

INSTRUCTORS TO LEAVE UNIVERSITY

Mr. and Mrs. Solve Will Study At University of Michigan After This Year

Melvin T. Solve, '18, instructor in rhetoric, and Mrs. Norma Dobie Solve, '14, instructor in English literature, are leaving the University at the end of the present school year to take up studies at the University of Michigan, where Mr. Solve has been awarded a fellowship. These vacancies, together with other changes that are being made in the personnel of the teaching staff of the University, will necessitate some shifting of present instructors and the appointment of others.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Solve are well known at Oregon, since the former has been an instructor at the institution since the war, while Mrs. Solve is now teaching her fifth year in the English literature department. Mrs. Solve is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Scroll and Script and Phi Beta Kappa, and while a student was secretary of the student body and Varsity debater.

While attending the University Professor Solve wrote for the Emerald, usually covering dramatics for the paper, then a weekly publication. He also sang with the Men's Glee club one season. He is a member of Sigma Upsilon and Phi Beta Kappa. Early in 1918 and before the close of his senior year he entered the army, was assigned to the Ninety-first division and sent to France, where he saw active service during September and October of that year.

Returning to the University after the war, he took up his duties as instructor in rhetoric till 1920. In that year he was awarded a fellowship by the American Scandinavian Foundation of New York, and spent the school year, 1920-21, in Christiania, Norway. He came back once more to Oregon in 1921 where he has been until the present time.

When asked his plans for the future, Mr. Solve said he was going to stay at Michigan until he had obtained his degree of doctor of philosophy, if it took him one or ten years. He was certain that he would be there next year.

No definite plans have been made to fill the vacancies left by the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Solve. Due to the growth of the school and other causes a number of changes will have to be made before the opening of school next fall.

SWEETSER BROADCASTS TALK ON WILD FLOWERS

Botany Professor Lectures to Portland Audubon Society; Exhibit Held First Week in April

While in Portland, in connection with the exhibition of the Portland Audubon Society, Professor A. R. Sweetser, of the University of Oregon botany department, broad-casted a message from the Oregonian broadcasting station. He spoke on "The Preservation of Wild Flowers." Reports have come that the lecture was heard as far south as Roseburg.

At the Audubon Society exhibit, held in the Portland museum the first week in April, Professor Sweetser lectured on the "Mountain Flowers of the Northwest." A large collection of wild flowers from all parts of the state were sent and the exhibit attracted many people.

Miss Ruth Sanborn, senior in the department, had on display examples of lichen dyeing which has been her botany problem this year. She has stained small pieces of cotton, wool, and silk cloths with this vegetable dye and has secured a variety of colors ranging from a pale yellow to a dark brown. Water color paintings of Oregon wild flowers by Mrs. A. R. Sweetser were shown.

THRILLING DRAMA AT CASTLE

Thrills come thick and fast throughout "Scars of Jealousy," at the Castle today, Thomas H. Ince's stirring drama of the old and new South. A strong love interest has been effectively interwoven with the story of the fight against environment which is waged by two boys.

The scenes of "Scars of Jealousy" are laid in the mountains of northern Alabama and depict southern mountaineer life as it was lived in the days of feud and outlawry. A big climax, a lynching gang and a great forest fire—actual "shots" of the mighty conflagration—are a few of the many thrills.
