Through the Congratulations

Another student election is history. A new set of leaders has been selected. In a short time those who have been at the helm during the past year will step from their places to make room for the newcomers. And through the post-election congratulations will come the realization by the new officers that they are responsible for Oregon for another year. They will understand—and they have vision—that next year is a critical year for the University.

Oregon is rapidly changing, and it will be the task of her student leaders to see that the mistakes are as few as possible. There are certain pitfalls which may be avoided, and there are difficulties which may be overcome. "Oregon Spirit" is constantly endangered by careless and indifferent persons. Her traditions are continually jeopardized by those who know little of the past and think little of the future. Her athletics are neglected by apathetic men and women. It will be the task of those leaders who were chosen yesterday to combat these evils.

The student body yesterday expressed confidence in the successful candidates. The students must retain their confidence in their leaders. They must support the captains they have chosen. Yesterday's differences must be forgotten. The new officers have a responsibility far greater than they—or anyone else—may realize. The students believe that they have ability and vision. They have accepted a challenge.

The Choice of Books

Books are a great factor in a student's life. His school books are chosen for him, but other books he himself must choose. The choice is important. Someone has said that a book is a friend, and it is true. In a book one can drown sorrows, be cheered, and often helped.

It is strange how like friends our books are. They must be chosen wisely, for not all of them are the right kind. Not all of them will be true and helpful friends. Books are the quietest sort of friends one can have. They never bother and they never ask questions. They wait for you to come to them.

There is probably nothing more useful to students than books. In them the learning of centuries is stored; the knowledge of well-known men accumulated; the fancies of many people related.

Books are one thing of which there can be no scarcity. It is difficult to realize how many there must be and how many are each day published. Choose your books wisely and choose a large number. To be well read is to have accomplished a lot on the road toward real education.—Ohio State Lantern.

"Football is one of the best courses given on this campus to enable a man to face the business world when he gets through here. It develops self-confidence and fight as well as a sense of sportsmanship which makes it possible for a man to stand on his feet and look anybody in the eye. You know you are a man when you get through with football, the weaklings soon drop out."—Bart Spellman.

EUROPEAN TRIP IS PLAN OF CAMPUS LIBRARIAN

Mrs. Mabel McClain Accompanied by Dramatic Instructor, Miss Banfield, Will Leave Early in June

Mrs. Mabel E. McClain, head of the circulation department of the University library, will leave early in June for a trip to Europe. Mrs. McClain will sail from Montreal June 20, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Banfield, instructor in drama and the speech arts, on the Melita, a Canadian vessel which will sail down the picturesque St. Lawrence river and skirt the Newfoundland coast. They will land in Liverpool. Mrs. McClain will spend some time in England, dividing her time between London, Oxford and English cathedral towns, before she proceeds to Paris by way of Holland and Belgium.

It is in France and Paris that Mrs. McClain is especially interested, and it is there that she expects to spend most of her time. While she is in Paris she hopes to spend a few weeks studying.

From Paris Mrs. McClain plans to make many excursions into various parts of France, visiting the Chateau territory, Chartres, Montsaintchella and other points of interest. She is also looking forward to meeting the Rebecs in Paris and other Oregon people who are planning to make the European trip this season.

Whether or not she will go to Italy or through Switzerland and the occupied portions of Germany, Mrs. McClain has not yet decided. Her main interest lies in France although she hopes to go to Rome and Venice also.

Mrs. McClain will visit all the large libraries in the European cities which she touches. She says that she is especially anxious to visit the university libraries in Europe, and before she sails in June is expecting to visit Princeton and Yale and their libraries. She has already seen the libraries of the University of Chicago, Harvard University, Clarke University and middle western and California institutions.

Mrs. McClain will return to Oregon sometime in the fall, sailing from France on a French vessel and making the land trip across the continent over the Canadian National, the most northern of the Canadian railroads.

During Mrs. McClain's absence Miss Mary Moore will be in charge of the circulation department.

SECOND N. S. F. FOLDER TO BE GIVEN OUT TODAY

Women's Commerce Fraternity Issues Pamphlet Containing Instructions on Checking Accounts

The second of the series of N. S. F. folders will be issued at assembly this morning. Copies will also be placed in the library, in the Commerce and the Administration buildings. These folders are put out by Phi Theta Kappa, women's honorary commerce fraternity. The new copy has on the cover the starting question—"Why Is a Check?" On one of the inside covers is a brief history of the origin of the check and our duty to the bank in keeping our accounts clear of n. s. f. checks.

On the other inside page is a series of "don't's" and instructions to follow in order to make no mistakes in checking accounts. The list is as follows: 1. Always carry your check book with you. 2. Don't use counter checks. 3. Don't make alterations—write a new check. 4. Don't write checks for less than one dollar. 5. Don't date checks ahead. 6. Don't sign your name to checks before you fill them in. 7. Never use a lead pencil. 8. Begin at the extreme left end of each line. 9. Always write in the amount of your check in the proper place and be sure that the writing and the numerical figures agree. Above all—keep a balance in the bank. The back cover of this folder is a sample check, showing all the points to be remembered in the filling of one of these troublesome articles.

$70 IN ESSAY PRIZES STILL OPEN TO ENTRIES

Opportunity to Cash in on Warner and Bennett Contests Pointed Out by Awards Committee

The committee on awards wishes to remind the students of $70 in prizes which, for the most part, they seem to be overlooking, according to Prof. George Turnbull, chairman of the committee, yesterday.

Thus far there have been few entries either for the prize of $50 offered by Mrs. Murray Warner for the best essay designed to promote closer relations between America and the Orient, or in the Philo Sherman Bennett award for the best essay on the principles of free government.

The terms of both of these contests have been published in the Emerald, the chairman pointed out. Further information regarding these competitions may be had from Mr. Turnbull.

The time for the submission of essays in the Bennett contest ends May 15 and in the Warner contest May 26. A maximum of 5,000 words is set in each.

"There is still time for anyone able to do intensive work to turn in a very creditable effort in either of these contests," said Mr. Turnbull. Other members of the committee in charge are Dean John J. Landsbury, Prof. W. F. G. Thacher, Dr. A. E. Caswell, and Prof. C. D. Thorpe.

Six Neophytes Will Make Talks Today

Six neophytes of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalism fraternity, will meander about the campus today and just before the assembly hour will entertain the assembled students from the library rostrum. It is not known what brand of humor the initiates will have on tap, but it is certain their appearance will be unique. They will be garbed in "soup and fish."

The six men are Lyle Janz, Lester Turnbaugh, Randolph Kuhn, Ted Janes, Monte Byers and Alfred Erickson. They reported last night that one-half dozen complete full dress uniforms had been acquired in various parts of Eugene, but that the silk headgear in this neck of the timber is as rare as a dodo.

Formal initiation of the neophytes will be held Sunday evening. A part of the pre-initiation obligation has been the editing of a miniature publication which will be broadcast to the high school students of the state. This publication, which is a journalistic invitation to the high school students to visit the University during Junior Week-end will go to press today.

"THE AWFUL TRUTH" COMING

At the Heilig Theatre, for one performance, May 15th, Tuesday evening, Ina Claire, most popular and likable among our younger American actresses, is to be seen in "The Awful Truth," the comedy by Arthur Richman, of which most agreeable report has been heard in advance and in which Miss Claire appeared for five months at Henry Miller's Theatre in New York and more recently with similar success at Powers' Theatre in Chicago. In each city Miss Claire was credited with having achieved the highest artistic point in her distinguished career.

WOODWARD TO HANDLE SUNDAY EMERALD WORK

Clinton Howard Promoted to Associate Managing Editor of Paper, Huston Day Editor

Don Woodward will assume charge of the Sunday Emerald for the rest of the year, according to announcement of Kenneth Yoeul, editor, yesterday. Woodward, who is now managing editor of the Sunday edition, will retain his present title. The change is occasioned by the resignation of Ernest Haycox, who has been at the head of the Sunday sheet since the beginning of the year.

Other changes in the staff of the Sunday paper is the promotion of Clinton Howard from assignment editor to associate managing editor and Taylor Huston, who will be moved from night editor to day editor of the Sunday sheet. George Belknap will replace Huston as night editor.

There will be but four more editions this spring and the present policy of the paper will be continued for the remainder of the year. Woodward is a sophomore in the school of journalism and has been on the staff of the Emerald for two years. Last year he was a reporter and night editor and this year is daily news editor on the Daily Emerald and managing editor on the Sunday edition.

GEOLOGISTS TO HAVE OUTING WITH MAZAMAS

Hikers to Leave Eugene in two Groups; One Section under Dr. E. L. Packard Will Collect Fossils on Trip

The plans for the first joint hike of the Mazama club of Portland and the Condon club of the University have been definitely decided upon. The hikers leaving Eugene will be divided into two sections. One group, under the direction of Dr. E. L. Packard, of the geology department, will leave Friday and motor to Pittsburg, where fossils will be collected. This division will join the other group, under the leadership of Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department, at some point farther north. The second section of hikers plans to leave Eugene Saturday noon. They will drive to St. Helens and examine the ore deposits in the vicinity.

These two groups will meet the Mazamas near Portland Sunday morning. The entire party will leave the Columbia Highway and visit points of scenic interest.

The trip is open to any University student and to the general public. Condon club has charge of the arrangements at Eugene. Anyone who wishes to go on the hike is requested to sign up on the bulletin board of the library or the geology department. If anyone has an automobile available for use, he is requested to designate the fact. Further information will be supplied by calling Hally Berry at 841 or the geology department at 1399R.

The affair is a novel event in the history of Condon club since it is the first joint hike that has been attempted. If the outing proves successful, other hikes will be planned annually.

The hike is a splendid opportunity for hikers. The route will cover some of the best scenic points in Oregon and should afford pleasure to the nature lovers of the city, according to the committee in charge.

NEW BRIDGE TO SPAN RACE

Draining of Water not to Hinder Canoe Fete, Contractors Say

Contrary to current rumors that the 1923 junior week-end is to be sans a canoe fete because some one or other was going to pull the Volstead act on the mill-race, the festival will not be divested of its enchanting aquarian spectacle, as the race is not to be drained, according to advices received from M. E. Mulvey, of the Eugene Power company, and W. A. Clark, contractor in charge of building the new bridge across the race on Franklyn Boulevard.

The old wooden structure which spanned the mill-race on Franklyn Boulevard at the foot of Kincaid street is now being torn away and will be replaced by a modern concrete bridge. The new structure, according to Mr. Clark, will be 50 feet long and 34 feet wide and constructed of reinforced concrete. In order to set the piers for the new bridge coffer dams will be used thus making the draining of the mill-race unnecessary.
