

PROFESSOR'S LOVE SUBJECT OF PLAY

Successful Cast Will Portray Barries' Scotch Romance on April 25, 26, and 28

History, mystery and society plays can interest some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but it takes a whimsical Scotch love story written by the inimitable Barrie to interest all of the people all of the time.

The professor, who has fallen in love with his secretary presents not an altogether new situation, but this professor is new in his total failure to realize the cause of his indisposition, and leaving town to recover, he takes along the delightful cause of his discomfiture.

The Eternal Triangle

Also a triangle is nothing new, but when the "other woman" tells "the woman" of her weapons, puts them right into her hands with detailed instructions on how to use them, it is exceedingly interesting and a little novel. For the other woman is as ignorant as is the professor as to the cause of his failing health.

But one person there is who knows—and that is the cause herself. She doesn't refuse to go on the trip, nor does she refuse the weapons so carefully placed in her hands by her rival, and then come the complications that are always necessary.

Today is the day of all-star casts. One star used to be enough but not so in this sophisticated age—and Guild Hall has been keeping pace of the times. If Guild Hall had a name like "Lyric," "Rialto" or "Rox" the names would be blazing out in many little electric lights for the cast as announced includes Fergus Reddie, the man of the Seven League Dramatic Boots, Charlotte Banfield who made Cleopatra and Grandmother Squeers famous, Lorna Coolidge whose Irish brogue insinuates ancestors, Star Norton who has made many successes, Art Johnson who makes better parts out of good ones and good parts out of poor ones, Vern Fudge, famous for his comedy roles, and others of equal ability.

Company Is Praised

In the last Guild Hall production, "La Malquerida," a dramatic triumph of a very spectacular sort was achieved. Critics gave it as their opinion that the play put the University Company on a high artistic level, that it was one which required much in the way of mature understanding and sympathy, much in character portrayal, and in suspense and atmosphere. To Darrel Larsen and Charlotte Banfield goes the maximum of praise, but every individual member of the cast played up in a finished way.

The Professor's Love Story will be produced on April 25, 26 and 28.

TRAVEL INFORMATION ASKED BY MAGAZINE

Object is to Help American Travelers To Choose Places for Motor Trips and Hikes

A letter has recently reached the office of President Campbell requesting student contributions to a new Pacific coast magazine which is being started by the Hikes and Travels Publishing company, of San Francisco. The publication is to go by the same name and is being established, according to the editor's letter, to assist the public in choosing places of recreation and vacation and to acquaint them with the beauty spots of this country and of foreign lands.

The magazine will be published for the first time about May first. Students of the University are invited to submit manuscripts concerning their personal experiences on hikes, motor trips, and travel of any kind.

The editor of "Hikes and Travels" may be reached at 632 Mission street, San Francisco. He further specifies that all material should be written in narrative form, should show exactly the route taken, so that a stranger may find his way according to the description, and asks that pictures of the trip be included as they are essential to complete the description. The duration of the trip and approximate expense must also be included, the letter adds.

"The story should be written in the light hearted spirit of youth, show little incidents, be interesting, and, if possible, show some humor," the editor concludes.

More than 25 new books have recently been received by the library. Some of these are duplicates of books already owned, while others are new publications. "The Biology of Death," by Pearl and "The Covered Wagon," by Emerson Hough, are in great demand. "The Goose Step," by Upton Sinclair is of interest to Oregon students, since a chapter is devoted to Sinclair's impressions of the University of Oregon and other educational institutions.

A complete list of all new books will be posted for information of those interested.

PLEDGE INSTALLMENTS PAID BY THREE SENIORS

Promises of Financial Support of Student Union are being Kept by Class of 1923

The 1923 class memorial committee announces receipt of the first $10 installment pledges toward the establishment of a student union on the University campus. These three were received from John MacGregor, of Portland; Claire H. Keeney, of Eugene; and George Robert Gochmour, of Eugene.

At the last meeting of the class of 1923, held at the close of last term, the members voted on and passed a resolution pledging themselves to give 100 dollars each, in ten annual installments toward the establishment of a student union, this amount to be given as a memorial to the class of 1923.

Pledge cards were sent out to the 375 members of the class on Thursday and were received on Friday morning with the resultant response. Members of the committee in charge of the memorial funds are John M. MacGregor, chairman; Imogene Letcher, Owen Callaway, Florence Garrett and Bernice Altstock.

The committee wishes to announce that any member of the class who has not received a pledge card may obtain one from John MacGregor.

ELECTIONS FOR WOMEN'S LEAGUE TO BE HELD SOON

Nominating Committee to Report at Next Mass Meeting on April 26; Florence Jagger Chairman

A nominating committee was appointed at Women's League executive council meeting held recently, to report at the next mass meeting of the League on April 26.

Florence Jagger was appointed chairman of the committee. Other members are: Margaret Scott, Ellen McVeigh, Mary Alexander, Marjorie Flegal, and Velma Farnham.

Elections this year will take place earlier than in the past, enabling the new officers to become familiar with their duties before the next school term, and also so that voting will not conflict with Junior Week-end.

All those nominating women for office are urged to consult the number of points in activities already being carried by prospective candidates. Offices of the "point system" will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, from 12:30 until 1 o'clock. No person will be allowed to accept an office who has already her maximum number of points.

EXTENSION WORK GROWS

One Hundred and Seven Enrolled in 119 Courses; English Work Leads

The month of March showed an increase of 25 per cent in the enrollment in correspondence courses of the University, according to Dr. Dan E. Clark, of the extension division.

One hundred and seven students were enrolled in 119 courses, compared to 74 enrolled in 85 courses for March of last year. The largest number of lesson papers ever received and corrected in one month, were also handled by the correspondence division last month. The majority of these were from students taking English. Education was second, both in registration and in the number of papers sent in.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT VISITS

M. S. Hamm, superintendent of the Roseburg public schools, was a visitor on the campus last week. Mr. Hamm is seeking teachers to fill the vacancies in his Roseburg staff.

ARCHITECTS WILL STUDY FIVE YEARS

New Requirements of Course In Effect Next Fall; Faculty Approves

A new five-year architecture course with the professional degree of bachelor of architecture instead of the present four-year course with a bachelor of science degree is the plan drawn up by Dean Ellis F. Lawrence and professors of the school of architecture and allied arts. It was approved by the faculty at their last meeting. The system will be instituted next year, with the beginning class, though this year's freshmen may graduate under the present plan if they desire. The use of the point system will be one of the features of the new arrangement.

"The five-year course with the professional degree means raising the standard of professional education very markedly," said Dean Lawrence, in outlining the change. "Then, too, the course will be more flexible, built to fit the particular training and capability of each man."

The use of the point system in design will put the work on a more individual basis, since men who have had previous experience or have special talent will not be held back by beginners. In the same way beginners are not at the disadvantage of being judged on the same problems as more experienced men.

Cornell college and the University of California have the five-year system. The Boston Institute of Technology starts next year on a similar plan. The course here at Oregon will attempt to lighten the annual load carried by the student, to gain a better relationship between cultured electives and professional subjects, and to sufficiently train in advance design to warrant the granting of the professional degree. The four-year course at present schedules 218 hours, while the first four years of the five-year course schedules from 190 to 204 hours. The five-year course offers, however, 21 professional subject hours not possible under the present plan, and a possible 237 to 249 total hours as compared to 218 with greater flexibility of electives.

The degree is awarded under eight rules drawn up for the school, an interesting feature of which is the presentation of a "Data Book" satisfactory to the dean each year, including the results of the student's research in design, history and ornament and practice.

LIBRARY HAS NEW CASE

Addition to be Installed for Shelf List; Douglass Desires New Stacks

M. H. Douglass, librarian, recently returned from a visit to Portland, where he spent some time investigating card catalog cases, with the result that in the near future a new 90 tray case will be installed at the Library for the shelf list. The present tray in use for the shelf list will be used for the extension of the dictionary catalog, the addition of new books to the library in the past making the change necessary.

Mr. Douglass states that the library is hoping that within the next two weeks a decision may be reached by University officials which will permit the building of two new stacks for books in the library, which the increased number of books demands.

DANCING CLASSES START

will be closed the latter part of this week, so those wishing to sign up must do so immediately. The class is open to upperclassmen, as well as freshmen and sophomores who are taking the work for credit. The classes meet at 11 and 2 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

This type of work was put in the schools for the first time at the University of Wisconsin about six years ago, but this is the first year the work has been given here.

A demonstration will be given by the class on Thursday and Saturday, the tenth and twelfth of May in Guild Hall Theatre. About 36 girls will take part in the production, which will be given to show the type of work. There will be a special number "Dream Gate" by members of the class. Senior physical education majors in the course called "Theory of Dancing" are managing the production, and ticket sales will begin about the last week in April.

About the third week in May dancing troupes for honors will be held. Points made in this trypout will count toward sweaters given by the Women's Athletic Association.

Rebec Praises Emerald in Letter from Paris

The following paragraph is quoted from a personal letter to a faculty member from Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, who is now in Europe. He writes from Paris:

"I was pleased to get the Emerald. As I must have told you last year, and as I told some of the staff themselves, the Emerald has undergone a remarkable evolution in the last few years. Making all allowance for the deficiencies and immaturities which you yourself mentioned, I have felt it was now the best American college paper that it was my privilege to come in contact with. The boys and girls are using some mind and heart in it; and—what, in spite of the fashion of sophistication, youth ought not to be ashamed of—they are showing some glow of intellectual and ideal ardor and aspiration."

REGISTRATION TOTAL 49 HIGHER THAN IN WINTER

Incomplete Figures Show 2397 Enrolled; April 21 Last Day Open For Entrance

Although final figures on registration have not been compiled yet, the total number of students registering up until yesterday noon was 2397. This is an increase over the winter term of 49 since only 2348 were registered in the University during that quarter.

Nineteen students have enrolled for the spring term who were here in the fall but were not registered during the winter term. Saturday, April 21 is the last day of registration.

Contrary to the hopes of some, there will be no holiday on April 17 and classes will continue as usual; the only

COUPLE TELL ENGAGEMENT

Betrothal News Broken by Overturning of Tiny Baskets Containing Flowers

The announcement of the engagement of Marvel Skeels and Del Oberteuffer at the Pi Beta Phi house Sunday was the cause of a prolonged celebration which began when the tiny pink baskets containing forget-me-nots were tipped over and the cards concealed beneath them revealed, and lasted until late that night.

Because of the prominent place that each has held on the campus, the engagement was especially interesting.

Marvel Skeels is a senior in the school of music, a member of the Glee Club, Mu Phi Epsilon, Kwama, and was awarded the Gerlinger Cup in her Junior year. Del Oberteuffer, Beta Theta Pi, a well known trackman, will probably be always best known in the role of Yell King Obie. Mr. Oberteuffer is a senior in the department of physical education, is a member of To-Ko-Lo, Phi Delta Kappa and Friars.
