

VARIETY OF JOBS OCCUPY ALUMNI

Former University Students Are Scattered Widely Over Country

University alumni, scattered from Porto Rico to Alaska, are engaged in various enterprises ranging from superintending a military academy in New York to coaching high school athletics in Chehalis, Washington.

Colonel M. F. Davis, ex-'89, who is now superintendent of the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson, has recently been informed that he is to receive the distinguished service medal for conspicuous service in the recent world war.

An alumna of the University, who has recently been awarded a national recognition is Miss Grace Edgington, '16, alumni secretary and dean of women at the University.

William P. Allyn, '21, who is secretary of the Hood River Chamber of Commerce, attended the sessions held at the University this year under the auspices of the school of business administration.

Robert L. McNary and Mrs. McNary, (Helen Guttery) both ex-members of the class of '19, have moved from Hood River to Salem.

The members of the class of '98 are scattered from Porto Rico to Alaska. There are only 16 members in the state at present.

Among these is Lillian Ackerman Carleton, whose husband was former superintendent of the Eugene public schools and who is now on the University faculty extension department.

MILITARY SHOW PLANNED

O. A. C., National Guard, and American Legion to Stage Event May 26

Eugene and the campus is plastered with publicity material advertising O. A. C.'s tenth annual military tournament to be held May 26 at Corvallis.

The tournament will be a big affair, according to the officers at the local R. O. T. C. barracks.

The staff of the University R. O. T. C. unit have been invited to attend, and a number of students have also signified their intention of going.

S. P. SCHEDULE CHANGED

Shasta Arrives Later; Coos Bay Train Making Daily Trips

The revised schedule of the Southern Pacific lines, which went into effect yesterday, made several important changes in the time of north and south trains through Eugene.

The most drastic changes were made on the Shasta. Southbound No. 11 will arrive in Eugene at 12:09 instead of 7:57 p. m., and northbound No. 12 will get here at 6:35 p. m., instead of 4:26.

NEW ORGEON SONG IS FEATURE OF CONCERT

VALUE OF MOVIES IS TOPIC

Earl Kilpatrick to Give Lecture by Radio Friday Evening

Earl Kilpatrick, director of the extension division, will give the radio lecture Friday night from the Oregonian tower on "The Educational Value of Motion Pictures."

Mr. Kilpatrick has spoken on this subject before various groups in the state, including the summer school assembly.

This lecture is one of a series in cooperation with the Parent Teacher's Association, during Juvenile Protection Week, from May 13 to 19.

LUNCHEON PREPARED BY WOMEN

"Patronize Home Industries" has ceased to be a meaningless phrase as far as the University is concerned, for at a luncheon to be given at the Woman's building tomorrow as a part of the program for Mother's Week-end, all the cookies and sandwiches that are going to be eaten were made by the women enrolled in the cooking classes in the household arts department.

UNIVERSITY HIGH PLAY PLEASURES BIG AUDIENCE

"The Charm School" Produced by Senior Class is Gleeeful Comedy; Shows Much Talent

Imagine blue-uniform clad girls in a boarding school longing for the sight of a man. Imagine five handsome young men suddenly appearing in the school as instructors of such things as dancing and ukulele. Imagine the result.

That is the theme of "The Charm School," produced by the senior class of the University high school, which gave its first performance yesterday afternoon.

The delighted audience held its collective sides and shrieked in pure glee. From the leading couple played by Maybrey Strong and Hugh Lynch, down to the last frivolous girl, the cast did excellent work.

Homer Johns, the sternly egotistical guardian of Miss Benedotti, heroine of the play, was excellently impersonated by Dean Scott, and Miss Hayes, his divorced wife, played by Charlotte Platt, was the impersonation of a stern and dutiful matron of a boarding school.

Alfonse Korn, as the earnest seeker after Miss Benedotti's hand, met with many sorrows, and the earnest young law student, who was represented by Hubert Yearian, and whose disapproval of the frivolities of his pals was always ignored, was the picture of studious dependability.

OFFICERS OF Y. W. C. A. ARE GUESTS ON CAMPUS

Miss Van Sant Jenkins of New York Will Visit; Other National Workers Coming to University

Miss Van Sant Jenkins of the New York Y. W. C. A. training school, will arrive next Tuesday to spend a few days on the campus, to assist with the Girls' Reserve work, the Eugene division of which is supervised by the University Y. W. C. A.

There will be conference hours with Miss Jenkins arranged for the advisors of the Girls' Reserve Triangles already organized in Eugene, for mothers of girls interested in the work, or for any others who wish to find out about the reserve movement.

Miss Esther Daymen, who visited the University when the Girls' Reserve Corps were organized last term, will stop off Wednesday on her way south to observe the progress of the work.

Another guest on the campus this week-end will be Miss Edith Sanderson, who is expected to arrive in Eugene at 6:30 p. m., Saturday. She will speak at the Sunday breakfast to be held in the Y. W. bungalow Sunday morning, and after the Vespers services on Sunday afternoon she will meet with the volunteer students interested in foreign work as well as others who may be interested in the work.

OREGANS TO BE READY FOR DELIVERY MAY 17

Books Will Be Distributed to Students at Administration Building, Extra Copies Will Be Printed

Oregans for 1922-23 will be distributed next Thursday, according to Miss Velma Farnham, editor. A letter from the Oregon City Enterprise received this morning, informed Miss Farnham that about 100 volumes were already bound and that the work on unbound volumes is going on as rapidly as possible.

A new method of distribution will be employed this year which it is hoped will prove more satisfactory than the old method of delivering the books in wholesale lots to the various organizations. This year all students are to call for their individual copies at the Administration building, where several windows will be devoted to taking care of the work.

Students who entered too late to sign up for Oregans will be able to get books on Thursday, according to Miss Farnham, since a number of extra copies are being provided for such an emergency.

"WHERE THE PAVEMENT ENDS"

Locked in furious battle, they spin from side to side in the dawn-touched room—the man she loves and the treacherous trader who swore he would have her for his own. Matilda, daughter of a missionary, almost frantic from her night-long experience in a tropical storm, is stunned into immobility as she watches the struggle between these two men of the South Seas, a thrilling moment in the picture, "Where the Pavement Ends," Rex Ingram's latest production for Metro, now at the Castle Theatre.
