

RUTH BYRNE GIVES CONCERT TONIGHT

Difficult Program Arranged; Margaret Phelps Will Assist on Violin

The concert to be given by Ruth Scott Byrne tonight is one of the last musical events of the year, and it promises to be exceptionally fine in every way. The program is comprehensive, with a variety of compositions, and it is representative of the classical, romantic and modern schools of music.

Mrs. Byrne has studied with Dr. John J. Landsbury and John Stark Evans of the school of music, and her playing is notable for its interpretation and skillful presentation of compositions.

STUDENTS READING MORE

1141 Books Taken from Reserve Section Monday which is Highest this Term

The present week is proving the busiest of the spring term, according to the head of the reserve department of the library. Monday 1411 books were taken from the reserve desk by students, the highest circulation for any one day of the term so far. During the winter term the highest record for one day was 1620.

Junior Week-end and senior picnic day are held responsible for the increased amount of studying done the first of the week. Seniors looking forward to a holiday probably deemed it beneficial to prepare not for the morrow but for the day after the morrow in this case. True to popular tradition some instructors are assigning daily quizzes this week, probably preparatory to the lull that follows Junior Week-end. Librarians believe there is usually a lull when their business takes a leap, special assignments, term papers, outside reading and other little items being the main causes of increased mental activity on the part of the student, rather than any new inspiration to study for the joy of studying.

OREGON PREPARES TO GREET MANY GUESTS

Chas. Lemery, Leonard Lerwill, Bessie Christensen, Esther Christensen, Claire Collette, Bernice Corpon, Florence Crandall, Fern Curry, Mildred Dedman, Dorothy Dixon, Marie Dobbin, Frances Douglas, Mary Druley, Wenona Dyer, Dorothy Eaken, Priscilla Eaken, Sylvia Etta Erdmann, Gladys Emison, Eleanor Everett, Nomayne Ann Flaherty, Lillian Flint, Evangeline Foster, Alice Frankson, Gladys Gallier, Elizabeth Garrett, Maud Graham, Margaret Griffin, Elizabeth Griggs, Henrietta Hanson, Mary Ann Hanson, Vivian Hargrove, Adah Harkness, Leulla Hausler, Teka Haynes, Marjorie Hazard and Hilda Hensley. These people are to report or have a substitute report for them between 10 and 12 this morning. Work will continue until 10 tonight.

The men are asked to bring hammers, saws and pliers whenever possible and every girl is asked to bring scissors and a large needle which can be used for sewing sign cloth. The Junior prom is going to be one of the most colorful affairs ever seen in Eugene. Randall Jones, Mildred Le Compte, Marcella Berry, Lurline Coulter, Bill Nettleship, Ed Kirtley and Frances Altstock are directing the work of decorating.

Bill Godlove, chairman of the floor committee, will visit the living organizations for the loan of a davenport, a piano lamp, and a rug. Only one article will be asked of each house in order that no one organization will find itself with a group of guests and no furniture.

Tickets for both the Junior prom and the canoe fete can be purchased through the houses or at the Co-op. As each prepper will have a ticket admitting him to all events it will be possible for hosts to accompany their guests to the various events and sit with them as a guest ticket admits to the same seat section as do the regular tickets.

Committee chairmen report that the work is shaping up nicely. Jimmie Meek, junior president and Doug Farrell, general chairman of Junior Week-end, both made a strong appeal at last night's meeting of the class for unified support of the enterprise.

Ed Haney, who has charge of the floats for the canoe fete, reports that all entries must be in the race early in order that the fete may start at 8:15 Friday night. The first group of floats completed are to be given a trial trip down the race while the official Junior Week-end movie man takes pictures of them. This will probably take place late Friday afternoon while there is still light enough for the camera.

Entires according to Haney's list follow: Alpha Delta Pi and S. A. W. Egbert Schenck, American vice-consul to Hongkong in 1920, and a writer on commercial subjects and life in Japan, will arrive on the campus this week-end from Berkeley. Mr. Schenck, who was managing director of the F. W. He will be accompanied by his wife, a former Wellesley student and a graduate from the University of California.

Mrs. Schenck is a qualified linguist and is interested in Oriental literature and art.

In 1920 when Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University department of geology, and Hubert Schenck were in the Philippines they visited China and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Schenck while in Hongkong.
