Rooting for Oregon

Oregon football fans will watch with interest the clash today between Oregon and a team which held O. A. C. down to a small score a short time ago. It is our first chance to see the Lemon-Yellow huskies in action and what they do today should be a fairly good basis for the future success of the team. The showing they make against the Pacific eleven will supply Oregon's first definite impression of the gang that will represent them in Oregon's most-talked-of sport.

The spectators will not be the only ones who will get an impression today, however. After the final whistle has blown and the last rooter has left the grandstand, Oregon's team will have a good idea of what kind of support it may expect from the student body this year.

We want that team to know that we are behind them to the man. If the thundering thousand come through today, then the Oregon warriors will face the coming schedule with absolute confidence of support.

A great deal depends upon what happens in the rooting section today. Oregon is no place for slackers.

The referee's whistle blows first at 2:30. Be there.

"There'll Be A Hot Time"

The annual jamboree of campus journalists is scheduled for tonight. It is an event to which the scribes all look forward with a great deal of enthusiasm, and which a great many writers now out in the newspaper world recall with not a little sentiment. The jamboree is credited with being responsible for much of the unusually good spirit which exists in and around the "shack." We believe that strong school spirit and a love for our own special "gang" assists in building up the highest devotion for the University as a whole.

Several other schools on the campus have used the jamboree method of promoting spirit. It is the Emerald's suggestion that the idea be adopted generally. Such a practice helps to avoid the coldness which is sometimes apparent on a campus that is approaching the point where the comradeship of a small institution is being replaced by the ways of a big University.

There is already evidence of a careless tendency on the part of campus citizens to misuse the campus. Caretakers report an unnecessary amount of waste paper on the grass and dim outlines of paths are beginning to appear on the campus in places unthought of by the landscape gardeners.

Our campus is one of Oregon's biggest assets. It is a thing to which we can point with real pride. Inspirational to the student and faculty member alike, it lies as a protecting influence against harsh and ugly things from an outside world. A real love of the campus will prevent any intentional disfigurement.

Good morning! We have with us again—the squarest mix.

The Sunday Emerald

To the Editor:

Though I have been informed that the present editor of the Emerald does not desire to put out a Sunday issue that will interest faculty people the while it bores students, still may I report having had an excellent half hour with Sunday's paper.

I note that your communicants do not have to subscribe to high-minded sentiments exclusively, and so I confess that in my opinion "Around and About" is a pretty good column. Indeed I missed nothing in it—nothing except the slyer thrusts which were not meant for me anyhow, which I realize I cannot grasp, but which I do not redden my eyes about. None of them seemed aimed at me, so I said, "Let him who gets an arrow through the heart do his own worrying about blood-poisoning."

You seem to avoid being sententious, even in the editorial column; and I do approve of that. There was the wideness of the seas between the Morrisette stuff and Velvet Joe, and the specialization of your news matter. The Velvet Joe, I assume, assuaged its own clientele.

I believe a Sunday Emerald of the type of your first will attract contributions (which I dare say you don't object to) and will be kept on board as nourishment and stimulant even after the foundering craft has been lightened of such common commestibles as the new ten cent Ladies Home Journal and The American Magazine—both good to sleep on but not providing much chew. Sincerely yours, FACULTY MEMBER

MILNE PLAY TO BE GIVEN

Mask and Buskin Chooses "Dover Road" for First Presentation

"The Dover Road", by A. A. Milne, has been chosen by Mask and Buskin, dramatic fraternity, as its first play of the year. The production, a comedy drama in four acts, will be given at the Heilig theatre November 15.

Prof. Fergus Reddie, head of the department of drama, is to be director of the production and although the cast has not yet been announced, plans are already under way. New scenery has been ordered from Seattle for "The Dover Road", which is expected to add much to the enjoyment of the play.

Mask and Buskin was installed as a chapter of Pi Epsilon Delta, national college players, last June. Officers of the fraternity are Darrell Larsen, president; Katherine Pinneo, vice-president; Wenona Dyer, secretary; and Ted Baker, manager.

"BLINKY" AT HEILIG

A tumble into actus during the painful experience of learning to ride, battles with border rum runners and kidnapers, and turbulent experiences in army etiquette all combine to mix thrills and laughs in "Blinky," new Universal comedy of army life, starring Hoot Gibson, now playing at the Heilig theatre.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY HAS STAFF CHANGES

Mrs. Shoemaker, Ex-resident of City Makes Book Donation; Collection is Considered Valuable

Almost 120 books from the library of the late Rev. T. J. Wilson, grandfather of Mrs. Mary Watson Barnes, well known member of the faculty, have been received by the University library. The books were donated by Mrs. Shoemaker, mother of Mrs. Barnes, and formerly a resident of Eugene.

The donation contains books of various natures, but it consists largely of theological works. Some of the books on religious subjects are: "Paul, the Preacher," by Eadie; "Sermons," by Spurgeon; and five volumes of "Notes on the Bible," by Barnes. The collection also contains histories, biographies, and a few books on scientific and other subjects. Some of these books are Dodridge's "Botany," "Sketches from English History," by Wheeler; and "Thomas Jefferson," by Smecker.

Many of the books are old and are typical of the books published in Rev. Wilson's youth. For this reason the library considers them very valuable, as there are not many collections of old books as large as this.

MANY TURN OUT FOR BAND

Musicians Will Play For Stanford Game In Portland, November 10

"The University band this year will be the greatest and best Oregon has ever had," says Colonel Sinclair. He attributes this, to the wonderful spirit and interest that is being shown, which is greater than it has ever been before. There are seventy men trying out, which is by far a larger number than in any preceding year. Mr. Albert Perfect, last year's director, will again direct the band this year.

Saturday afternoon the students will have the first opportunity to hear their band, which will be another reason, says Colonel Sinclair, why they should come out to the game.

Forty-five members of the band will accompany the team to Portland when they play Stanford university on November 10.

JACKIE COOGAN AT REX

Jackie Coogan the wistful little figure of "My Boy" and "Daddy" is given a part in the First National picture, "Circus Days," that seems better suited to his talents than anything else he has done for the silent drama.

Proof of this was amply manifested by the enthusiasm with which
