

FROSH AND ROOKS TO BATTLE IN GYM

Dope on This Afternoon's Game Gives Edge to Oregon Babes

After two rather easy wins over the Medford and Ashland high school quintets already this week the freshman hoopers are in fine fettle for their third encounter with the O. A. C. rooks, billed for the men's gym promptly at 4:30 this afternoon.

Although the babes broke even in the two-game series with the Aggie freshmen at Corvallis last week-end, they have a fine chance of taking both games here and winning the series, says Coach Bohler. In the Corvallis games Bryant and Mautz went into the line-up after a long lay-off because of severe colds and were not in the best of shape. Hobson and Gosser also were in poor condition because of colds. Hence the whole team failed to show their best speed, and the teamwork was somewhat ragged. Nevertheless the frosh started off strong and led their rivals in the first half of the opening contest. But they failed to keep up the pace set in the first half and the rooks nosed them out by an unexpected spurt in the second period. In the next game the yearlings seemed to find themselves, however, and held a comfortable lead throughout. With every one in the squad in good condition for the games here and with the advantage of a home court the dope points to an Oregon victory.

Too often the dope has been spilled, however, and it is certain the game today as well as the one tomorrow will be strenuously fought, as always is a frosh-rook contest. The winner today will have an edge on the series and both teams will make a hard effort to get this edge. With Gosser and Bryant ringing the hoop the way they did in the two prep-school games this week, the frosh have a good chance to deliver, but both of them will have stronger opposition.

The Oregon yearlings will probably line up with Bryant and Scriptures as forwards, Gosser as center, and Hobson and Mautz, guards. Leake, Stoddard, and Farley are the spares. The rook line-up has not yet been divulged, but it is probable that Coach Hubbard will start the fray with Grider and Osborne, forwards, Baird center, Theison and Owens guards.

MANY SUBSCRIBERS DO NOT RECEIVE EMERALD

Daily Papers Left at Co-Op Not Called for by Students Who Do Not Live in Organizations

Although every student in the University pays for a subscription to the Emerald when he pays his fees at registration, about 500 students fail to get a copy of the paper each day, says Gibson Wright, circulation manager.

These students who do not get their copies of the Emerald are men and women who live in town, but who fail to stop at the Co-op for the paper on their way to the campus. A number of copies are left at the Co-op each morning, but students often borrow another's Emerald, instead of calling for their own.

One reason why students living west of Willamette street do not call for their paper has turned into a problem which the circulation manager has to face. "We have a quite a bit of trouble with these students taking papers off merchant's doorways. It would help out a lot if students would leave these papers alone. We lose a lot of advertising this way. The merchants don't see the paper and don't know if we run the ad," said Wright.

These merchants who advertise receive complimentary copies which have to be delivered by carriers.

The Emerald circulation department employs two carriers to deliver the papers to the merchants and to the fraternity houses. One student is also employed to wrap and mail papers. The assistant circulation manager makes himself useful by counting papers and carrying the bundles to Friendly hall and the Co-op.

The student circulation list is divided into 365 copies for the three halls of residence; 630 for fraternity houses; 550 at the Co-op. Besides this, 85 go through the campus mail to the faculty, and 530 by U. S. mail to out of town subscribers.

without fear. He puts words to the uses of bronze. His music at times is of the clearest sweetness like the tinklings of blue chisels, at other times it has the appropriate harshness of resisting metal." And it would seem that his wide sympathy has come out of a wide experience, for we read that after leaving school at the age of thirteen he worked as a wagon driver, a porter in a barber shop, a scene-shifter and a moulder of clay in a pottery shop. He threshed wheat in Kansas, went to war with the Illinois volunteers in Porto Rico, and he worked his way through college as a janitor, finding his first opportunity for self expression in writing for the college magazine. He has steadily climbed in prominence in the literary world until now he is recognized by some critics and authorities as one of the three greatest of the modern poets, the other two being A. E. Robinson and Robert Frost.

This man who can claim the respect and love of sturdy westerners, will be welcomed to the campus on February 23.

that a fire alarm should be installed in all the houses and one loud enough to awaken the soundest sleepers on the fraternity sleeping porches. A demonstration was given with cotton cloth and celluloid which he said were both highly inflammable and burned rapidly when once afire.

In living organizations there are considerable quantities of this celluloid and cotton and these materials should not be used any more than is absolutely necessary. If gasoline has to be used, the speaker recommended that it be taken outside of the house as a safeguard against unexpected fire.

Mr. Sykes will complete his inspection of the fraternities and sororities today.

"FOR BIG STAKES" AT REX

An event of exceptional interest in entertainment will occur today. "For Big Stakes" will be shown, starring Tom Mix and exhibiting this popular film actor in new hair-raising stunts. The Rex theater, where the feature will be presented, has prepared for a siege by picture enthusiasts who like the rugged screen favorite and who turn out in crowds whenever Mix is in the saddle.

JOURNALISTS URGED TO BE CRITICALLY MINDED

Charles Upson Clark Explains Requirements for Writers

Education and cultivation of a critical spirit of mind in regard to information were emphasized as the remedy for the evils of newspaper propaganda by Dr. Charles Upson Clark in his informal lecture before upperclass students and others interested in journalism at the Woman's building last night. "The ideal solution of the propaganda problem," said Dr. Clark, "entails the possession of a good reference library, including current periodicals as well as standard books, so that a check can be made on all statements. A knowledge of two or three modern languages is necessary to a correspondent because he is always at a disadvantage if he must accept second-hand material. Much information can be obtained from German and French source material which is otherwise unavailable. A critical spirit should be cultivated; skepticism is essential. Knowledge and a common-sense attitude should be brought to bear on every given problem. The greatest weakness of our educational system is the fact that a critical frame of mind is not fostered."

Dr. Clark gave specific instances of propaganda as it was carried out during the recent war, including reports which were essentially true but which required explanation for proper interpretation, reports which were partially true, and entirely false statements. An instance was cited in which propaganda in regard to the invasion of Hungary by Roumania, was printed in an American periodical when the facts of the case were that the Roumanian territory had been invaded and stripped bare by the Hungarians.

Advertising A Safe 7% Investment

TODAY any one who wants to reach large numbers of people must advertise—must use the newspapers and the mails and must do so persistently.

Customer ownership means ownership by the many. We should like to have every person we serve become an investor in the Company.

An electric light and power or gas Company, serving growing communities, must continually add to its plant capacities and distributing systems in order to meet growing demands for service. It requires new capital as long as it grows. That is why we have a splendid 7% investment for you.

Like many other business institutions we have found that through advertising we can obtain better results at less expense than otherwise. Advertising helps us to make numbers of new security owners of the Company, as well as to economically finance improvements and extensions.
