The Emerald Staff

The organization for the publication of the 1923-24 Oregon Emerald has been completed. The complete masthead runs for the first time today.

Students who have succeeded in making the staff have done so in every instance because they showed a willingness to work and to cooperate in producing a newspaper of which the student body can be proud. Their appointment is a recognition of what they have done this year. Staff members no longer maintain their positions on the Emerald merely because they have been on before or because they are upperclassmen in the school of journalism.

The staff will be reappointed every six weeks, and non-functioning staff members will be dropped from the list. New workers will be named from time to time, and special recognition of meritorious service will be given frequently.

The Emerald organization has always had a remarkable spirit of comradeship and cooperation. Workers are on hand from early morning until early the next morning as a part of the activity in getting out a single issue. Night editors sometimes work until daylight. Their reward is valuable journalistic experience and the satisfaction of work well done—a feeling that they have held up their end of the work.

This year's Emerald staff has a number of members not registered in the school of journalism. A number of the editorial advisory staff are registered in other departments. It is our desire to cover the entire campus thoroughly and present the news fairly and fearlessly. Your cooperation as a member of the A. S. U. O. and hence a part owner of the Emerald is an obligation. Your suggestions are always welcome.

Members of the new staff say "Hello" to their fellow students in their new capacity. Congratulations are due them.

"The Ancient and Independent Order of Fiery Domes" is the latest organization to appear on the Oklahoma campus and is to include only red-headed students. The color that flamed from Oregon sophomore domes seems pretty well extinct. Probably a case of "the light that failed." The Oklahoma group, by the way, is a good example of what many campuses are doing in the way of creating a great many senseless and non-functioning organizations. The Emerald will have more to say about this later.

Have you submitted your Homecoming slogan yet? If a contest were to be staged to pick a permanent slogan from the ones that have been used in past years Dr. James Gilbert's "Home to Meet 'em—Back to Beat 'em" would have our vote.

MORE ABOUT CO-OP

To the Editor:—The time has come to go further with an investigation of the management, ownership, and condition of the impossibly situated business known as the "Co-op."

The recent "break" by the Co-op management in the matter of rosters caps, the resignation of a Co-op director with the confession that he had no idea of how the business was conducted, the lack of attention given student purchases, prices which are as high as any other store selling the same goods, together with the celebrated "disappearing dollar," and the "diminutive dividends" no matter how legally or technically right they may be, are not in keeping with the purpose of a co-operative association. The purpose of a co-operative association is to save its members money.

Therefore, a complete and itemized financial statement of the Co-op business; an inventory of the goods on hand; the net profits earned; the methods and details of raising money for the conduct of a huge business with only $2,400 capital; and the salary of the manager should be bared in the columns of the Emerald.

It seems perfectly foolish to believe that students own the Co-op, and far more sensible to insist that students have purchased it.

ROBERT F. LANE.

WILLIAM'S FROSH MEET CHEMAWA ON SATURDAY

Babe Squad Still Green, and First Team Has Little Trouble in Breaking up Attack

They turn out "Big Green" teams at Dartmouth, but according to Coach "Baz" Williams Oregon has a contender for the title in this year's frosh.

The yearlings received their baptism of fire last night when they faced the varsity in a half hour workout. The forwards weren't blocking as they should have been, and the varsity line sifted through and broke up play after play. But on the defense, the Frosh looked better although the varsity went through almost at will.

Agee was not out last night, and Williams worked Post, Socalifski, Jones and Minnaugh in the backfield with Minnaugh calling signals. Kerns and Stearns were used at tackles, and Pete Dill and Brooks at end. The frosh stuck to straight football and forward passes. They completed a number of passes against the team but gained little yardage via this route.

Coach Williams said the squad would be forced to work at a fast pace the remainder of the week as they will have to be in first-class condition when they meet Chemawa Saturday on Hayward field. The Indians from Salem have a fast, light team this year and can be relied on to give the first-year men a good game.
