

YEARLINGS DOWN ROOKS, 33 TO 25

Visitors Stage Vicious Rally in Last Half But Fail to Head Freshmen

Breaking up a desperate rally by the rooks in the last five minutes of play, the freshman basket shooters showed a burst of speed that earned them a 33 to 25 victory over their yearling rivals from O. A. C. in a rough and hard fought game in the men's gym yesterday afternoon. Two field goals and three neat free throws by Deek Bryant in the last few minutes, together with some stellar guarding by Mautz and Hobson, saved the bacon for the frosh after the rooks had come from behind and made the score stand 26 to 25.

From the opening whistle, the game was fast, close, and desperately fought. Bryant, frosh forward, started the scoring, but two baskets in rapid succession by Grider and Kolkana of the rooks gave them the lead which they held for five minutes of strenuous playing. Bill Gosser then brought the score to a tie and the Oregon youths took the lead when Bryant converted three fouls. From then on the freshmen held the lead with the Aggie babes always threatening. Some playing of the sensational order was pulled off by both teams in this half. Because of the close guarding on both sides, neither sets of forwards could do much scoring. Taking advantage of this, big Bob Mautz brought down plenty of applause when he dribbled down the length of the floor from his position at stationary guard and converted a goal in the latter part of the period. Hobson also featured with a couple of long shots in this half. The rooks were kept in the running mainly through the hooping of Kolkana, guard, who rang in several long ones. The frosh led 16 to 12 when the period ended.

The Oregon lads also started the scoring at the opening of the second half and held a comfortable lead when the rooks started a rally which seemed almost too much for the frosh. Coach Huntington inserted Stendall in the line-up for Scriptures and the Aggie rally was stopped. Both teams speeded up in this half and the playing became faster and rougher. The checking on both sides was close and most of the baskets were of the long-distance variety. It was in this department of the game that the Oregon freshmen showed marked superiority, for the Aggie babes showed poor shooting ability. Deek Bryant took the high scoring honors with a total of 15 points. Nine of these were made on free throws. He had 12 chances to convert free throws. Osborne, the Aggie foul thrower, made but three good ones out of eight chances. Grider and Kolkana bore the brunt of the frosh attack, both on the offense and defense. Osborne, the other forward, failed to make a field goal until the second half.

The Oregon yearlings now have an edge in the four game series, with two games to their credit against one for the rooks. The final game will be played at 4:30 this afternoon in the men's gym.

FLOWER GARDENS ADDED

New Beds to Be Placed Near Halls; Shrubbery Will Be Trimmied

Two new flower gardens will soon contribute their fragrance to the campus atmosphere if the weather will stay pleasant and allow the gardeners to work, according to H. M. Fisher, superintendent of buildings and grounds. One of these flower beds is to be located in the sunken garden plot south of Susan Campbell hall and the other on the east side of Mary Spiller hall. The flowers grown will be of the annual variety, such as tulips, asters and others suitable for table decorations.

Flowering shrubs will also be transplanted about the Y. M. C. A. hut as soon as the weather permits, as the soil is already prepared and everything is in readiness for the work. The old flower plots and shrubs around the campus will be trimmed and made to look more attractive, so that with all these improvements and the massage the lawns have been getting for the last few days, the campus will put on an improved appearance by the time the spring term rolls around and the sun begins to shine in earnest.

TOM MIX AT REX

Whirlwind action, with bright spots of romance, marked the picture that started at the Rex last night, "For Big Stakes," starring Tom Mix. It is replete with adventure. It has a love story, too, of exceeding charm. The photoplay is a wholesome, worth-while tale of the way of a man with a maid. The sands and hills of Arizona, the clear skies, the outdoor life—all are here. The acting of Tom Mix—in fact, of the entire cast—is of the highest order.

OREGON ALUMNI FEATURED

Mae Ballack, Wanna McKinney and Allen Carncross Shine in Long Beach

Oregon journalism alumni were conspicuously featured in Long Beach (Cal.) papers a few days ago. Allen Carncross, '22, had a signed half-page interview in the Telegram of that city, with a young man who had "worked at 300 jobs." Miss Mae Ballack, also '22, had in the same issue of that paper a signed criticism of a musical performance.

In the Long Beach Press, Wanna McKinney, ex-'22, now proofreader on the paper, is featured in a five-column layout of new Oldsmobile models. One of the four pictures is entitled "Two beauties," one of which is the automobile.

NEW ART BUILDING READY FOR OCCUPATION

Instructor's Dream About to Be Realized; New Edifice Ready for Classes Tuesday

If Professor A. H. Schroff and Professor Avard Fairbanks of the fine arts department are weeping, they are weeping tears of joy, for sculpture classes beginning next Tuesday at one o'clock will meet in the new art building.

Ever since the old sculpture building burned, all classes had been held in the architecture building, along with the life classes, and everyone has been constantly handicapped for want of room. Now, although work will go on to the tune of an accompaniment of carpenters' hammers, the students will at least have breathing space. The dream of the new building seems about to be realized.

The office of Mr. Fairbanks is up a short flight of stairs where he can look down and keep an eagle eye on his own studio, the students' studio and the casting room alike. Also, the new modeling stands are high enough so that the students will have to stand up to model. "The students have sat down to their work for the last time," said Mr. Fairbanks with a twinkle in his eye.

CAMPUS 21 YEARS AGO

How big was the body, and how big was the class?

In those days "Jimmie" Gilbert was a junior and on Friday, May 2, 1902, the junior class in oratory made their first public appearance. "Jimmie" Gilbert was about the third speaker. His piece began with: "I will lay on for Tusculum, and thou lay on for Rome." The next number of the Weekly gave three inches of space to this speech.

"BULLDOG DRUMMOND," HEILIG Does the average soldier, who experienced some of the horrors of life in the trenches, find it difficult to settle down again to the peaceful existence of the simple life? Or must he seek excitement to break the tedious monotony? This is the question that confronted Captain Hugh Drummond, the leading character played by Carlyle Blackwell in the sensational melodrama, "Bulldog Drummond," which will appear at the Heilig theater.

OREGON'S CADETS ENCAMP JUNE 23

Six University Credits Will Be Given for Summer Work

Students of the University who desire to take advanced and basic courses in military training next summer will go to Camp Lewis June 14 to July 25, according to word received at the military department Thursday. Students who must remain here until after commencement, which is to be June 23, will be admitted to the camp, and will receive full credit.

Six University credits will be granted to every cadet completing the summer course. These hours are in addition to the regular credits granted during the school year. The work given will be supplementary, and will in no way duplicate instruction given in the department here. Practical work will feature the session, states the announcement. In addition to rifle, automatic rifle, machine gun, and mortar firing, demonstrations will be given by the air service, artillery, tanks, and other branches of the army not represented at the local R. O. T. C. unit.

Transportation at the rate of five cents per mile will be provided for every student signing up for the session. At the close of the camp students may either return to Eugene, or to their homes, at the same mileage rate. Advanced students, in addition to mileage, will receive one dollar per day while at the camp. Board, room and clothing are furnished by the government. Students who have attended camps held in previous years report that the food and lodgings are of the best, and entirely satisfactory in every way.

Camp Lewis, where the session is to be held, is situated about 17 miles south of Tacoma and 17 miles north of Olympia on the Pacific highway, and half hour bus service is maintained to both cities. Seattle is but 40 miles north of the camp, and offers an excellent opportunity for week-end trips. American Lake, which is but a mile away, provides places for bathing, boating and fishing.

The authorities in charge have planned many side trips of interest, such as motor trips to Mount Ranier and inspection tours of vessels at Seattle. Other forms of entertainment, such as dances, theater parties, and picnics are also arranged for the cadets. Additional information on the session may be secured at the military department.
