

JUNIOR WEEK-END COMMITTEE HARD AT WORK ON PLANS

Event Promises To Be Best In History of School; May Add Some New Features

CLASS WANT FETE QUEEN

From Will Be Colorful Treat; Special Programs Edited By Six Neophytes

By Art Budd

Working like a great, well oiled machine, the junior class committee which has been commissioned to put across the 1923 Junior week-end, has its plans well under way for the greatest event of its kind in the history of the University.

Doug Farrell, general chairman, has been working with his staff for weeks to perfect plans and has had, as one of the main ideas the desire to put novelty into each division of the program. "We do not want to do away with the usual successful and tried events," he said at a directorate meeting last night, "but we do want to put a new feature into every Junior week-end event in order that our part in the history of the Junior week-ends may be beneficial to the idea of this activity as a whole."

He has been successful and through the hearty cooperation of his committee heads is able to promise the student body that the coming festivities will contain plenty of new life.

To Have Queen of Fete
One of the biggest innovations going into effect is the election of a canoe fete queen from the girls of the junior class. Ed Haney of the canoe fete committee has this matter in hand and will present the plan of nomination within a short time.

It is probable that the men's houses will choose a girl from the organization with which they are paired off in the canoe fete lottery. These girls will probably be voted upon in a public election at which every student will have a vote. The number of votes cast for any one candidate will not be announced in order that any embarrassment for the candidates who run low in the list may be avoided. Eddie Edlund, the chairman of the fete, has been working with other members of the committee and after consulting with faculty and students generally, it was decided to carry out the queen idea.

Entries In By Saturday
Names of entries in the canoe fete must be turned in to Haney by Saturday night, according to the edict of the directorate. Judges are being selected and work will start soon on the junior float, which will carry the canoe fete queen on the night of that colorful event. It has been ruled that only $18 may be spent by each house instead of the $25 as previously announced.

Randall Jones, head of the decorations committee for the Junior prom, reports that he has one of the most striking and elaborate schemes of decoration ever seen on the campus. He has had the detailed work of preparing the decorations going on for nearly a week and juniors may be expected to be called upon for assistance between now and the staging of the annual dance. His committee is made up of Mildred La Compe, Lurline Coulter, Marcella Berry, Ed Kirtley, Bill Wil-

Campus Pinochle Championship Won by Hard-Boiled Geologist

Karl VonderAhe is pinochle champion of the campus by virtue of four wins to the two of Ian Campbell and the one of Edd Haney. The husky rock artists spent a live five hour tilt trying to settle the question as to who was the card shark in the tournament, but VonderAhe, almost consistently bidding on hearts, won out. Bidding ran high, set-backs were frequent and brilliant playing marked the tournament. A beautiful inlaid cigarette case was awarded to the winner. The tournament started in the winter term. Some 35 took part in the games.

At 7:45 the seal of a new deck of cards was broken, and the rock artists, garbed as flashy gunman and forty-niner, started action, after listening to the injunctions of the honorary chairman, Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department and Don Zimmerman, president of the G. and M. society. Rules prohibiting observers from spitting tobacco juice in the left eye of the honorary umpire and preventing the repetition of swearing were

SENIOR FOUNTAIN TO BUBBLE AGAIN

Spring Ducking Parties Are Now Possible

At last the fountain of the class of 1913 will be spouting again. This is a sure sign that spring is, or nearly is, here. H. M. Fisher with one of his assistants spent an hour or two yesterday afternoon in scrubbing out the fountain and putting it in shape ready for actual use today. The fountain is turned off during the winter months and when the milder weather comes, it is cleaned and used as an added beautifier to the campus.

With a stiff bristled brush in hand, the assistant applied a white cleansing powder to the bristles and went to it. From lack of use during the past few months, the drain and feeding pipes have become somewhat clogged with sediment so long wires were employed in clearing the leaves, twigs, and debris away.

Mr. Fisher stated that before long he intends to drain the fountain, allow it to dry out and paint it with a waterproof white. Until good weather is certain, he will not be able to do this, however.

A. S. U. O. MEETING HEARS FOUR NEW AMENDMENTS

Vote To Be Taken on Proposals At Election Wednesday

Four proposed amendments to the constitution of the A. S. U. O. were read in the spring term student body meeting in Villard hall yesterday, and will be voted on next Wednesday at the time of the general student election.

The first one read provides for placing Lemon Punch, campus humorous magazine, on the basis of a student body publication. Under the provisions of the amendment the editor of the campus humorous publication would be selected by the student council. The editor and the manager would each receive $200 a year for their services. Any amount left over at the end of the school year after all bills have been paid would be divided one-eighth to the editor, the same amount to the manager, one-fourth divided among the members of the staff, and the remaining half to be turned over to the treasurer of the student body.

Other amendments provide for the awarding of letters to swimmers who have earned at least eight points during one season, sweaters to members of the University band as a reward for one year's work, and that authorizing the incorporation of the student body, one of the clauses making it possible for the student body to build and maintain a student union building. All amendments will be printed in detail in the Emerald early next week.

MU PHI CONCERT PLANNED

Campus Musicians Will Give Program In Methodist Church

The annual concert of Mu Phi Epsilon women's honorary music fraternity, will be given next Sunday at 8 p. m., in the Methodist church.

A full evening of music is promised with the following program: Marion Lawrence, a senior student of organ, will render several selections; Joanna James will give a vocal solo; Alberta Potter and Jane O'Reilly will play a double violin number; Bernice Altstock and Marvel Skeels will give a vocal duet, and there will be several selections by the Mu Phi chorus.

PINK-EYED RATS HELP ZOOLOGISTS STUDY HEREDITY

Transmission of Traits Seen In Research Carried On By Nichol and Eby

MANY ANIMALS ARE USED

Inherited Characteristics Are Shown by Experiments In Immunization

By Genevieve Jewell

Hundreds of pink-eyed rats, each with characteristic perforations or notches in his wee ears to distinguish him from his albino brothers, are used in an experiment being conducted by Walter Nichol, instructor in the zoology department, and Marvin Eby, senior in the department. The primary purpose is to study transmission of inherited characteristics. An attempt is being made in this relation to immunize the animals against their own tissues by injecting into their blood some particular tissues such as lens tissue in solution, to discover if an anti-body is then developed in the animal to destroy the injected lens tissue, and if so to what extent this anti-body effects the animal's own eyes and also what changes or defects may then occur in lenses of offspring.

The experiments are similar to those made by Prof. M. F. Guyer, of the University of Wisconsin, who, after years of experimentation on animals, has recently reached the conclusion that artificially induced resistance to infection may be transmitted to later generations.

Rabbits Are Immunized
Professor Guyer stated before the American Philosophical Society last week that by inoculating successive generations of rabbits with the germs of typhoid fever he was able to develop in their blood an anti-body which is transmitted from mother to offspring and renders them more immune to the disease. Rabbits of the fourth and fifth generation so treated may be made capable of overcoming an injection of 30 or 40 times as many typhoid bacilli as the original rabbits could stand. Whether such acquired immunity is also transmissible through the paternal side has not yet been determined.

"If the results of our future experiments bear out our present data, it becomes evident," stated Professor Guyer, "that when succeeding generations of rabbits are immunized to typhoid bacilli some modification is made in the immunity mechanism whereby individuals of later generations are capable of developing higher resistance against these germs than were the individuals of the first generation treated."

Torrey Praises Work

Dr. H. B. Torrey, head of the zoology department, in commenting on Professor Guyer's experiments, said, "Dr. Guyer is doing one of the most interesting pieces of work being carried on in the field of genetics. His experiments announced not long ago stimulated a number of researches, including those going on at present on the campus. Experimentation has been materially furthered by the new methods introduced by Professor Guyer and the opportunity the new methods give to examine the whole subject of inheritance of acquired characteristics."

Fowls are Subjects

Rabbits and fowls as well as rats are being used in the campus experiments. In a number of the rats lens tissue obtained from other rats or from animals having similar lens proteins, such as sheep, pigs or rabbits, is injected at certain intervals before breeding and during pregnancy. The rats already have had several injections but have not been bred. The other portion of the rats have been treated similarly with a solution of the vitreous humor of the eye.

Efforts are also being made to self-immunize hens against their own albumen. Likewise in some of the roosters the male germ cell has been injected in order to discover what effect may be produced by the possible anti-body on the fowls' own germ cells.

LUCAS TELLS ENGAGEMENT

Announcement was made of the engagement of Frieda Biehn and Marvin K. Lucas at the Delta Tau Delta house last night. Miss Biehn is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity at O. A. C. Lucas is a Varsity track man and a junior in the University. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Both of the young people are from Klamath Falls.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCED

Student Body Nominations Reveal Single Dark Horse

George Horsfall Is Fifth Man to Be Added to List of Candidates for Senior Job on A. S. U. O. Council

By Lester Turnbaugh

"Now for the fun." It was John MacGregor, president of the A. S. U. O., speaking as he brought down his gavel in the student body meeting yesterday in Villard hall and prepared to curb, if necessary, the stirring, eulogistic flights of oratory apropos of the annual nomination of student body officers for the ensuing year.

And fun it was, if laughter and hearty applause is any criterion. MacGregor or himself opened the nominations with humorous warnings to budding political campaign leaders to make their talks short and lively.

"I am going to warn any long-winded speakers that I will swing the gavel on them," he said. "Even though you have 'had a girl in mind' for two or three years, you can tell all her qualifications in three or four minutes."

Then began an intermittent flow of oratory consisting of brief resumes of the duties of the various student body officers, outbursts of eulogy, the extent and profundity of which is heard only at these annual occasions, and short bits of spicy humor; all of which was interspersed with vigorous applause.

Down through the long list of 34 nomination speeches the students waited with abated breath during the brief seconds of quiet that followed MacGregor's

"Are there any other nominations?" The dark horse—who would be the dark horse? Not till the nominees had been checked off half way down the list was that curiosity satisfied. George Horsfall, nominated for senior man on the student council, was the only dark horse of the day.

Time-worn expressions such as "we are particularly fortunate" and "I have a man in mind," or "We ought to consider very carefully" were not wanting in the nomination talks. Other expressions not quite so ancient were: "He stands on his own feet," or "He had the kind of Oregon spirit that existed before it was diluted by golf socks and knee trousers," and "He is not a tea-hound or a cake-eater."

Even the stately and supposedly serious seniors entered into the spirit of the occasion by playing grammar school pranks on each other. More than one end-seater suddenly found nothing to sit on but the floor, and wasted no time in sitting on it.

And despite woman's suffrage and the vast amount of talk relative to the part women play in politics and political campaigns, one nomination speech was given by a woman. Inez King, journalism senior, gave the last stir-

SOPHOMORE WOMEN TO MEET CLASS SWIMMERS

Life Saving Methods Will Be Feature of Splash

About 35 girls will participate in the swimming exhibition put on by the department of physical education for women tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Woman's building. All students, faculty members, and townspeople are invited to witness the program and a special section will be reserved to accommodate faculty and townspeople.

The performance will be in four parts with a swimming meet between the sophomore class champions and a picked team of swimmers from other classes. The events of this meet will be: one and three lengths free style for speed, plunge for distance, breast stroke, back, and relay races. Life saving methods will be demonstrated by members of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps. Four swimmers will stage a canoe tipping stunt followed by rescue work. Exhibition diving will also be a part of the program and water polo will be played in two seven minute halves by teams of seven girls each.

FRESHMAN NINE GOES TO CORVALLIS TODAY

Chances for Success in First of Two Game Series with Rooks is Fair For Frosh

The entire freshman baseball squad will leave for Corvallis this morning to encounter the rooks in the first of a two game series there this afternoon. A second game will be played tomorrow.

Just how the yearlings will fare in these games, the most crucial of the season for them, is hard to predict but it is safe to say that they are better prepared to cop the rook series than any freshman team in years. Last year the rooks managed to win all four of the contests in baseball from the Oregon babes but it seems likely that a different story will be told after this year. So far the only comparative data on the two rival nines are the games with Columbia university. Oregon's yearlings cleaned up on the Catholics in two games, while the rooks were defeated in the one game they played the preppers. This may not be a fair comparison, but it indicates that the frosh will have at least an even chance.

With Lefty Carson and Fred Harrison, the two premier twirlers, performing in the style they did in the Columbia games last week, and with the rest of the nine backing them up in a like manner, the Aggie first year men will have to go hard to win.

The babes finished their preparatory practice with a game against the varsity Thursday night and are in fairly good shape for the games today and tomorrow. Either Carson or Harrison will start in the box with the rest of the lineup as follows: Bliss, catcher; Scriptures, first base; Bittner, second base; Slade, shortstop; Hobson, third base; Terrill, left; Carson or Harrison, center and Frame, right field.

VARSITY HUMBLER PACIFIC IN FIRST GAME OF SERIES

Webfooters Hammer Invading Twirler for Counters In Fourth and Eighth

SHIELDS HOLDS VISITORS

Badgers Not Dangerous After Second; Amburn, Pitching Ace, Has Bad Finger

The Oregon ball-tossers appeared in a brand new set of uniforms yesterday and gave them a good initiation, as the hard hitting of the Web-footers, coupled with several errors by the visitors gave them an 11-3 victory over Coach Frank's Badgers from Forest Grove.

The teams seemed evenly matched up to the fifth frame, as Pacific had succeeded in getting a two to one lead. Coach Bohler's crew got to the Pacific pitcher in this canto and pounded him for a total of four runs, and incidentally batted around doing it.

Mace Relieved in Seventh
The Pacific pitcher, Mace, was relieved in the seventh by Bliss, but this failed to stem the Oregon attack, as they put across two counters in that period, and followed this with four more in the eighth.

The longest hit of the day was made by Jesse, third sacker on the Pacific lineup, who cracked a three-bagger in the eighth inning, but was caught when he tried to stretch it into a home run.

Oregon Men With Pacific
An interesting fact in connection with the Pacific aggregation is that two of her best men formerly attended college here, while Coach Frank was an assistant instructor in the physical education department here one year. Blackman and Amburn were the former Oregon men on the team, Amburn being the best pitcher on the squad, but is temporarily on the shelf with an infected hand, while Blackman plays at first.

Today's game is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock.

Varsity Vanities Believed One Of University's Premier Plays

By Phil Brogan

"Varsity Vanities," presented last night by the junior class at the Heilig Theatre of Eugene, has been acclaimed one of the best productions ever staged by University students. The musical comedy, "Mummy Mine," written and directed by Imogene Letcher, was the feature of the entire show and was greeted with repeated applause and calls for the author.

The theatre was crowded to capacity, all seats having been sold out many hours before the first act, which began shortly before nine o'clock. It is the opinion of many that Varsity Vanities should be staged again for townspeople and students who were unable to obtain seats last night.

"Madame Butter Scotch," a grand opera in three operations, written by Ted Osborne, drew much laughter and applause from the hundreds of students and faculty members that crowded the theatre from the first orchestra row to the uppermost seats in "nigger heaven." Phi Beta Phi's April Frolic skit, "A Night of Dreams," was one of the several artistic productions of the evening with Katherine Watson, as Lord Fauntleroy, watching through eyes mystified with sleep the revue of bunnies, tin soldiers, and the Spirit of Dreams, played by Bernice Altstock.

"The Finnish Finish" proved to be a humorous skit, a light prelude to the harmony later created by the University Glee club quartet, Curtis Phillips, Wilbur Phillips, Russel Brown and Aubrey Furry. Following this, the Oregon Jester, Paul Sayre, was presented to the audience. The winner of the ten dollar prize was Jack Beck.

In the "Finnish Finish," Winona Dyer played the man's part and Katherine Pinneo played that of the woman. Both girls are from Astoria.

The opening act of the junior show was Atalanta Victorious—a cast of nine maidens, daintily treading the panto-
