

OREGON TO GET 16 U. HIGH GRADUATES

All But Two in Senior Class Plan to Go to College; Five Go Elsewhere

Of the 23 members of the graduating class of the University high school, only two do not intend to continue their school work next year. These two, Edna English and Robert Giffen, will enter college later.

Five of the seniors intend to enter institutions other than the University of Oregon. Hugh Lynch intends to take medicine at the University of California, Theodore Ruch will study medicine at Stanford, Bertha Ashby will go to O. A. C., Florence Potampa will attend business college, and J. A. Nebres will enter the Eugene Bible university.

Three of the 16 entering the University will take pre-engineering. These are Clarence Bradley, Emmett Jones, and Hubert Yearian. Bertha Hanks and Robin Jones will take journalism, while Gertrude Gum and Alice Armantrout will major in education. History also draws two prospective students, Louise Maxwell and Ora Olson. Alfons Korn will take English literature; Virginia Gray, medicine; Charlotte Platt, sociology; Helen Shinn, science; Maybrey Strong, economics; and May Tolle, Romance languages. Donald McCormick intends to remain at the high school and take post graduate work.

ever assembled on the coast at one time. The California Bears, fresh from their third successful capture of the national championship at Philadelphia, will be the big favorites and should have little trouble in carrying off the honors. California has probably the greatest array of field stars in the country and her distance men are also powerful.

Weight Men Score

It was through the ability of her weight men and jumpers that California took the eastern meet last Saturday. It is not likely that the other schools on the coast will give the Bears much competition in these events. However in the sprints and some of the other events there are likely to be some stiff battles. Red Norris, California's pole-vaulter tops the bar 12 feet 6 inches, and there should be a great contest between him and Ralph Spearow if the latter is in form. Washington and Oregon are both strong in the sprints and may take some points in these events. Likewise O. A. C.'s distance men are planning to make themselves recognized in the Saturday competition. Oregon will enter the meet an underdog but unless the same thing happens to the varsity as did at Seattle last Saturday, the Lemon-Yellow should be able to give a good account of herself especially in the jumps and the sprints.

The school of business administration of the University of Oregon has accepted the invitation to become a member of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, which was extended at the fifth annual meeting of the association May 3, 4 and 5.

JUNIOR PICNIC DAY JUNE 9

Date of Annual Class Affair Changed Because of Conflicting Events

The date of the Junior picnic has been changed to June 9, due to the fact that the original date, June 2, was already filled with house parties and picnics.

The committees in charge of the annual class affair have plans well in hand and promise to make the recent senior jaunt small in comparison.

By an unanimous vote the class deecided that the picnic is to be "no date" although it is very probable that some paiging will occur before it is over.

Although it has not been definitely announced the picnic probably will be held at Coburg bridge, where there is sufficient room for the entire class to frolic. Baseball games, horseshoe and marble tournaments and possibly an aquatic event or two will be on the program.

The refreshments are to be the feature of the day and those in charge are planning a bang-up menu.

There is a penalty for any members of the class making dates, tentative or otherwise before arriving on the picnic grounds, a week from Saturday.

STUDENT HEALTH IS GOOD

Changes in Weather Account for the Prevalent Colds on Campus

Student health on the campus is, on the average, better than that of last term, according to Dr. W. K. Livingston of the University health service. In general, this is true of the spring term. The colds, grippes, and infectious maladies come immediately after the Christmas vacation each year.

With the changes in the weather, the advance of the picnic season and the growing attractions of the mill-race there are always a few colds but at present there is no noticeable increase in the number. There are several vacant beds at the infirmary, and less than half of those students at the infirmary are there because of colds.

Refund to Precipitate Final Financial Fling

With the refunding of the $10 deposit required of all men taking military training, the campus will probably witness a wild orgy of financial recklessness.

After a whole year of careful hoarding of the beloved berries this tenkopeck hand-out will loom up with immense proportions before the orbs of the veteran warriors. As a matter of precaution against unrestrained dissipation it might even be advisable to dole out the ducents in installments.

Many of the troopers, whose means have been heretofore limited by lack of capital, will gird themselves in purple and fine linen and trek to the main stem of the village for one reckless night. Those who "pig" will make a date and buy a box seat at one of the slipping picture places. Some of them will even wax so eloquent as to intimate to their bobbed-haired companion that such proclivities have not been habitual in the past because of studious inclinations.

Others of the leathernecks will utilize their knowledge gained in the pursuit of war and steal away behind the barracks and try to annex their buddy's roll by the old familiar method of rolling the ivory. Some will emerge from this fray with bolstered assets and others rich only in experience.

But the more conservative will keep the 10 shekels to buy a ticket back to Podunk. Coming home on the cushions instead of in the manner common to lierurely tourists will create a better impression upon the family head of the treasury and make a return to school next fall propitious.

GERALD BARNES TO VISIT UNIVERSITIES IN EAST

Physical Education Instructor Will Not Return to Oregon Next Fall But Will Work Elsewhere

Gerald Barnes, assistant professor of physical education, will leave immediately for the East, according to an announcement made yesterday. He intends to visit various universities in order to study their methods before they close for the summer.

Barnes will not return to Oregon. "I am on the best of terms with the administration," he said yesterday. "I simply feel that I want to move on. I applied for a release some time ago, so that I could go to some institutions I wish to see before school closes, but did not expect to have my request granted. It pleased me very much that the president and the dean have let me go."

Larger colleges which he will visit on his way East include the University of Wisconsin, the University of Michigan, and Ohio State University. For the future, Barnes has no definite plans. If
