

LAMONT B. STONE FIRST IN P.A. TEST

Freshman With 96 Points,
Leads List for Second Time

THIRD TEST WILL BE GIVEN

New System of Grading Next
Term Will be Used

The series of physical ability tests given the past week failed to show up any remarkable scores. Lamont B. Stone, a freshman, still leads the list this year with 96 points. Tied for second place are Donald M. Cash and Harry Dutton with 92. Lowell Hoblitt takes third place with 83.

The interest in the test is greater than ever before this year and over 190 men have taken the test. Out of that number approximately 50 per cent made the grade and got by with a passing score. The number of men taking the test was almost the same for this time last year.

The test is given in series of units and sometimes it takes several days for the test to be run off. Only twenty are permitted to take the test at the same time so that the three tests given during the past week accommodated only 60 men.

Highest Scores Given
Among the highest scores in individual events are the following: High jump: James Stewart, five feet, five inches; Harry Dutton, five feet, four inches; and Lamont B. Stone, five feet, two inches.

Bar vault: Lowell Hoblitt, six feet, four inches; Carl Benson, six feet two inches.

Rope climb: Alan Woolen, ten seconds, and Harry Dutton, ten seconds.

Run: Donald Cash, 22 4-5 seconds, with Donald Jeffries, James Reinhart and William Wilbur all running it in 23 and 2-5 seconds.

Swim: Ben Lombard, 1 minute, 9 seconds; Lamont Stone, 1 minute, 22 seconds.

At the end of the term a test will be given for those who have fallen down in some particular event. This will be given only for those who have tried the test and have failed on account of not passing one event. This will enable them to practice and prepare for the event in which they fell below the mark set.

Grade May be Raised
It will also be given for those who wish to raise their grade in the department. Heretofore the grade of I has been given to all physical ability men who have passed the test with a total of 60 points or over. So many men have passed the test with that score that it destroys the proportion between the grades in the department.

After this term, according to the announcement of Harry Scott, director of physical education, only those physical ability men with a score of 75 or over will be given a grade of I. The test itself will be changed in no way.

UNDERWOOD TO BE JUDGE

Music Professor Will Officiate in Violin Contests in Portland

Rex Underwood, professor in the school of music and director of the University orchestra, has been asked to officiate as judge in violin contests which are to be held under the auspices of the Oregon State Teachers' Association.

The contests, which cover many lines of music, are to be held at the Multnomah Hotel in Portland the latter part of this month, and are only open to non-professional students.

This is the first attempt in the state for a contest of this kind, and Rex Underwood considers it very fine from the standpoint that unknown talent will be brought out, and later cultivated for the enrichment of the music world.

John Seifert of the music school will also act as judge. He will officiate in the vocal contests.

RECENT BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY RENT SHELF

List Includes Several Works by Popular Authors

Several new books have recently come to the library to be added to the rent collection. "The Kangaroo," "The Captain's Doll," and "Studies in Classics of American Literature," all by D. H. Lawrence, and "Tut, Tut! Mr. Tutt," by Arthur Train, are on the list of new books.

"From Immigrant to Inventor," by Michael Pruin, the story of a Siberian herder and how he came to America, working his way on farms and in factories until he became one of the greatest scientists of the age, has been received. Dr. H. B. Torrey, professor of zoology, first called the attention of the library to the unusual interest of this book.

Besides rent books, several new additions have been made to the regular circulation department. Among new books, some of which have been added both to the rent and general circulation, are "The Dance of Life," by H. Ellis; "Beasts, Men and Gods," by Ferdinand Ossendowski; "The End of the House of Alard," by Sheila Kay Smith; "The Temptress," by Vincente; "Mastro Don Gesualdi," by Giovanni Vergi; "Race and National Solidarity," by Charles C. Josey, and "The Dove's Nest," by Katherine Mansfield.

Of special interest is "The Dove's Nest," a collection of short stories by Katherine Mansfield, wife of J. Middleton Murry, distinguished English critic and former editor of the British Athenaeum, famous literary magazine of London. At a time when English critics prophesied that she would in time become the greatest master of the short story, and a brilliant figure in the field of literature, Katherine Mansfield died. In addition to three novels, she wrote two collections of short stories, including "The Dove's Nest," published after her death, which occurred only last January. The collection contains six finished stories and 15 not entirely complete.

AGGIE YEARLINGS SAID TO OUTWEIGH FROSH

with a shrug of the shoulders and depend on "Oregon Fight" to enable our frosh to drag home the laurels. On the contrary, it is going to take all of the fight that 11 Oregon freshmen are capable of turning out, all of the tricks of modern football that the frosh bosses have in their trick bag to give the frosh the privilege of beating the rooks. It looks like a stupendous task, but we have a lot of confidence in Baz Williams and his freshman crew.
