

UNIVERSITY GIFT LIST IS COMPILED

Campaign Committee Records Donations Contributed; Roll Incomplete

The gift campaign headquarters is compiling a list of all the gifts received by the University since September, 1922. An inventory has been made of all the gifts of which the campaign headquarters has knowledge, and the committee is anxious to complete the roll.

The list of gifts, which has been made in the form of a faculty bulletin, does not include subscriptions to the campaign fund, which now amounts to approximately $28,000. Any department having received gifts not listed in the faculty bulletin is requested to send a record of the gifts to the gift campaign committee, giving date received, name and address of donor, nature or inventory of gift, purpose, value, and any other information that came with the donation, as conditions prescribed by the donor.

"We believe that there are several gifts to the University that are not on record," said Lamar Tooze, field director of the campaign, "and we are trying to get a complete record of them. Some departments have not been heard from, which we believe have received gifts. As soon as their reports come in we can come nearer to completing the list."

Following is the gift committee's inventory to date:

- Miss Margaret Widmer—art collection.
- Mrs. Eugene Rolfe—art collection.
- Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Robinson—Dorland Robinson art collection.

ENTHUSIASM LACKING IN EMERALD CONTESTS

Margaret Morrison Leading Unassigned Story Contest With Nine Items to Her Credit

The contests held by the Emerald for the turning in of tips and unassigned stories for the winter term is not progressing with as much enthusiasm and results as was hoped for by the department. Each term prizes are offered to the students turning in the most unassigned stories and tips, the first prize for unassigned stories being $10 and second prize $7.50. The first prize for tips is $7.50 and the second prize is $5.

So far this term Margaret Morrison is leading in the contest for unassigned stories with 9 to her credit, George Stewart follows with 8, Marian Lowry 7, Eugenia Strickland 4 and Webster Jones 3. Unassigned stories are stories that have been obtained by the reporters own initiative, those not assigned to him on the book; he cannot enter any story in this contest that he has picked up on his regular beat.

High point man up to last Sunday in the number of tips is George Stewart with 162, Leonard Lerwill 100 and Genevieve Jewell 94. All members of the reportorial staff and night editors can complete in the tip contest. Journalism students not on the staff are also considered. However, members of the editorial board, day editors and the assistant managing editor are not eligible for the award.

The winner of the prizes will be announced at the termination of the winter term, but the awards will not be made until the dividends of the Emerald profits have been divided at the close of the school year.

It is hoped by the staff that more students will take an interest in this contest. Anyone wishing to try for the contest still has plenty of time this term to win one of the prizes by a little hard work. There is more than money in the Emerald awards as shown in the past. It has been predicted that the leaders of next year's staff will be the ones who will win prizes during the winter and spring terms.

FROSH QUINTET BEATS FRANKLIN HIGH 66 TO 7

Visitors Put up Stiff Struggle But Are Badly Outclassed

Going at top speed throughout, the frosh quintet ran up the record score of the season last night against the weakened Franklin high school five. In the forty minutes of playing the yearlings amassed a total of 66 points against 7 for their opponents. But for over-anxiousness in their efforts to run up a big score they would undoubtedly have made the count much heavier.

The high school lads put up a spirited fight but were woefully outclassed in all departments of the game, besides being at a disadvantage in height compared with most of the freshmen. Three of their best men were said to be out of the lineup, including Scallon, their star forward. Hence the frosh had things their own way most of the time. In the second half the high schoolers failed to score a single point. Harkins, diminutive 15-year old guard, was their best bet. He scored all their points and frequently brought applause from the spectators by his clever work in eluding his opponents. McCallum, husky center for the visitors, also showed up well and prevented the frosh from scoring many baskets by his work in the guard zone.

Despite the one-sided score the game was fast and cleanly played, only eight fouls being called. After the first four minutes the result was never in doubt and the only interest in the game was the probable size of the score that the babes would roll up. The first half ended 31 to 7. In the second half the frosh bettered their record by making 36 points while the preppers were unable to connect for a single score. In this period the yearlings bombarded the bumpboard continually, missing countless shots.

The foul shooting on both sides was good, Bryant making four good ones out of as many attempts, while Harkins countered three out of four. At 1:30 this afternoon the frosh will wind up their season with a game against Washington high school in the men's gym.

The line-up:
Frosh—66 Franklin—7
Bryant 28.....F.....Epps
Stoddard 8.....F.....Medley
Gosser 24.....C.....McCallum
Hobson 2.....G.....Walgren
Mautz 4.....G.....7 Harkins
S.....Hart
Referee, Haddon Rockhey.

CAMPUS GROUNDS TO BE IMPROVED

Shrubs and Flowers Will Be Added to Plots Around New Buildings

With a little touch here, and a little touch there, H. M. Fisher, superintendent of grounds, and his workmen are putting in long hours this spring to keep the campus beautiful. Some little thing is always happening to mar it, he says, and it keeps the men busy. Besides this general repairing there is an unusual amount of new landscape gardening being done this spring.

Over by the Woman's building there wasn't enough soil on top of the bed rock, and the grass wasn't growing well. Mr. Fisher had to get some fertile soil, have the rock dug out, and the space filled in with loam. In front of the Administration building, where the sun dial used to be, the ground had sunk leaving an ugly spot, which had to be remedied. A yellow moss infested the campus lawns. The only thing to do was to sprinkle lime over the grass. Yesterday the men were raking off the dead moss around the president's residence, the last of this tedious job.

The shrubbery has already been gone over with pruning shears, and the odd limbs sawed off the trees. The men keep an eye open for plant diseases. A little bug on a bush might make the campus a treeless waste in a few months. The boll weevil ruined the historic groves of Harvard a few years ago.

The grounds about some of the newer buildings have to be fixed this spring. The large open space between the women's quadrangle and the Ad building is being planted in grass, and shrubbery will follow. The same work will be done at the Education building and the University high school, and Mr. Fisher hopes to be able to add a few touches of beauty to the Music building as soon as it gets out of the control of the holding company. The two new structures on the old campus, the Journalism "shack" and the Art building, will also need some attention. As soon as they are finished, the debris will be cleared away, and the ground sodded. Mr. Fisher will pay special attention to the little court between the new Art structure and the heating plant. With narrow paths, grass and bushes, he hopes to make it coincide with the general plan of the architects.

The strip along Thirteenth avenue, bordering on Kincaid field, which was plowed last fall, has been seeded with lawn grass. The whole stretch of ground from the cemetery down, will probably be improved this spring, depending on what the school of physical education does on the athletic field project. If the varsity baseball diamond and the fields for intramural sports are finished soon, Mr. Fisher will have Kincaid plowed up. Beginning on cemetery ridge, the whole plot will be graded to a gentle slope, and seeded.

JAZZMANIA A KNOCKOUT

This being the "jazzmaniacal" age, Mae Murray's newest Tiffany production for Metro is as brilliant and as safe a bet as the jewels purchased at the famous shop bearing the same name as the producing firm.

Like all Mae Murray pictures, "Jazzmania" is luxuriously staged, splendidly directed with the entertainingly interesting story, suiting every dancing proclivity of the star, who stands out like a Tiffany diamond among Woolworth hardware. But make no mistake, there is no Woolworth-brand of support or anything about "Jazzmania;" it's a million-buck looking proposition all the way through. There are plenty of thrills, and, photographically, few pictures are being made that can be compared with this one. The "shots" of the aeroplane thriller, wherein that aerial craft does a tail spin, is heart-rending. In fact, the photography is an important feature of "Jazzmania." It couldn't have been better.

How Does George Do It?

How does George manage to turn out such wonderful candy at the prices he asks for it? That is a question that several generations of college students have asked themselves. The answer simply is that he is better than the average candy specialist and he is taking less profit on every pound. It's no mystery when you know the dope.
