

WRESTLING TEAM SHAPES FOR O.A.C.

Coach Widmer Pointing Men to Make Good Showing Against Champs

Hard work and plenty of it is in order for the varsity wrestling squad every night this week. The reason is that the Oregon mat men are billed to grapple with O. A. C.'s championship wrestlers in the men's gym next Friday afternoon. Every one on the Web-foot squad realizes that if he is to make any kind of a showing against the veteran Aggie bone crushers, some hard licks must be put in on the practice mat this week.

O. A. C. has won the coast championship in wrestling for the past two years and this year her squad of grapplers is as formidable as ever. Although the Aggies have not participated in any meets thus far, reports from Corvallis say that interest in the mat game is great, over 75 men turning out. Headed by Robin Reed, who holds the national amateur title in the 135 pound class, the Beavers have a squad which will make it hard for any conference team to wrest the championship from them.

Several Men Injured

In spite of this Coach Widmer of the varsity squad is certain that his men will prove tough opposition for the Aggies this week-end and that the students who turn out will see some good matches. Several of the regulars are suffering from cauliflower ears received in the match with the University of Washington last week.

The experience gained in this encounter will prove of value in the coming meet. Every member of the squad is working overtime with the determination to do his best against the Aggies. The personnel of the crew that will represent Oregon in the meet has not been definitely selected, but those who make the best showing this week will be chosen.

Chatburne, 135 pounds, who broke a rib in the meet with North Pacific, is still out and will not compete, his place probably being taken by Ray Garrett, who made a good showing against Washington. The choice for the 125 division apparently lies between Chet Sumption and Don Wilkinson. Wilkinson has been having difficulty in making the weight limit, which is 128 pounds, and unless he can get down to this he cannot compete, the conference rule being that a man cannot compete if he is more than three pounds above the specified weight.

Heavy Men Are Good

Harvey Robertson thus far has proved the best bet in the 145 pound division. In the 158 pound class the choice apparently lies between Jim Bradway and Ed Kirtley. Bradway represented Oregon in this division at Seattle. In the 175 pound division Jens Terjeson is the favorite with Estel Akers a good alternate.

Coach Widmer says the men will make a much better showing if a good crowd turns out to support them. In the other colleges he says the interest in wrestling is keen. At Washington large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed the Oregon matches. The Friday meet will be called at three o'clock in the afternoon.

INTRUMENT IS NEEDED

phenomena have not always been verified as earthquakes.

"It is true that practically all of the shocks recorded in Oregon have been harmless, and, therefore, real estate will not run any serious risk of depreciation as a result of our study of them," said Dr. Smith in pointing out the need of a seismograph. "But even were matters otherwise we should not be deterred in the least in the investigation. To outsiders the contention of San Francisco boosters that the great calamity of 1906 was not due to an earthquake but to fire seems rather peculiar. Nothing is gained in this world by denying perfectly patent facts."

A study of earthquakes in Oregon will throw much light upon the geological structure of the state and upon the seismic investigations being carried on in our sister states, said Dr. Smith. It is probable, according to Dr. Smith, that the famous San Andreas drift, along which the tremors which destroyed San Francisco in 1906 traveled, comes in from the Pacific and touches Oregon. This can probably be determined with a seismograph. An instrument of this sort will also help in the study of faults which do not come to the surface.

Dr. Smith believes the earthquake which caused the tidal wave in Hawaii had its center in the deep oceanic troughs thousands of miles from the island.

COMPILATION OF DATA KEEPS REGISTRAR BUSY

Large Office Force Employed to Maintain Records

An almost endless business of compiling statistics concerning grades and credits, of examining records and checking over requirements for entrance and graduation, occupies seven clerks working under the supervision of Carlton Spencer, registrar. This work has to be kept up in addition to the initial work of registering students at the beginning of each term.

The courses of all students are listed in the registrar's office, and when a student withdraws or changes a course, this change or withdrawal is recorded. Each term all grades are permanently filed and are put in shape for the printer of the "Scandal Sheet." As seniors approach graduation their records are checked over, in order that the office may know whether they have a sufficient number of hours, enough hours above V and whether they have all their requirements fulfilled. The records of students on probation are filed.

The office is continually occupied in compiling statistics. The number of enrolled students, the number of students majoring in the various courses, the percentage of self-supporting students, the percentage of students connected with organizations—all these statistics are recorded by the registrar. Also the scholastic averages of all individuals are gathered; then these averages are grouped into the fraternity averages. To complete this work takes one person on the comptometer about two weeks.

The registrar's office is the information bureau of the University. A fairly steady stream of people throughout the year, and especially in the summer, make inquiries as to the necessary credits and qualifications for entrance, and there are many correspondents presenting inquiries as to all subjects of an academic nature.

Catalogues, folders and booklets are sent out through this office. Nearly every school of the University puts out a folder or booklet once a year. There are also about 100 different blank forms that go out through the registrar's office.

The registrar, besides his many other duties, has the secretaryship of many committees of the faculty, and has the work of preparing the memoranda for all these committees.

S. will play Roseburg high in the men's gym.

FROSH WRESTLERS TO BE CHOSEN FOR TEAM

Men for Oregon City Meet Will Be Picked

In anticipation of the freshman wrestling meet with Oregon City high school, which comes within two weeks, Coach Widmer, wrestling mentor, has announced elimination contests to decide the personnel of the team which will meet the high school squad. February 14 has been tentatively set as the date for the match, but this will probably be changed to later in the week. The first of the elimination contests is set for Monday afternoon.

Although this is the only freshman meet arranged so far the school is not lacking in good material, one or two men in fact, being of varsity caliber. The freshmen have been turning out all year with the varsity squad and have gained much valuable experience in this manner.

Because of the fact that the Oregon City group consists of high school students they have no heavyweight wrestlers in the field. The match of the fourteenth will probably consist of two bouts in the 125-pound class, one in the 135-pound class and two in the 145-pound class.

Members of the regular frosh squad who have been turning out are Carrol Ford and Charles Kilgore, 125-pounders; Perry Davis, Cecil Hugh and Herschel Jones at 135 pounds; Ed Morelock and Wilbur Horn at 145 pounds; David Johnson, 158 pounds, and Ogden Mills and Claude Crumb at 175 pounds.

These men, in the first three classes, as well as any who wish to compete, will take part in the elimination contests at dates designated by Widmer. The coach wishes to finish these contests as soon as possible so that the team may be well organized. One man will be chosen for the 125-pound class one for the 135-pound class, and two for the 145-pound class.
