A Course in Current Events

In the talks on current events which have been arranged at the various houses by faculty members, the Emerald sees a tendency toward a greater interest in world affairs and national problems on the part of college men and women. These lectures have been initiated by the students and represent a sincere desire for information along the line of current events. Could anyone think of a more popular University course than one in current events? If a beginning could be made next year it is conceivable that the time of a half dozen professors could be spent when the idea got fully under way.

The Emerald believes that the effort made by the students this year to get information in current events and current history warrants action in making provision for this through regular channels. There is no reason why current history is not as important as past history, and to give credit for such a course would not be unreasonable.

An interest in the world's doings among college students is entirely to be desired. The students have demonstrated that they are keenly interested in bettering themselves by their action this year. In addition to the talks arranged through the living groups there are a number of discussion groups and professional fraternities which have taken up the work among themselves.

It is suggested, then, as an experiment that a man of sufficient training and experience be brought to the campus next year to carry on work in the history that is happening every day.

The Emerald is glad to print today a communication giving the "other side" of the recent coaching controversy. The Emerald has been sincere in its efforts to get both sides during the whole trouble, and pertinent communications have been welcomed at any time. The Emerald will, as in the past, print reasonable communications if they bear on the subject, no matter what side is expressed. They can be taken as no indication of the editorial policy of the paper, however.

COMMUNICATIONS

Letters to the EMERALD from students and faculty members are welcomed, but must be signed and worded concisely. If it is desired, the writer's name will be kept out of print. It must be understood that the editor reserves the right to reject communications.

BOVARD IS SUPPORTED

To the Editor:
It has been a singular but not unprecedented fact that during the popularly-termed Bovard-Bohler controversy which occupied the attention of most of the masculine element on the campus during the last week, that amid all the storm of protest that has been raised at the action of the head of the Physical Education Department not a word has been said either editorially or in signed articles on the subject in defense of the administration. There is, however, on the campus a feeling among a considerable number of students that their contemporaries have taken a great deal upon themselves in such wholesale criticism of the administration and in condemning in rather unrestrained and undignified fashion Dean Bovard's refusal to recommend Coach Bohler for the coming year.

The writer realizes that Bohler has been an excellent coach and there may be some difficulty in obtaining his equal again. The loyalty of the majority of the student body to him is admirable and naturally his teams will feel his loss keenly. Students have every right to express their loyalty and their regret but surely some consideration is due the question before they assume the attitude of resentful antagonism toward the administration which has been expressed so freely. Dean Bovard is recognized all over the country as a man of high calibre and integrity and it is poor judgment on the part of any student who will hastily condemn a man of such evident ability without first investigating the case thoroughly to see whether or not there may be a reason for his decision. The administration has chosen to offer no defense or explanations to the student body in spite of the pressure brought to bear on the opposing side. It has assumed to unprejudiced minds that in remaining silent the powers that may be protecting Bohler. At any rate such a decisive measure as his dismissal would not be taken without due consideration and an attempt at justice on the part of the head of the School of Physical Education.

It is not only in this case but in others which have aroused campus sentiment during the year that students have so hastily and thoroughly condemned the authorities who are forced to effect unpopular changes and the writer believes that more thought on the part of the student body would result in milder and more just criticism of an administration which is striving to the best of its ability to act at all times for the fundamental good of Oregon and its students. STUDENT.

"THE ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

In addition to possessing the most unusual story ever filmed, "The Isle of Lost Ships," a Maurice Tourneur production which is scheduled to open at the Rex Theatre today, boasts of settings that are the last word in novelty. With the locale in the middle of the Sargasso Sea, which has never before been used in a motion picture, Director Tourneur had unlimited opportunities to get striking scenic effects and he succeeded in achieving remarkable results.

TOM MIX AT HEILIG

Tom Mix is back in town thrilling all of his admirers at the Heilig Theatre in the latest William Fox picture, "Three Jumps Ahead." Several new and daring stunts never before attempted for the screen are shown in this photoplay. Tom jumps a canyon 90 feet deep and 20 feet wide with "Tony," his stunt horse, and in addition rolls down a cliff while driving a stage-coach. If you like to be thrilled by a swiftly moving story of the Western plains, don't miss this picture.

EXCLUSIVE COLLEGE DANCE DREAMLAND FRIDAY and SATURDAY

College Clippings

"Red Key" Formed at Cornell—"Red Key," a new organization at Cornell whose purpose is to entertain visiting teams, was formed recently. The first society of this type was founded at Dartmouth college a short time ago and is called "Green Key."

Texas Women Hike—Fifty mile hikes seem to be the chief diversion of the women students at the University of Texas. Thirty girls went last week and another group expects to go this week. All girls going on these hikes are required to be in good condition and to observe training rules before going on any hikes.

Women Apply for Beauty—Investigation and analysis made by the mining and metallurgy departments at the University of California on beauty secrets of women prove that rouge, the principal ingredient of which is red earth, is composed of 60 per cent iron.

University of Miami has machine for measuring emotions—A machine for measuring emotions has recently been added to the equipment of the psychology department at the University of Miami. The apparatus is an invention devised several years ago by a professor at Harvard University.

Santo Tomas is Oldest American University—Santo Tomas University, at Manila, is the oldest institution of learning under the American flag. It was founded in 1611, 25 years before Harvard and has educated most of the prominent statesmen of the Philippine islands.

Minnesota Receives Donation for Cancer Institute—On of the largest gifts ever made to the University of Minnesota was that given by Mrs. George Chase Christian for the erection of a cancer institute as a memorial to her deceased husband. $200,000 shall go to the erection of the building and $50,000 for radium and X-ray equipment. The staff will be composed of special technicians in radiology and X-ray operation.

Professor Tests Student's Education—Has education given you sympathy with all good causes and made you public spirited? Have you learned how to make friends and keep them? Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself? Can you look an honest man or a pure woman straight in the eye? Will a lonely dog follow you in the street? Are you good for anything to yourself? Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see the clear sky? These are seven of the fourteen questions given by a professor in the University of Chicago to his pupils to test their education. If they were able to answer all of the unique questions he considered them educated in the best sense of the word.

Students Give Reasons for Choosing Whitman—Statistics were compiled at Whitman College recently to secure the reasons from the freshman class why they came to the Missionary school. The most important reasons offered and the number who came for these reasons were: small college, 48; scholastic reputation, 19; relatives, 31; Whitman alumni, 26; Christian college, 23; scholarship aid, 19. Climate was last with a total of nine reasons. There were none who signified their reasons athletically in the most important table.

Student Editor Threatened—The editor of the Utah Chronicle, student publication, was recently threatened with chastisement if he should make any expression of partisanship through the paper. The faculty and student body are much concerned over the affair.

Honor System at O. A. C.—An honor system in school work is to be tried at O. A. C. There is some opposition to the system but the leading figures on the campus are endorsing it and urge that it be tried out before condemning.

More Fraternities Urged—Editorially the Ohio State Lantern is encouraging the establishment of more national fraternities on the Ohio State campus. More than a half a dozen new fraternities have been installed at Ohio State this year.

University of Minnesota Has Stadium Campaign—The president of the University of Minnesota cancelled a speaking engagement to lead a gigantic march of students to the downtown district. The parade was the opening of a campaign to secure a new stadium. Aroplanes were in the line having been loaned by the government as well as tanks, artillery and machine guns.

Carl Sandburg in the East—Carl Sandburg who appeared on the Oregon campus last October is now in the East. He was at Cornell recently and was accorded a wonderful hearing by the students.

Son's Club Formed at Brown University—Brown University is to start a Son's club. The society is extremely informal in nature and is to be composed of all undergraduates who are sons of Brown University men. There are 57 eligible men on the campus at the present time. Why not have one at Oregon?

Oklahoma Women Put Out Paper—Can women put out a complete newspaper without help from the men? The women of Oklahoma chapter of Theta Sigma Phi are going to show their masculine "know it alls" by putting out one edition of the paper.

Iowa State College Has Clean Up Week—Iowa State College student body assisted in the clean up campaign in accordance with the city mayor's proclamation. The mayor in his proclamation said "We the people of Ames are living in the shadow of the greatest educational institution of its kind in the world, should observe 'Clean Up Week.'"

Penn State Observes Poverty Day—Poverty Day is observed at Penn State at which time all frosh must wear tattered clothing. Judges select the prize-winning costumes as the weird and poverty stricken frosh parade before the reviewing stand. This tradition is an annual affair.

Kansas Gets Chapter of Scabbard and Blade—Scabbard and Blade honorary military fraternity was installed at the University of Kansas April 5. Twenty-three men were installed. A movement was started on the Oregon campus last year for this fraternity but the plans did not materialize.
