PAMPHLET ON BUSINESS LEADERSHIP IS READY

Folder Contains Outline of Courses to be Taken by Commerce Majors During Four Years Work

"Opportunities for Business Leadership," a pamphlet describing the work of the University school of business administration, is ready for distribution.

The folder contains an outline of the course to be taken by majors in business administration, from the freshman through the senior year. Two charts are contained in the reading matter, both showing the relation of the business training offered in this school to other lines of business. They tell in picture which otherwise would require several pages of type.

Training for business leadership is the object of the course offered, according to the pamphlet. Each student is viewed as a potential manager and is trained accordingly," says the booklet. In every case, the emphasis is placed upon the administrative aspects of business.

Many lines of business are now offering openings for the student who is willing to be a pioneer, the folder points out. Foreign opportunities are numerous and domestic trade opportunities are even more plentiful. The school of business administration will advise any one who is contemplating some type of business management, as to the type of work best suited to the individual case.

CUPS ARE GIVEN TO U. H. S.

Seniors Present Trophies for Scholarship and Activities

The University high school senior assembly at which the class gift to the school will be presented will be given a nine o'clock this morning. After the assembly, the seniors are excused for the day, and will go to Coburg bridge on a picnic.

The gift decided on will be two silver loving cups, one to be given each year to the class making the highest scholarship record, and another to be given to the class scoring the highest number of points in inter-class activities. These activities include debate, dramatics and athletics, and a point system will be worked out to determine the score made by the classes.

The seniors have taken a responsibility which they hope to establish as a tradition in the school. It is to do all the work around the school, the disposal of which is not otherwise arranged for. This year's seniors have set a good example by caring for the school flag, arranging for the making of a trophy case and a bulletin board and caring for the window boxes on the front of the building.

The assembly program today will be as follows: Duet—Mrs. Harold Benjamin, violin, and Perry Burton Arant, piano. Vocal Solo—Dale Cooley. Presentation of Scholarship Cup—Hugh Lynch. Presentation of Activities Cup—Ted Ruch. Vocal Solo—Joanna James. Address—President Campbell

FLANDERS POPPIES DAY TO BE COMMEMORATED

after years in the hospital, to make their way.—And the world has forgotten them.

Tomorrow is Flanders Poppies Day. Even now we remember the significance of that flower. Tomorrow it takes on an added significance. Through it we will be given an opportunity to show the discharged soldier that even in 1923 we have not forgotten.

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion will sell Flanders Poppies in booths on the campus at ten cents a piece. Ten cents from each of us will show that we have not forgotten.

Excellent Judgment

A thousand and one details—in addition to the responsibility for the finances of the student body and the scheduling of athletic contests are the lot of the Graduate Manager. And still, since that position has been held by Jack Benefiel there has been little complaint. There has been no great commotion. The work has been done—and forgotten. The Executive Council displayed excellent judgment last night in their selection of Benefiel for the coming year.

The work has been handled with so little friction that many have failed to realize the difficulties which are involved. It is only when there is a minor complaint to be made, or an adjustment to be arranged that the graduate manager comes into the limelight. Many have assumed that games scheduled themselves—or that football players bought their own uniforms—or that printing contracts and music agreements were automatically signed.

Jack Benefiel is to a degree responsible for the huge slice which has been lopped from the student body indebtedness. He is one of the most efficient managers on the coast, and the council is to be congratulated on its action.

Dean Straub Contributes

Dean Straub sent in the following clipping from the report of a speech by Professor Rollo Walter Brown, of Carleton college, Northfield, Minnesota.

"I have come to the conclusion that any student, to receive attention from the faculty of the average college, must be to a certain extent, morally and mentally deficient.

"In the last ten years I have visited many colleges and I have attended a number of faculty meetings, and while I have found that considerable time has been devoted to such questions as the number of fraternity dances to be given in a season, what hour at night the fudge kitchens in the girls' dormitories shall remain open, and what size paddle may be used in the initiation of freshmen, never have I heard five minutes devoted to the question of the exceptional student destined to be a leader in whatever line of endeavor he shall follow."

Dean Straub adds, "This does not refer to the U. of O. faculty, does it, Mr. Editor?"

POSTURE FOLLIES WILL BE PRESENTED TODAY

Gym Majors to Judge Girls in Living Organizations

The final drive in the posture contest staged by the seniors in physical education, among the women on the campus will be concluded tonight when the majors will visit the various living organizations and give posture tests to the girls. The tests are being run on a donut basis and the house making the highest average in sitting and standing posture will receive an award to be presented by the department of physical education.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the regular mass meeting of the Women's League, "Posture Follies" will be presented by the junior and senior gym majors. This stunt will demonstrate the absurd and cation-like figures which modern styles demand in carrying out their art. A film entitled, "Foot Follies," is also scheduled to be shown.

Professor Fairbanks, of the school of architecture, has undertaken the work of making the award to be offered for the highest average posture. The actual work, however, will be done by the class in modeling, under the direct supervision of Mr. Fairbanks. According to the plans outlined by Mr. Fairbanks yesterday, the award will be a base-relief in bronze, but no definite pattern has been decided upon yet. "It will express," said Miss Florence Alden, head of the school of physical education for women, the buoyancy, the joy, and life that comes through perfect poise and control of the body." Considerable time and money will be required to complete the work as the casting in bronze will take the entire summer and will alone cost between $35 and $50. However, a plaster cast of the plaque will be completed before college is over this term.

Many posters, showing the various incorrect postures are hung in the Woman's building and the girls have been voting on the poster which best conveys to their minds the idea of posture. The poster receiving the greatest number of votes will be announced at the mass meeting this afternoon. Mirrors, to attract the attention of one's own posture have been placed in various places about the building. The idea which the senior majors, backed by the department of physical education, have, in putting on this drive, is to arouse an interest in posture among University women and to further its progress by showing the evil results which poor posture will promote.

Grow straight now and you'll never turn in your coffin.
