

WOMEN REPORT ON W.A.A. CONVENTION

Oregon Delegates Return From Meeting At Palo Alto

The health of the American college girl in athletics, was the main issue of the Western Sectional Athletic conference of American college women, held at Stanford University the past week. Rigid standardized training rules for participants in athletic events were adopted by the convention. A report, standardizing the events for women's meets, drawn up by a committee headed by Miss Catherine Winslow, former member of the staff of physical education department at Oregon, and now at the University of Idaho, was accepted. It was also voted that a recommendation be made to the national association that junior colleges be admitted to the conference as associate members.

At a joint meeting of the conference with the Western Society of College Directors of Physical Education for Women, which Miss Florence Alden attended as director of the physical education department of Oregon, a paper on the cooperation of student bodies in furthering women's athletics, was read by Florence Jagger, official delegate from the local Woman's Athletic Association. "In the discussion which followed the reading of this paper," said Georgia Benson, Oregon's other delegate, "it was evident that the student body of the University of Oregon was making greater strides towards furthering women's athletics than any of the larger colleges of the coast."

The delegates were entertained at a banquet in the Student Union building; a barbecue on the Stanford campus, and enjoyed a sight seeing tour about the campus. On their trip north, they visited the Berkeley campus, and here also, visited the Student Union building. Miss Benson acted as secretary to the conference and Miss Jagger was official delegate from Oregon. The next conference will be held in 1925 at the southern branch of the University of California, but the national convention will be held next year at Berkeley.

SIGMA DELTA CHI ADDS THREE TO MEMBERSHIP

Publication of Miniature News Sheet to be Feature of Pre-Initiation: Formal Ceremonies Next Week

Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalism fraternity, yesterday afternoon announced the election of Lyle Janz, Randolph Kuhn, and Lester Turnbaugh to active membership. All three men are majors in the school of journalism.

Janz is business manager of the campus daily, but is also active in the writing game. Kuhn is advertising service manager for the Emerald and is interested in trade journalism, at present considered one of the major fields in the profession. He also assists Prof. W. F. G. Thacher in class work. Turnbaugh started writing for the Emerald for the first time this year, but soon won his spurs and recognition, and is now considered one of the most efficient members of the reportorial staff.

One of the features of the neophytes' pre-initiation obligations this year will be the publication of a miniature news sheet to be mailed to all the Oregon high schools. This paper, to be patterned after the Homecoming Winnagen, will tell the high school students of the state about Junior week-end. It is probable that the editing of such a bulletin will be a feature of the local chapter's spring initiation in the future.

The six men, who are to be formally initiated into the Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi next week are Monte Byers, Alfred Erickson, and Ted Janes, who were elected last week, and the three men who were elected yesterday.

CHIMNEY OF UNIVERSITY HEATING PLANT WILL GO

Scaffolding Up, But Razing Won't Start Until Warmer Weather; May Trade Boilers in on New Ones

If anyone has a pet aversion for Irish bouquets, it might be well to shun the vicinity of the architectural building during the next few days, for the old brick chimney towering above the heating plant, is to be razed soon. Four boilers will be removed from the room below, which connects the architectural and sociology building, and the room will be remodeled for other purposes, according to Mr. Fisher, superintendent of grounds.

Work on the stack will be rushed as fast as possible.

Scaffolding has already been placed around the chimney but not until the weather is a little warmer, will actual tearing down begin, for the removal of the four boilers will leave but one to heat the buildings on the campus the rest of the school term. This boiler is in a room in the sociology building and will not interfere with the reconstruction work.

Mr. Fisher does not believe that any decision has been made as to the disposal of the old boilers, but he thinks it possible that they may be turned in on boilers for the new plant, which is to be constructed this summer on the ground where the extension division building now stands. The extension building will in turn be moved to the lot next to the infirmary.

WASHINGTON CLUB ELECTS

Plans Are Made for Annual Picnic; All Washingtonians Urged to Join

At a meeting of the Washington club held last night in the Commerce building, officers for the coming year were elected. Ted Gillenwaters was made president of the organization; Mary Brandt, vice-president; Virginia West, secretary; and Bud Hodgett, treasurer.

Definite plans were made for the annual picnic to be held the first week in June. There are approximately 90 students on the campus from Washington, all of whom are eligible for membership. All who wish to join are urged to affiliate immediately as the club has many things planned for the ensuing year.

YEARLING TOSSERS WILL MEET ROOKS

Annual Series Will Start At Corvallis; Bittner Will Be Back in Lineup

The frosh nine, which began the season last week-end by handing Columbia University a couple of neat trimmings, will face "bigger game" this week-end. They are scheduled to clash with the O. A. C. Rooks in the first of the annual four-game series at Corvallis, Friday and Saturday.

The frosh-rook games were not originally scheduled for so early in the season but the large number of athletic attractions in the Junior week-end programs at both Oregon and O. A. C., has caused the managers and coaches at both schools to change the order of events with regard to these tilts. Originally the first games were set for Corvallis May 12 and 13, which are the Junior week-end dates for the Aggies. The last two games were scheduled to form part of the Junior week-end program here, May 18 and 19, but now they have been set for a week later, May 25 and 26.

As aforesaid the rook games are "bigger games"—in the matter of the importance attached to winning them by the yearling tossers. Whether the rooks will prove harder opposition to beat than the Columbia nine is quite another matter. From comparative records it appears that the Oregon babes have quite an edge on the first year men of Corvallis. Columbia had not much difficulty in beating the rooks last week in the one game they played them, while only in the first game with the frosh did the Portlanders have any chance of winning out. The visitors garnered only seven runs altogether in the two games with the freshman, whereas they ran up a total of 12 counters in only one contest at Corvallis with the rooks. This makes it appear that the rook pitchers are not so hard to hit. But outside of this all too unreliable comparison, it is likely that the Lemon-Yellow yearlings will have their hands full this week-end and both games should be close.

One bright ray in the frosh camp is the news that Bittner, reliable second-sacker who sprained his ankle last Saturday, will be back in the fray by the end of the week. His batting and fielding is a large part of the frosh team and his loss would have been a hard one to fill. This leaves the line-up intact unless there are further injuries before Friday. Coach Bohler intends to send the entire frosh squad to the Aggie stronghold.

FACULTY MEETING POSTPONED

The faculty meeting scheduled for next Saturday has been postponed to May 9, on account of the absence of President Campbell.

In the Spring a Student's Fancy Turns to Thoughts of Outdoor Sports

There is no sport that so splendidly meets the spring demand for action and pleasure than tennis. Spending some time each day on the courts is as good a tonic as any medic could prescribe.

Campus tennis enthusiasts have been hearty in their praise of the Co-op's fine selection of tennis goods this year. We have a standard line of Wright and Ditson and Spalding goods that is complete enough to suit any taste.

A beautiful selection of rackets is here for your inspection; we have these standard rackets in all weights and styles at prices ranging from $2.50 to $15.00.

Our tennis balls will add to the efficiency and joy of your game—for they are live, official 1923 stock.

We have many other tennis accessories that are convenient for the sportsman. Racket presses preserve the racket and assure the player of having a better game.

Our line of tennis shoes is complete in sizes and of a high quality that pleases those who realize the need of good footwear.

The "Oregon" racket covers in green felt with yellow lettering make attractive and convenient covers. For those who use the utmost care with their equipment we recommend the water-proof cover; it is of rubber and absolutely water tight.

Oregon Pillows

You haven't really seen our Oregon pillow until you see this beautiful selection at the Co-op—it surpasses anything we have ever shown in this line. These pillows are highly artistic and practical. They are being shown in a nice assortment of styles. They come with leather seals and lettering, without the lettering or without the seals—any style that you care for at prices ranging from $2.25 to $6.50.

We also have some lovely Oregon pennants in deep colors and novel lettering.

On a picnic or on the race it is the little things that add to the pleasure. For this reason it is wise to stock up with cigarettes or candies before going on a trip. The Co-op line of bars and tobaccos is always fresh and good and convenient for you to procure.
