"A COUE A DAY"

The Coue formula for being your own physician, which consists simply of repeating frequently the statement, "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better," has acquired some appreciative disciples among the cast of "All the Brothers Were Valiant," an Irvin V. Willat production of Ben Ames Williams' famous sea story, now at the Rex theater.

Did You Ever Think?

If So, Try This

In a 16 size watch (ordinary "men's size"), when in first-class condition, the Balance Wheel makes an average of about one and a quarter turns for each vibration. And, as the balance is 0.62 inches in diameter, its rim will travel...inches in each vibration, so that, in the 18,000 vibrations made in one hour, its rim will travel...inches, or...feet, and in a complete day will travel...feet, or...miles, which is as far as most people care to walk in one day.

Strawberries on the North Pole?

—and Pineapple Too

Wonders will never cease, but it's a fact there are pineapples and strawberries on the North Pole. There are lots of nuts there too—that is, the crunchy kind. Neither Peary nor Cook seemed to have seen these wonders when they saw the Pole, for they neglected to tell us of these facts. But take the tip from us, we've the jolliest bit of a North Pole at our shop that you'll simply revel in. We exclusively discovered it too. You'll want to try one on your next order.
