

VOCAL STUDENTS MAKING RECORDS

Phonographs Are Found Useful for Testing Faults in Singing

Starting, no doubt, with the longing, "Oh, for the gift we hope would cheer us,

To hear ourselves as others hear us, music students of the University are making phonograph records and reproducing them to test their progress in vocal training and to show their faults in the best possible way, that of hearing their own voices on a Victrola.

The idea is a novel one at the University, but is already considered quite a success, according to John Landsbury, dean of the school of music.

Students taking vocal lessons sing into a small horn and the sound is transmitted to a thick wax record. This record may be reproduced immediately and the singer shows wherein she can improve her voice, especially in tone and breathing. The record may then be laid away and another one made weeks later. By comparing these two the singer can determine what progress has been made, and what faults remain to be corrected.

Students get quite a thrill out of hearing their own voices and are taking considerable interest in the idea, says Dean Landsbury. "It is not a plaything," he says. "It is rather expensive, but it brings results. The records are very soft and are easily broken, but we have a small machine to shave off the surface of the record and thus may use it from 50 to 100 times.

"We really should have an expert, one who knows the proper distance to stand from the horn. He would stand behind the singer and sway her body nearer to the horn, or farther away as the case may be, in order to produce an even impression on the wax record. As it is, they get too close to the horn sometimes and spoil the record."

Dean Landsbury made the interesting experiment of transmitting to the Victor machine a vocal solo caught over the music school radio, and then reproduced it. Though the singer was in Los Angeles, the reproduction was very good, he said.

B. A. ASSISTANTSHIPS, SCHOLARSHIPS, OFFERED

Commerce Graduates Have Chance to Do Advanced Work and Aid in School for 1923-1924 Year

Several scholarships and assistantships will be awarded by the graduate division of the school of business administration on June 4. This announcement is made in a notice sent out by the school of business administration yesterday. The number of awards to be made will be announced later.

The positions are for the 1923-24 school year, and will provide for payment of from $500 to $600 for the year's service. The requirement is that applicant must have been graduated from a standard college and must show evidence of high scholarship and fitness for service in business.

Students who are awarded scholarships or assistantships will be allowed to do a maximum of ten hours of college work, leading to the degree of master of business administration. The student does assistant work, as assigned to him, to the extent of not more than 20 hours. The length of time required to earn a master's degree under these conditions varies with the nature of undergraduate work done.

Applicants will be considered from colleges in all parts of the United States, it was announced by Miss Madeline McManus, secretary of the school of business administration. At present there are six students doing graduate work in the school, who are winners of scholarships similar to the ones offered. It is expected that several applications will be made by seniors graduating in the school this year, but the number is not known at present.

UNIFORMS STILL IN USE

$10 Deposit on Military Equipment Now Available for Junior Week-end

Although nearly all the under-classes in the military department have finished their required drill work, uniforms cannot be turned in until June 5. It will be impossible to collect that $10 deposit for Junior Week-end expenses. It cannot be predicted when some officials may spring a surprise inspection of the cadets, and uniforms would be a necessity, says the supply sergeant. If the equipment were all turned in, it would be very hard to get all the men outfitted again.

TEAS TO BE DISCONTINUED

Tennis and Canoeing Will be Substituted for Weekly Co-ed Gathering

The day of the informal Woman's league tea is over for another year. Apparently University co-eds are no longer even lured by the promise of tea in all desired stages of heat, and wafers, which have been attracting a large number of loyal league members every Tuesday afternoon during the fall and winter terms. Lady tea hounds, office seekers, and sorority freshmen will receive with varying degrees of emotion the news that the Woman's league wafers have been stored once more.

These gatherings were very popular during the last two terms among all University girls, but there is so much to occupy the time of the students during this last session of the year that it has been thought wise to discontinue the custom for the rest of the term, according to Marjorie Hazard, who has been in charge of them this year.

Spring has banished the hallowed hand-out, but the optimists remind us that the mill race is still running, two new tennis courts demand attention and the term paper is still with us. Are there not some things to be thankful for?

Though Convicted, Frosh Not Spanked

Everybody who wasn't rushing after an Oregon gathered around the library steps at 10:50 sharp yesterday morning to watch the culprits of the class of '26 step forward, bend over, and take two or three or possibly more jolts from the Order of the "O" spank stick. But to the chagrin of all concerned the anatomy bombast was not held, very much, we suppose, to the delight and comfort of the green-cappers.

Just why the Order of the Lettermen failed to schedule the pre-assembly pastime is not known. Possibly they figured that the knights of the verdent headgear would receive enough chastisement and humiliation today when they purify themselves of freshman sins by the fire and water method.

But they missed the last chance to pummel the pests of '26 while that lowly gentry were wearing the insignia of goof. Without doubt a goodly number of the clan needed a bludgeon bombardment; in fact they should all have experienced the timely one-two of the paddle just to remember it and their freshman days by.

Maybe the Order of the "O" is saving the party for today or tomorrow, or even for a future date. Anyway let us wait and see.

MEN ASKED TO REPORT

By special order of the Order of the "O" and the Oregon Knights, the following men are asked to report to Gene Shields at the campus luncheon at 1:00 o'clock today. In case of rain the luncheon will not be held on the lawn between Deady hall and McClure, but in the Men's gym. It is imperative that all men whose names are listed below be present at the time specified. All those failing to report will at a later date before the Order of the "O".

Charles Kelley, Walter Kendall, Walter Kidd, Charles Kilgore, Louis Kindt, Douglas King, Joseph Klamt, Ralph Klep, Donovan Knapp, William Kfeeland, Edward Koen, Milton Krim, Harry LaPort, Theodore Larson, John Larson, Lyle Laughlin, Roy Lee, Joseph Lipshutz, Walter Lloyd, Frank Logan, Lorenz Lomboy, Lea MacPike, Floyd McKelson, Alfred Myers, Paul Montgomery, Roy Oliver, Corbin Peters, Albert Powers.

The following girls are requested to meet today for work at Friendly hall today at 11 o'clock for work on the campus luncheon committee: Mildred Nichols, Ray Peterson, Helen Atkinson, Noreen Weaver, Lucille Duoglass, Katherine Lyons, Janet Wood, Eloise Prudhomme, Helen Smith, Myrtle Rice, Fredrica Travers, Jean Kidd, Florence Fortmiller, Ruth Seusenich, Mary Hardy, Henrietta Hason, Helen McCormick and Margaret Stall.

GLORIA SWANSON AT CASTLE

On the turn of a card! One of the most dramatic scenes in "Prodigal Daughters," a Sam Paramount production, starring Gloria Swanson, which comes to the Castle theatre today for two days, is where the star in the role of "Swiftie" Forbes gets into the toils of a gambler and stakes a fortune which she has already lost to him, as well as her own fortune, upon a cut of the cards. She cuts a smaller card than the gambler—and loses. What is the result? Wait and see the picture—for the result will give you the thrill of a lifetime—and we wouldn't spoil it here, for anything.

SENIORS OF U. H. S. ENTERTAIN

Complimenting those whose efforts for the production of the senior play contributed largely to its success, the senior council of the University high school will give a luncheon at the Anchorage today, honoring Vivian Harper, Irene, Mary, and Corine Burton, Miss Ethel Wakefield, Hubert Yearian and Emmett Jones. The senior council consists of the following officers of the senior class: Robin Jones, Louise Maxwell, Bertha Hanks and Hugh Lynch.

SIGMA CHI LEADING IN INTRA-MURAL CONTESTS

Highest Score is 20; Kappa Delta Phi is Lowest; Baseball, Track and Tennis not Included

Sigma Chi is leading all teams in the intra-mural contests, with a score of 20. Kappa Delta Phi is occupying the cellar position with a score of 74. These scores are the standings of the teams up to date and do not include baseball, track or tennis. The different sports played by the teams have been basketball, handball, physical ability, wrestling and handball.

Baseball and tennis are being played by the teams now and the winner of the series will be hard to pick until more games have been played. Kappa Sigma won the cup last year and is well toward the top of the list this year, having a score of 22. If the Kappa Sigs win the baseball series they will have an excellent chance to cop the cup again. The house winning the cup three times in succession retains it permanently.

Statistics of the intra-mural sports in the physical education department reveal the fact that an average of 20 men from each house participate in donut sports. Last year the total number taking part in the different sports were as follows: basketball 112, handball 34, physical ability 55, wrestling 61, swimming 50, baseball 175, and tennis 72.
