A Real Excuse for Existence

Yesterday two honorary fraternities brought forth more evidence which shows that they have a real right to exist. Phi Theta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma, women's and men's national honorary commerce fraternities, in announcing their awards in recognition of high scholarship prove that they are not organizations which merely meet, elect officers and new members, and adjourn.

During the past year there has been considerable agitation favoring the elimination of organizations which have filled no place in university life, and which have contributed nothing, except perhaps a little social enjoyment and slight distinction, to the individual members.

Phi Theta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma cannot be classed among the ineffectuals. Through their every day influence, and, more concretely, through their annual awards, they are promoting scholastic achievement, a very worth while undertaking.

Shoulders square, head erect, eyes front, heels together! The efforts of Women's League should be rewarded by postures which would be envied by the maidens of ancient Greece!

The political season is all but closed—the last class officer has been chosen.

MILITARY MEN RECEIVE VACCINE INOCULATION

R. O. T. C. Men Planning to go to Camp Lewis; Given Treatment to Guard Against Disease Germs

Addicts of the sorrow-killing needle, converted to the use of the instrument by order of the war department, through the R. O. T. C., are drooping about the campus these days keeping a watchful guard over the strong, right arm. Over at the dispensary, nurses are preparing for the next warrior to come around for his "shot" that will keep away all ravenous little bugs which might gnaw their way into his organs and cause him to take to the blankets with smallpox or typhoid fever during the six weeks of intensive training at Camp Lewis during the summer.

All those of military temperament taking the advanced course at the R. O. T. C. must spend at least one summer vacation at the Washington encampment in order to obtain their reserve commissions and be graduated from the University. The maneuvers at the camp this year commence on June 14 and all cadets must report for training within ten days of the opening date. That will make some of the boys step lively to finish examinations on the campus and arrive in Camp Lewis before the last day of grace.

There will be about 25 from the University who will attend the camp this year, according to estimates of the military department. Of these about ten will be sophomores, most of whom will attend the basic or first year camp.

FAMOUS ACTOR DELAYED

Leo Ditrichstein Will Not Be in Eugene Monday Due to Tunnel Cave-in Student playgoers and theatre patrons of Eugene will be greatly disappointed in the announcement that Leo Ditrichstein, probably one of the greatest emotional actors on the American stage today, will not appear in Eugene, Monday night in "The Purple Mask," as has been advertised.

The sudden cancellation of the local appearances, according to Manager McKee, of the Heilig, who received a telegram today from the business manager of the Ditrichstein company, is due to the railroad trouble in a long tunnel on the Southern Pacific main line in northern California where a fire recently broke out and caused parts of the tunnel to cave in, stopping all traffic for an estimated period of ten days. Mr. McKee stated however that the company was endeavoring to get their equipment around the tunnel by truck

EXHIBIT OF CLOTHING TO DISPLAY WORK OF TERM

General Public Invited to View Work of Sewing Classes for First Time in Household Arts Building

For the first time on the campus a clothing exhibit for the general public will be given, when the clothing department of the household arts department holds an exhibit on Friday, June 1. The exhibit will be held in the two clothing rooms on the second floor of the household arts building and in one of the rooms on the first floor of the same building. It will be open from 1 to 5:30 p. m., and tea or punch will probably be served to those who attend the affair.

A number of persons have wanted to attend the clothing classes, especially on the days when the students gave class criticism, according to Miss Hazel Clark, who is directing the work, but at such times it was thought necessary to bar the public in order to give the students enrolled in the work a chance to express their opinions and ideas more freely. Because of this situation the department decided to hold the show.

The latest problems worked out by the students in the sewing classes will be shown, and will include coats, jackets and capes. Some of last term's work will also be shown. It is planned not to show the best work only, but to make the exhibit as representative as possible of the whole clothing department.

The seventh and eighth grade classes of the University high school will also have some displays in the exhibit. The members of these classes have been using the machines in the University household arts department.

It is hoped by faculty members of the department that the exhibit may become an annual event. All University students and townspeople are invited to come.

BUNGALOW TEA PLANNED

Faculty and Students Will be Served from one to six in Afternoon

The Bungalow is to be turned into a cleverly decorated tea room, Thursday,

May 31, when the campus Y. W. C. A. will entertain University students and faculty members. The tea is to be held from 1 to 6 p. m. Tables are to be placed on the porch of the Bungalow as well as inside, and both places will be attractively decorated, according to Florence Buck, who is in charge of arrangements for the affair. Several delicious things are to be served including sundaes iced tea and short-cake, she says.

The money raised from the sale of the refreshments will go towards the loan fund being raised to send University women to the conference which will be held at Seabeck Washington June 26 to July 6. Other members of the Seabeck committee are assisting planning the entertainment for next Thursday.

O. A. C. SENIORS TO GIVE MEMORIAL TO COLLEGE

Tablet Modeled by Avarad Fairbanks to be Unveiled at Commencement in Honor of the Soldier Dead

A service memorial for the O. A. C. men who were killed in the late war has been modeled by Avarad Fairbanks, professor of sculpture, and will be cast tomorrow. The memorial is to be a bronze tablet seven feet high and 33 inches wide. It has been ordered by the class of 1923 at Corvallis as a gift to the college.

A line drawing and a small clay model were first made by Professor Fairbanks as studies for the composition. The work has gone steadily forward, the casting being postponed from day to day because of some further refinement that the sculptor wished to add.

The panel expresses the spirit of sacrifice personified as an angel upholding the soldier—a typical service man in his tin helmet, a tired boyish face uplifted, and his gun at rest in his right hand. His left hand holds the symbolical olive branch which he has won by paying the supreme sacrifice. Below the soldier's extended left arm which the angel supports is a roll to be engraved with the names of the dead.

Around the curved top of the frame will be stars done in gold—one for each of the men whose names are on the roll of honor. Across the foot of the panel, below the sweep of the angel's wings are small crosses with conventionalized poppies between them suggesting the famous line, beginning: "In Flanders' field the poppies grow Between the crosses row on row That mark our place—"

The tablet will be sent to New York to be done in bronze.

COMMERCE WOMEN HONORED

Members of Phi Theta Kappa, women's honorary commerce fraternity, were joint hostesses with Miss Ethel Gaylord at the latter's home Tuesday night, in honor of the underclass women in the school of business administration. The evening was spent informally, and ended with an attractive luncheon. Miss Gaylord is a 1919 alumna, having graduated from the school of business administration. She is now employed as secretary to Donald McDonald, manager of the Castle and Rex theatres in Eugene.
