

RUNNERS WILL GO TO SEATTLE TODAY

Varsity Squad in Good Condition to Meet Huskies

Varsity representatives for the annual track and field meet with the University of Washington will board the Shasta this afternoon for Seattle where they will compete with the Huskies in the Washington stadium Saturday afternoon. Seventeen men and Manager Johnnie Palmer comprise the Lemon-Yellow delegation.

Trainer Bill Hayward will not accompany the squad as he is scheduled to officiate at the Portland Interscholastic meet today and tomorrow, but expects to join his proteges Saturday morning. During the trip Captain "Ole" Larson will have charge of the squad.

The 17 men chosen in the final try-outs yesterday afternoon and the probable events in which they will compete Saturday are as follows: Captain Larson 100-yard dash, low hurdles and 220; Oberteuffer, 100-yard dash and 220; Lucas, 220, possibly the 100 and the relay; Hardenberg, 220 and the relay; Risley, 440 and relay; Peltier, half and possibly the mile; Kays, half mile; Curry, mile; Guy Koepf, two-mile; Rosebraugh, 440 and relay; Ralph Spearow, pole vault, high jumps and broad jump; Byler, shot-put, discus and javelin; Kamma, discus; Starr, shot-put discus and javelin; Holdman, pole vault; Hunt, high and low hurdles; Bowles, broad jump and low and high hurdles.

Only 16 of the 17 may be entered in the competition, but Bill is sending one alternate in case of emergencies.

The squad which will face the Huskies Saturday is in the best of condition with the exception of Hardenberg, who has just recovered from an infected leg. Hardenberg showed good form in the trial runs on Hayward track yesterday, however, and should be able to cover the quarter mile with his old time speed at Seattle. His coming back into the squad makes it a strong and well-balanced aggregation that will represent Oregon.

With both Larson and Oberteuffer repeating their previous performances in the 100 and 220, the Lemon-Yellow has a mighty good chance to take a number of points in the sprints. Larson also may take a place in the low hurdles as his showing in the event against O. A. C. was nothing short of surprising considering the fact that he had never attempted to skim over the sticks before.

The Varsity will also give the Huskies strenuous competition in the 440 and the relay as Risley, Rosebraugh and Hardenberg have been tearing off the quarter in fast time during the practice runs. "Speed" Peltier, Curry and Guy Koepf should be able to garner several markers in the distance runs. Likewise in the hurdles and the field events the Varsity will be strong if Hunt tops the sticks in as good time as he did against the Aggies, and Ralph Spearow performs the pole vault and the jumps in his usual form. Bowles and Spearow both can be reckoned for places in the broad jump as each of them leap close to 22 feet. In the weights the heavyweight trio of Kamma, Byler and Starr will no doubt get their share of points, especially Kamma, in the discus throw. Oregon will be weakest probably in the javelin throw.

All in all the outlook for a victory over the Northerners is brighter than it has been for several years. Unless unforeseen accidents occur the Varsity will be in the running until the last events on the program Saturday.

OCEAN DEPTHS EXPLORED

Fiction writers, including Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, have made use of the idea that there may be in remote parts of the world pre-historic monsters still existing, and what holdovers from former races still lurk in the "dark unfathomed caves of the ocean," it would be a bold man to say. The dark unfathomed caves of the ocean have now been brought to light in the thrilling undersea picture, "Wonders of the Sea" which may be seen for the last time today and tonight at the Rex Theatre.

Lang, adapted from the French "Le Chevalier Au Masque," by Paul Armand and Jean Manoussi, at the Heilig Theatre, Monday, May 28. The action of the play centers about the conflict between the Royalists and the masses during the Napoleonic era. Mr. Ditrichstein is seen in the role of Armand, a mysterious character whose exploits have so thrilled all Europe that he has become known as "The Purple Mask."

THACHER TO SPEAK AT ADVERTISING SESSION

Annual Convention of Pacific Coast Club to be Held in Spokane Dated for June 17 to 21

W. F. G. Thacher, professor of advertising in the school of journalism, has accepted an invitation to address the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs association, to be held in Spokane, June 17 to 21.

Professor Thacher's subject will be "Education in Advertising."

The association is composed of the advertising clubs of Oregon, California and Washington whose membership numbers not only those who make their livelihood from advertising, but also business and sales executives.

The theme for the general session of the convention June 20, will be "Higher Standards in Advertising." Under this general heading, Professor Thacher will discuss his particular subject of "Education in Advertising."

Professor Thacher is a frequent contributor to advertising publications. His most recent publication appeared in Western Advertising for April, entitled "A Baker's Dozen: the Thirteen Points of Sales Appeal." Last summer Professor Thacher studied the advertising situation close hand in the East and Middle West and brought back a report of his findings to the Oregon Editorial association and the Oregon newspaper conference.

89 SEND IN CREDENTIALS

Students Mailing Grades Early to Registrar for Next Year

Eighty-nine students have sent in high school credentials for entrance into the University for next year, according to the registrar's office. However, it is still early since few high schools have held graduation exercises as yet and until they do, credentials cannot be obtained from superintendents.

In about two more weeks, letters will begin to come in about 30 per day, say the officials and from then on, the office will be kept busy until two weeks before school opens in the fall, when all grades must be filed.

TWO FOOTBALL TEAMS GROOMED FOR BATTLE

Spring Training to End With Game on South Field

War has been declared. Out on the sawdust battle ground south of Hayward field two armies are entering the final stage of training which they hope will prepare them for victory in the last football conflict of the season. With only seven days to complete their practice maneuvers, both bands of warriors are devoting their energies to perfecting their tactics for the game is May 31.

Captain Chapman has charge of one fighting machine, while Captain Sax is directing the destinies of the other; both are calling signals for their crews. The coaches divided the squad into two groups under these captains and are training them as separate units. The men accepted the plans with enthusiasm and immediately proceeded to get a name for their organization.

Chappie's men wanted a name they felt would be distinctive and after some debate chose to call themselves the "Piffers." However, watching them scrimmage leads the onlooker to believe they must do their piffing in the winter for they seem to have too much fight now, to be rated in that class.

Captain Sax's organization had some difficulty in obtaining a suitable cognomen. The gumps, vagabonds and a few other picturesque handles were suggested, but all were turned down as inappropriate until some one heard Moe Sax emit his well known laugh. Inspiration wafted itself into the souls of the warriors and the "Gobblers" was chosen as their fighting name.

Tackling, signal practice and scrimmage is the order of procedure, according to headquarters, until time for the big game. Oregon's program the first part of the season, said Bart Spellman was a "tell 'em" proposition. "We told them what we are going to tell them—then we told them—and then we told them what we had already told them. But we are way past that now," he laughed.

"YOU CAN'T FOOL YOUR WIFE"

George Medford, producer of "You Can't Fool Your Wife," a splendid Paramount picture which will be on view at the Castle Theatre for three days beginning today, speaks enthusiastically of the big bathing pool interior set in that picture, which is said to be one of the best ever prepared for any picture production. Here dozens of beautiful girls doff evening gowns and reveal bathing suits beneath, after which they and their male escorts plunge into the pool.

Breathes there a man with soul so darned dead,
Who never to himself hath once said:
She's keen, but what a slouch!

Class Elections---

mean that there are winners and losers and very often election bets.

There is but one place in town where you can pay your election bets to every one's satisfaction. It's the one place where both victors and vanquished can be happy. You know it—The RAINBOW

It's the place you would elect for your class confectionery store should you choose one.
