

MANY VACANCIES LEFT IN UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

All Student Musicians Urged to Try Out for Positions; No Definite Plans Formulated As Yet

Rex Underwood, orchestra director, announces that the organization of the university orchestra this year will be perfected as soon as regular meetings can be conveniently arranged. The first meeting of those interested in trying out for orchestra positions will be held at the music building in Underwood's studio on Friday between the hours of 4:30 and 6 p. m.

The director urges all former orchestra members and any persons who can play musical instruments to report to him at this time. There is a special demand for brass in the orchestra this year and vacancies have been created in the string and woodwind sections. There is also, Underwood points out, a wide-open situation for a good piano player. Talented pianists will be given consideration. There is a possibility that good saxophone players may find a place in the orchestra this year. Underwood wants it strictly understood, however, that only first class players need apply.

As yet no definite plans have been formulated for the orchestra season. There will be the same work which falls upon the organization to assist in concerts and supply entertainment. New programs will be worked out this year, and an entirely new repertoire established. Underwood has lost some valued musicians by graduation and announces that all comers will be given fair try-outs, in order that the vacancies may be filled with the best material available.

NEW CAMPUS HEATING PLANT NEARLY FINISHED

Old Buildings Are Moved to Make Room for Construction; Steam Pipes Laid During Summer

The new heating plant being erected on the former site of the Industrial Arts building, is nearing completion rapidly, according to H. M. Fisher, head of the University construction department. The smokestack, which will be 125 feet high when completed, is under construction now and will be finished within eight or ten days. The plant will not be used before January 1, however, as the boilers have not yet been received and it will take some time to install them.

To make room for the new plant all of the buildings on the east side of University street opposite the Journalism and Architecture buildings had to be moved. The Industrial Arts building was placed on the old site of the University depot, which was moved to the rear of the other buildings. The infirmary, the "pest house" and the carpenter shop were also included in the buildings shifted about.

One of the largest jobs undertaken by the construction department, this summer, was the laying of the large steam pipes to the Oregon, Commerce and Library buildings. This work is now completed, and the pipes were ready for use last week. The pipes now being installed in front of the Y. M. C. A. hut are drain pipes for this steam service.

valuable as he has had two years experience. Sinclair can also work into other positions in the line and Carlberg goes good in the flank position.

Mautz, Williams and Risley, though lacking varsity experience, begin to loom as good as the flankers of last year. DuPaul may also be heard from this year. At center Fat Wilson and Bill Johnson are having their little scrap. So far Fat has a slight edge, but Johnson is not in the best of shape and will be heard from before the curtain is rung down.

Sax Valuable Addition

Chapman and Hunk Latham are playing the same brand of ball they did a year ago and Hunk is going better than ever and his kicking is going to be a factor in the race this year. The addition of Moe Sax offsets the loss of the veterans Gram, Johnson and King to a certain extent. The little fellow is a wizard at squirming his way through a line. Added to that he has a football head and can stack up with the best at quarter. The varsity is fortunate in having two good field generals this season. Terjeson may develop into the wonder man of the team. He has worlds of drive this year. Poulson and Kirtley are not far behind the others in ability and they will be heard from before the year is very old.

There are about 40 men, turning out for the varsity now and from these Huntington and Spellman will be able to pick an eleven that will put up a creditable fight.
