Lemon Punch's Future

Although Hammer and Coffin is responsible for the Lemon Punch it really gains its support as the University's comic magazine. Lemon Punch cannot continue to be published under this arrangement.

Lemon Punch has gained a place on the campus in its three years of existence. It is clear that there is a place for humor and that Lemon Punch will fill that place, if properly handled.

There is no reason why LemonPunch should not be taken under the protecting wing of the associated students. The magazine would be far better.

Sweaters for Bandmen

For the first time for a number of years Oregon has had a satisfactory band. In rain or shine the varsity has had music for rallies. And all of it has been done with very little incentive in the way of awards.

Vermont Has a Dean Straub

"Fifty-four years of continuous service in one institution gives Dean George Henry Perkins, of the University of Vermont, a record for active teaching the equal of which probably cannot be found in any American college today."

Since the senior class has contributed to the Student Union fund, there should be no delay among the members in signing up the cards. It is not necessary to make payments for some time.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Fourteen Entries Listed; More Expected; Score Cards Must be in by Thursday, April 26

The golf tournament, being staged at the Country Club, has attracted about fourteen entries and at least five or six more are expected before the end of the week.

The committee expects all score cards to be in by Thursday evening, so that the two-somes can be started on Friday. The semi-final and final flights will probably be finished by a week from Friday.

Golf seems to be making rapid progress in the campus sport world and will soon be crowding other minor sports in popularity. Besides the regular golf classes held in the men's gym, many others are taking interest in the work and the future may see golf put on an extensive basis.

CONTEST FOR HAT IS KEEN

Student Writing Best Advertisement To Be Rewarded by Wade Bros.

Who will win the Stetson? This is the question that will be foremost in the minds of quite a number of University students until after 3:00 o'clock on Friday, April 27. This is the proposition. At the time mentioned W. F. G. Thacher, professor of journalism, another member of the faculty, who is yet to be selected, and representatives of Wade Bros. clothing store, will decide who has written the best advertisement for Stetson hats.

The contest is open to all students in the University who are interested in advertising or who think they can write an advertisement, and is not limited to those taking the course in advertising given by Professor Thacher.

Later in the term other contests will be conducted and prizes consisting of ties, shirts, and various other useful articles will be given.

The winning advertisement for the Stetson hat will be run in Tuesday's Emerald and the name of the lucky man will be announced. Honorable mention will be given to those submitting the second and third best ads.

HAROLD CLIMBS HEAVENWARD

"For a thousand dollars I'd climb to Heaven and hang by my heels from the Pearly Gates!"

And all for the love of a maid, because that is just about what Harold Lloyd does, only it's a twelve story department store he climbs in "Safety Last," his new seven-reel Pathecomedy which is being shown now at the Heilig Theatre. The maid in the story is Mildred Davis, of course, and the perils Harold fearlessly overcomes for her sake furnish more excitement and laughs than have ever been registered before on the screen.

"STRUTTIN' ALONG" COMING

The tide of negro entertainments that have been overwhelming eastern centers of culture, will reach this city on Tuesday when Mamie Smith brings a company of 75 dusky singers, dancers and comedians to the Heilig theatre. "Struttin' Along" is a revue fashioned along the lines of one which had a two years' run in New York.

SMOKES AND SMOKERS

Blue-law advocates and reformers will rejoice over the figures just published showing the number of men in the freshman class at the University who smoke. As has been the case for years past, the percentage of the first-year men who smoke is lower than that of preceding years.

This may be explained by the increasing amount of interest taken in athletics in college and the preparatory schools. Athletes seldom smoke because they have been taught that smoking lowers their efficiency.

But before the nonsmokers' leagues and antitobacco associations become too enthusiastic over these figures, we suggest that they hold a census among members of the senior class and see what percentage is there.

There are many habits which young men can acquire that are worse than smoking. If that were the only vice which they possessed, all worries for their welfare could cease. The habit is acquired by many after coming to college, not because they enjoy smoking, but because they do not wish to appear odd among their fellows.

The reformers may feel encouraged, for each year the percentage of nonsmokers among the freshmen grows larger, and if this continues it will not be many years until a class of nonsmokers enters the University.—Ohio State Lantern.

BUSINESS SCHOOL TO PICNIC NEXT TUESDAY

Outing Planned as Annual Event for Commerce Majors; Special Train Will Transport Excursionists

All aboard for the first annual May-day picnic of the school of business administration.

At a luncheon held at the Anchorage at noon Tuesday, members of the four honor societies of the school of business administration and of the University chamber of commerce, completed final plans for the inauguration of an annual picnic, which will be the school event of the year for students in this branch of the University.

A program of games, contests, and other stunts is being prepared by the committee in charge of the affair, which promises, that, after an early picnic supper there will be dancing in the hall at the scene of the outing. The party will be back before 10:30.

The excursion is sponsored by the school of business administration, and is under the direction of the commerce honor societies, Pan Xi, Alpha Kappa Psi, Beta Gamma Sigma, Beta Alpha Xi, Phi Beta Kappa, and the University chamber of commerce. Ticket sale will begin tomorrow, when tickets at one dollar each will be sold to prospective picnicers. All those who participate have the privilege of inviting a friend to share in the festivities.

Col. W. S. Snelair of the military department has agreed to allow the men who have drill practice on Tuesday afternoon to attend the picnic and make up the drill at a later time, thereby removing an obstacle that would interfere with the free enjoyment of the occasion. In all, it is expected that between 400 and 500 will attend.

BARRIE PLAY SCORES SUCCESS FIRST NIGHT

Company Members Display Ability in Heavy Roles

With people taken to seats by Scotch lassies, the orchestra playing "Oh, Ye'll Tak the High Road," and "The Blue Bells of Scotland," and other Scotch ballads, "The Professor's Love Story," by James Barrie, played to its first house last night.

The whimsical Barrie has once again received the applause of a sympathetic audience and the University Company has once more received the approbation of enthusiastic friends and new critics. Mr. Reddie in his comedy role of the Professor did that absent-minded, lovable gentleman on whose love affairs the whole plot hinges, with the finesse that characterizes all his work.

Lorna Coolidge was charming as Lucy White, and was as fine a Scotch lass as she had been an Irish one in "Come Out of the Kitchen." Her acting is individual and always captivating.

Star Norton deserves a large measure of praise in her role of Effie, the little servant. Claire Keeney and Ed Keech as her two lovers did some very fine character work, much appreciated by the audience.

Art Johnson and Wade Kerr as the doctors were very amusing. Mabel Gilham, picturesque in quaint costume, was Lady Gilding, and carried her part well. The dowager, played by Patricia Novlan, was coquetish and very funny.

Vern Fudge did his usual fine comedy acting in the part of an English fop with an absurd mustache, a queer strut and not much in the way of brains.

The play will appear tonight and Saturday night also.

SCORCHED VEST CASE ENDS

Erring Tailor Replaces Burned Garment and Hatchet is Buried

The gavel won't go Rap! Rap! Rap! in the justice of the peace court next Monday. The curious court hangers-on won't have the pleasure of hearing the airing of the sprinter-vest-tailor case, in which the former demanded eight kopecks of the latter for mutilating the party of the second part by trying to eradicate an ink spot with a hot iron.

The war is over with none of the contestants suffering, with the exception of the second party, who was scorched, and who has been replaced by a similar article. The hatchet has been buried and the court is probably looking for a new case to fit in the breach.

The well-known sprinter is happy again and now in condition to accept as many formal dates as possible. The old soup-and-fish are again intact. The tailor saw the light and the settlement was made out of court.

Moral—Sequel to first moral—When money is involved, study the case and choose the least expensive.

LARGE CLASS TO GRADUATE

Easterners Are Chosen as Commencement and Baccalaureate Speakers

Although over 390 seniors have already applied for diplomas for the coming June, the registrar's office puts the number of graduating seniors at a conservative estimate of 350 to 365 at the most. At this estimate the class will be larger than any yet graduated from the University.

Dr. Henry B. Ward, professor of zoology at the University of Illinois and national president of Sigma Xi, honorary science society, will be the commencement speaker June 25, and Dr. Edward Ellery, dean of the faculty of Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., and national secretary of Sigma Xi, will

A musical program will be a part of the evening's entertainment as well as the announcement of the returns from the University of Washington debate which is being held at Seattle at the same hour.

Debate coaches, judges and members of the men's and women's varsity teams will be the guests of the evening.
