

SENIOR AND JUNIOR COMPANIES PICKED

Senior Company is Working on "The Green Goddess;" Charlotte Banfield to Play Lead

Fergus A. Reddie, professor of Drama and Speech Arts, today announced the students who will represent the senior and junior companies of the Dramatic department.

Those in the senior company are: Katherine Pinneo, Elizabeth Robinson, John Ellestad, Gordon Wilson, Wade Kerr, Barney McPhillips, Joe Clark, Darrell Larsen, Virgil Mulkey, Winona Dyer, Portia Kidwell and Katherine Watson.

Members of the junior company are Beth Pariss, Gerda Brown, Lexro Prillamam, Helen Mayer, Paul Krausse, Henry Sheldon, Walter Malcolm, David Swanson, Terva Hubbard, Florence Crandall, Helgra McGrew, and Florence Couch.

The senior company is now working on "The Green Goddess." Miss Charlotte Banfield has the lead, and is being supported by the men of the company.

"Peter Ibbetson" is the next play to be produced, and will be put on by the combined senior and junior companies. This play will be followed by "The Show Shop" which will be a junior company production.

INFIRMARY OFFICIALS REQUEST NEW FICTION

Hendricks Hall Girls Donate Volume to Cause; Call Comes For More For Confined Students

In response to a call for more books, from the University infirmary, the girls of Hendricks hall each gave two pennies, with which they purchased Sheila Kaye-Smith's novel, "Johnanna Godden," their gift to the infirmary library.

It is the only addition made to the scanty book shelf in the infirmary since the call was made. "It is the only gift so far," said Miss Orpha Clouse, the nurse on duty, "but if all the men and women on the campus would follow the example of the Hendricks hall girls, their few pennies would buy us many books."

It is the belief of Miss Clouse that since there are patients at the infirmary from all the houses, at some time or another, it is only right that everyone should respond to the cry for more books. "They surely must have books, here or at home, which they would be willing to donate," was Miss Clouse's statement.

When inquired as to the type of books which are desirable, Miss Clouse said, "Good light fiction of all kinds is what we prefer. We want the books which the students will enjoy reading, and we want many of them."
