

GEOLOGY SENIORS ASSIST IN SURVEY

Research Work By Graduates On Local Material Form Subjects For Thesis

Several graduate students and students of graduate standing as well as professors of the geological department are doing field research work.

Hubert Schenck is preparing his master's thesis on research in the Eugene quadrangle. The U. S. Geological Survey about 1882 divided the entire United States into quadrangles—each of which is to be eventually mapped in two ways—topographically and geologically. This is such an extensive work that in the 40 years since the work was begun but one-third of the country has been mapped. The Eugene quadrangle covers a large area, north beyond Co-burg, east through Springfield, west beyond College Crest, and south almost as far as Spencer's Butte. Schenck is compiling his new research statistics as including work that others have done. His thesis will probably be published as University work and perhaps later in an interstate magazine. This quadrangle mapping aids in mining and in locating oil wells, in that it conforms or contradicts statements of engineers who are instrumental in the beginning of the mines.

Ian Campbell is writing a thesis on the geology of the Cascades. Glenn Walkley is getting information on problems of economic and scientific importance. He is working under Dr. E. T. Hodge, who also is conducting researches.

Seminar Work Done

Paul Cook is investigating clay deposits west of Eugene. This is not for a thesis but has been reported in Seminar.

Another student, Guy Armantrout, a graduate of the school of commerce, is studying the physical and economic geography of Oregon. Dr. W. D. Smith, who is working with him on the various phases of this study, is preparing a bulletin and whatever is published of Armantrout's will be in the bulletin.

Dr. E. L. Packard is specializing on cretaceous geology, which he is studying near Ashland and Medford, where he will have his summer camp, this year. Packard is an authority on cretaceous work, a highly special phase of geology.

Dr. Smith is not only making a complete survey of the physical and economic geology of Oregon but is doing special work for private concerns on the economic development of parts of eastern Oregon.

Minerals Are Studied

The work requiring the most study on Dr. Smith's part is that of the industrially important mineral supplies in the Far East in connection with economic, social and political questions in that part of the world. Dr. Smith spent 12 years in that part and has made one report to the state superintendent in Washington. His article, which he is now elaborating and may soon publish, is "The Strategy of Minerals in the Far East."

mitted for two years. Rudd made the staff of the Emerald the first year he was on the campus and last year was daily news editor. He has also been a reporter on the Pendleton East Oregonian. Rudd is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Sayre Is Active

Paul Sayre, the third man in the race for vice-president, is treasurer of the junior class, former president of the University Co-op board of directors, member of To-Ko-Lo and of the Oregon Knights. Sayre has been active on Home-coming committees and is handling the finances of the junior class for the Junior week-end activities this year. He lives in Friendly Hall. The other men who seek a birth on the A. S. U. O. as a vice-president are Frank Carter and Haddon Rockey.

Adah Harkness, who last night announced her candidacy for secretary of the student body, a position already sought after by Marcella Berry and Velma Farnham, is secretary of the junior class and a member of Kwama and of the Oregon staff. She has been on the varsity tennis team during the past three years. Miss Harkness is a resident of Susan Campbell Hall.

Art Rosebraugh, who late last night announced he was in the race for a place on the student council, is yell leader, member of the Order of the O, Oregon Knights, and of Phi Delta Phi, honorary law fraternity. Rosebraugh is also a member of the track team, and as varsity yell leader is a member of the student council. He is a member of Sigma Chi.

Coulter to Run

Lurline Coulter, the second to announce her candidacy for the position of senior woman on the student council, is president of Zeta Kappa Psi, national honorary debate fraternity, and has been varsity debater during the past three years. She is on the decoration committee of the Junior prom this year. Miss Coulter lives in Susan Campbell Hall.

Jack Myers, the first man to announce his candidacy for yell king, is a member of the student council, has been manager of varsity baseball for two years, manager of the Homecoming bureau in the education building.

OREGON JESTER, MYSTERY MAN OF JUNIOR CLASS, WILL APPEAR TODAY

At exactly 9:50 this morning, a prominent member of the Junior class, masked and disguised generally will appear on 13th street. At 10 o'clock a booth will open in front of the library to receive guesses as to the identity of the mysterious man, or the "Oregon Jester" as he will be called.

The first successful guesser will receive a reward of $10, provided he is in the audience at the Heilig theatre Thursday night, when the Varsity Vanities will be staged.

A second appearance of the Jester will be made at 10:50 today and he will probably show his mysterious self on the campus once or twice tomorrow. All the information concerning the much guessed of figure is that he is interested in athletics—which is not found particularly enlightening, according to those who have been puzzling over the matter.

Considerable interest was aroused in the affair last Saturday when about a hundred juniors were gathered on the Anchorage balcony for lunch, which followed the work of erecting the temporary bleachers for the canoe fete. Ted Baker, manager of the Vanities show, announced that the Jester was in the crowd. All the men present were examined closely and their eyes especially well inspected.

Everyone seemed to have a private theory about the matter, which they are sure will be worth $10 and indications are that there will be a considerable race for the booth when it opens this morning. The time the guess is turned in will be stamped on the envelope containing the guess. On the outside of the envelope the contestant must write his name and telephone number. The envelopes are to be opened at a meeting of the entire Vanities committee and the prize will be awarded at the show Thursday night.

Interest in the show itself is growing daily, due largely to the fact that parade for two years, and is director of the Junior prom this year. He is one of the directors of the University Co-op and is president of the California Club. Myers has been a member of the yell staff this year. He is a member of To-Ko-Lo and Phi Delta Theta.

Herbert Brooks, out for junior man on the student council, is a member of the Oregon Knights, is on the varsity baseball squad and played with the freshman basketball team. He has also played freshman tennis. He is a member of Kappa Delta Phi.

Mautz Contests McPike

Bob Mautz, who contests Lea McPike for sophomore man of the student council, was captain of the freshman football and basketball teams this year. He is on the freshman track squad. Mautz is pledged to To-Ko-Lo and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Two of the peculiar situations in the political line-up two days before nominations is that there is only one man for president and no one seeks the place of senior woman on the executive council. Practically all the presidential possibilities have announced themselves for minor offices and the campus now eagerly awaits the dark horses.

most important do-nut activities. No matter what the strength of its team, each organization participates in at least three contests. This arrangement of the schedule gives an opportunity to the coach to become acquainted with all the members of the teams. By the present system a team after losing the first one of two games may get back into the running by winning their third schedule. This gives every house a fair chance to show its ability. The schedule has been worked out this year in advance so that every team that wins or loses goes into a certain place on the chart prepared by Bohler. All will know exactly where they stand and can work out their own strategy from the chart.

P. E. Men May Also Play

This season physical ability men and also men taking general gym work may substitute do-nut playing and practice for their gym hours, according to Harry Scott. "Physical ability men may substitute do-nut baseball and sign the baseball sheet three times a week. Men in regular gym work will take baseball in addition to their class practice work except on the days they play games or take part in an organized practice. At these times they may get credit for attendance by reporting to their gym instructors provided their names appear on the accredited list of players from their house or organization. Only 12 men will be permitted on the list. After a team is eliminated or the season is finished P. A. men must report back to the gym and sign up for other work. These lists must be kept up to date by the team captains and handed into the office in the men's gymnasium."

JEWELRY AGENT WANTED

A request for aid in securing a representative to sell class jewelry, commencement announcements, etc., has been received by the appointment bureau from the Jaecard Jewelry company of Kansas City. Anyone interested in the offer should see the appointment in the education building.

nearly a hundred well known students are taking part and that much of the music has been written by campus musicians especially for the show.

Practices are being held daily and dramatic critics who have seen the rehearsals are enthusiastic over the results. Tickets have been placed on sale at the various campus organizations and will be available at the Co-op. These tickets can be reserved at the box office of the Heilig any time after 10 Wednesday morning. Prices for the show have been announced at $1 for the first 15 rows of the lower floor; 75c for the last three rows of the lower floor and the balcony; and 50c for the gallery.

adornment in many instances. That is bad, very bad, not only for the cap, but for the bodily comfort of the individual owner. Many of the little kelties resemble the celebrated fig leaf of Eden's paradise. Others have the appearance of a Chinese yen with a hole in the top for ventilation. That is bad again for there is nothing in a freshman's dome to ventilate. When he comes to the University, his head is an absolute vacuum and remains that way until his reincarnation at the springtime festival.

Now it behooves us, who have gone through the baptismal waters, who have suffered the merciless bites of the Order of the O willow, to warn these freshmen that they must have a whole-souled and blemishless bonnet before they submit to the last sacred rites of ablation. It is necessary that a fatted bonnet, and not one with its ribs protruding, be sacrificed to the god of tradition.

It would be well if the youngsters who are soon to shake off their freshman scales would heed the warning and purchase a complete and unscarred bonnet before the role is called at the tar barrel.

stalled toward the end of the spring term, at the last meeting of the year. Usually a luncheon is given by the old officers in honor of the new ones, and this year the custom will probably be followed out.

Margaret Scott, in charge of the polls, has chosen as her assistants, Ellen McVeigh, Margaret Beatie, Dorothy Cushman, Elizabeth Griggs, Velma Farnham, Marjorie Flegel, Geraldine Root, Virginia Pearson and Mary Alexander. There will be two assistants on duty each hour of the day.

ELAINE COOPER GOES TO RELIGIOUS CONVENTION

Oregon Graduate Re-elected President of State Christian Endeavor at The Dalles Meet

Elaine Cooper, graduate assistant in the public speaking department of the University, has just returned from The Dalles, where she attended the annual state Christian Endeavor convention held there the past week-end and where she was re-elected president of that organization. The week-end of April 19 to 22, she attended a convention of the same society in Ashland, Oregon. These two conventions are known as the "twin" conventions of the Christian Endeavor and every year one is held in each of the northern and southern districts of the state. Miss Cooper presided over both meetings as she has been president of the society since last September.

Miss Cooper will go as the official delegate from Oregon to Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the international convention she will attempt to have the from July 4 to 9. While at this convention she will attempt to have the World's Christian Endeavor convention held in Portland, Oregon, in 1925. As a state delegate Miss Cooper is a trustee of the united society of the Endeavor, and will officially invite the organization to convene in Portland in 1925. In connection with her going to Des Moines, Miss Cooper plans to remain in the east and take up graduate work at either Northwestern University or the University of Chicago.

OREGON MEETS PACIFIC THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Oregon men are members of the Pacific squad, Blackburn and Amburn, infielder and pitcher. Both men were at Oregon during their freshman year and were active in athletics. Amburn has a good arm and worlds of English and the varsity batsmen can expect to face him in the opening session on Thursday.

The rest of the invading club is well balanced offensively and defensively and can be counted upon to extend the home team to the limit.

What do they mean "Senior Wrangler"?

YOU may not have met one of those dear old boys,—Oxonian stuff, what, what?—but our idea of a senior wrangler is a '23 man trying to work up a lather with the wrong kind of shaving cream.

There's no "wrangling" necessary to get a lather with Williams' Shaving Cream. Squeeze out a spendthrift's dab or a tightwad's dab—it's all the same. Either way you get a big, efficient lather that softens the beard right down to the base of every hair.

And best of all, this big Williams' lather has a decidedly beneficial effect on your skin. No complexion soap could do more for you than Williams' does every time you shave. Get a tube of Williams' today and begin giving your face this helpful care.

Notice the hinge cap. You can't lose it—and the tube hangs up!
