RED CROSS DRIVE TO BE WEDNESDAY

Program for Soliciting Funds Is Unusual; Speakers Will Visit Living Organizations

LUCINDA DELL IN CHARGE

Local Work Among Veterans of War Receives Money From Students' Pledges

Next Wednesday the annual drive for Red Cross subscriptions will be launched on the campus. Complete charge of the drive is in the hands of Lucinda Dell, who has planned a live program for soliciting funds among the various organizations. A representative from each house will have charge of the work in that house. On Tuesday, during the dinner hour, speakers will be sent out to the houses, a man speaker to a girls' house and a girl speaker to a men's house. A table will be provided inside the entrance of the library from 9 to 12 Monday morning and from 1 to 4 in the afternoon. All organizations are requested to turn in their quotas at the booth during the hours that it is open in the afternoon.

Students Urged to Cooperate
"Of course, it is not compulsory to join," says Lucinda Dell in urging student cooperation with the house representatives, "but I think we all know what the Red Cross does and are willing to help." The local Red Cross unit has expressed the hope that the University will respond generously this year as the students usually support movements of this kind very well. The money pledged will be used for two separate ends. A part will go to the national organization and a part to the community work. The students are asked merely for the annual membership contribution of $1. However, the following contributions and membership statuses are available at this time: $5 for contributing membership, $10 for sustaining membership, $25 for supporting membership, $50 for life membership and $100 for patron membership. Of the first four of these, all but 50 cents will be used for local community work.

Town Drive Progressing
The student pledges may be paid in installments but it is the desire of the chairman that the payment be made at once. The local unit has been putting on a drive during the last few days and while the outlying districts have not been heard from, $1,500 has now been received from Eugene. The aim of the drive, including the student contribution, is $3,600. The town drive will continue till Thanksgiving.

Lane county has a long record of work in the Red Cross line, especially in helping the ex-servicemen and his family. There is still a large number of disabled men in the hospitals who require aid. The Red Cross has special branches for hospital treatment, vocational training, cases of tuberculosis, epilepsy and shell shock, bonus applications and reinstatement of insurance. There are also many civilian cases under their care.

During the Japanese disaster, the Lane county relief campaign contributed a free-will offering of $2,342.15. This is the students' opportunity to cooperate in this kind of work.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCED

Colonel Leader Is on Deck for Homecoming Festivities

"I always feel, in case O. A. C. does win, that perhaps one last yowl from me might have saved the day," says Colonel Leader, and it is for that reason, he adds, that he lives in Vancouver instead of England, "because, you know, it would be so far to come over from England every year for Oregon's Homecoming."

The popular colonel is back on the campus again to witness the big game and help Oregon on to a victory against the Beavers. And there is no doubt in his mind that there will be a victory, although it does not necessarily take a victory to keep up his enthusiasm. "Three athletic events stand out in my mind," he says, "that to me are the high points in Oregon athletics since my first connection with the school. The first was the big game between O. A. C. and Oregon, 1919, when O. A. C. carried off the honors with a score of 9 to 7. The second was the Thanksgiving game last year, when we tied

Student Who Will Play Comedy Role at Heilig

Katherine Pinneo

"DOVER ROAD" WILL BE STAGED NEXT MONDAY

Clever Comedy to be Produced by Mask and Buskin

"Dover Road" is a little more than just a play. It is a pleasure, keen amusement, and the certain promise of an evening of successive laughs in appreciation of really good situations and clever lines.

If "Dover Road" had not a successful past in New York, it would still be worth seeing for its own sake, for, as the author himself says of it, "it is an absurd comedy." Mask and Buskin has made itself known for the above-amateur quality of its productions and its interpretations.

Kate Pinneo is cast in the humorous role of the piece and, after her many performances in company plays and her acts in junior vaudeville, little more need be said. In this play she has an unusual opportunity for good comedy. The part lends itself to the sort of maneuvering the Pinneo brand of comedy can get across.

Betty Robinson, who could hardly be cast for anything but a charming little aristocrat, will interpret Anne, opposite Ted Baker, who is also managing the play. Dave Swanson has a very nice role, which he does well. Dave is getting better all the time. His part in the "Green Goddess" was well received by the audience.

Darrell Larsen is in the role of Mr. Latimer, rich and eccentric bachelor, who lives on the Dover Road, the way the eloping couples take, and it would really seem as if this part were made for Larsen. In the "Green Goddess" he did better than in most of his former interpretations but the part assigned him in this play he handles more easily than that of the Rajah.

The play will be produced at the Heilig theatre one night only, a next Monday night, November 19. A memory of the ticket situation for "Come Out of the Kitchen," the last Mask and Buskin play, would plead the necessity of getting the tickets early if one would be sure.

COURSE FOR BEGINNERS IN BASKETBALL OFFERED WOMEN

A voluntary course for beginners in basketball is being offered to women in a class directed by Dorothy McKee. The course is to continue for the rest of this term and next term and all those who have never played but desire to learn are invited to enter. No credit is given in the work. The class meets every Wednesday and Thursday at 4 o'clock.

DR. BOWMAN WILL TALK AT ASSEMBLY

"Three Philosophies of Life" Is Portland Pastor's Subject at Student Body Meeting

VILLARD HALL IS PLACE

Speaker Teacher for Three Years at Beirut College, Syrian Christian Institution

At the assembly today in Villard hall, Dr. Harold Leonard Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Portland, will talk on "Three Philosophies of Life," and the University orchestra will play two numbers.

It is not known what philosophies of life Dr. Bowman will discuss, but it is known that his discussions are always fascinatingly absorbing, for, as a speaker, he is considered by persons who have heard him to be exceptionally fine. The very fact that after his graduation from McCormick Theological Seminary his second pastorate was in the Portland church, the sixth largest Presbyterian church in the United States, speaks well for his ability. The members of his pastorate number considerably more than the University student body, according to Rev. Bruce Giffen, University student pastor. Reverend Bowman is particularly interested in and qualified to talk before college students, for he is a member of the synod committee which has charge of religious work in the colleges.

Speaker Will Address High School

Dr. Bowman has addressed the students at the University of Oregon each year since his arrival in the west, and faculty members and students alike are warm in their praise of him as a lecturer.

He will arrive on the campus this morning, and, before the campus assembly, he will address the students of the Eugene High school.

At noon Dr. Bowman will be guest of honor at a luncheon to be given at the "Y" hut, at which time student leaders on the campus are invited to meet him. One of the outstanding purposes of the luncheon is to create atmosphere for the Student Volunteer convention to be held in Indianapolis, Indiana, the latter part of December. This conference is expected to be the greatest student gathering in the world, as it is planned to have present 6,000 students representing approximately 1,000 institutions of higher education all over the world. These Student Volunteer conventions, which are interdenominational in their scope, are held every four years.

Dr. Bowman Foreign Instructor

Reverend Bowman is particularly interested in such an international project, for he was for three years an instructor in Beirut college, a Christian institution in Syria. It was largely through his efforts that Roy Veatch, a Eugene man who was graduated from the University in 1921, was elected to the position of instructor in that institution.

Though all student body assemblies so far this term have been held in the Woman's building, the administration announces that Villard will be used for that purpose today.

The orchestra, under the direction of Professor Underwood, will play a selection from "The Fortune Teller," by Victor Herbert, and probably Tschickowsky's "Chinese Dance."

FRIENDLY HALL LEADS IN DOUGHNUT DEBATE

First Forensic Contest of Season Held Last Night; Question Involves Timber Tax

Friendly hall took the lead in the first lap of the Doughnut debate, which was held last night in the Commerce building, both the affirmative and negative teams winning unanimous decisions, and making the maximum of eight points. Psi Kappa, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Tau Delta were close seconds with seven points each.

The question was "Resolved: That Oregon should adopt a severance tax on timber." The affirmative teams received a slight majority of votes.

The results are as follows: Friendly hall, eight; Psi Kappa, seven; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, seven; Sigma Pi Tau, seven; Delta Tau Delta, seven; Bachelor, five; Phi Delta Theta, four; Alpha Beta Chi, one; Kappa Delta Phi, one; Sigma Pi Tau, one; and Oregon club nothing.

Council Elects Reinhart Varsity Basketball Coach

Action Follows Recommendation of Director Earle in Appointment of Former Oregon Star; Freshmen Will Have New Mentor

The appointment of Billy Reinhart, who has held the position of freshman backfield coach this fall, as varsity basketball coach was made known last night. Reinhart was selected from the field of applicants by the executive council, after being recommended by Virgil Earl, director of Oregon athletics. Earl's recommendation was the outcome of an expressed desire of the basketball letter men that Reinhart should be the mentor of the varsity hoop sport.

As Billy was named this fall to coach all of the freshman sports, his acceptance of the berth as varsity coach will necessitate the procuring of another freshman basketball coach. According to Earl, the services of a fresh coach will be secured at an early date.

Record Is Good
Reinhart's record as an Oregon athlete seems to give him a clear call to the position as well as the fact that he was a student of Bohler basketball. This will be greatly in his favor as he has a team that is well schooled in the Bohler type of basketball which placed a premium on fast passing and team play. As it stands now, Coach Reinhart will be able to start his work with a group of men that are well versed in his style of fundamentals, whereas if a coach of another type of basketball were appointed, he would have to undo the work of the previous coach.

Reinhart is a three-year letter man in both football and baseball and for two years held down a guard berth on the varsity basketball team. He started his collegiate athletic career when he played outfield on the baseball team in 1919 and he held that position for the following two years, serving as field captain in 1921. In 1920 he made a name for himself in football circles as an understudy to Bill Steers at quarterback and the following year was the outstanding aspirant to that position when he broke his shoulder in the Willamette game.

FARRELL HEADS STUDENT UNION

Committee Named to Advance Movement for Constructing University Rallying Place

COST TO BE INVESTIGATED

Berkeley Building Described by Frank Carter; Structure Is Center of Campus Activity

The appointment was made yesterday of this year's Student Union committee. Douglas Farrell heads the list as chairman. Farrell is a senior and head of the publicity committee for this year's Homecoming. He was chairman of Junior Week-End last year, had charge of this year's Y. M. Y. W. mix, and has held numerous other positions on the campus.

Mary Skinner, a junior and secretary of this year's Homecoming committee, and Frank Dorman, a senior in the school of architecture, completes the list. Claude Robinson, A. S. U. O. president, believes this to be a very important appointment, for the committee is to make tangible the more or less hazy plans that are outlined at present for the Student Union.

Campaign to be Worked Out

The working out of this year's campaign will be the first task of the committee. The Student Union idea was started last year and gifts were solicited from the various campus organizations. This year the plan is to have the committee work in conjunction with the gift campaign. The first tangible plans for the building are to be outlined at once. The location, plans and cost of the union will be decided upon.

The Student Union will be located in a central part of the campus, where it will be accessible to the largest number. It will contain committee rooms, lounging rooms, student stores, rooms for visiting teams, a newspaper plant, a cafeteria and other features.

"The Student Union is a rallying place to keep alive the spirit of democracy on the campus as the student body enlarges," says Robinson. The Student Union committee is to cooperate with the Greater Oregon plan to fit the Student Union building into the plans for a greater Oregon.

Fund Will be Increased

The Oregon Student Union will be built as soon as the money is secured. How soon this will be is a matter for conjecture. The cost of like buildings on other campuses ranges from $250,000 to $1,000,000.

Frank Carter, vice president of the student body, in his visit to the California campus at the student body presidents' convention, brought home some significant information concerning the Berkeley Student Union. The total cost of the Union was $400,000, of which $300,000 went into building and materials and $100,000 into furniture and equipment.

Methods in Other Schools Noted

The funds were raised by various subscription campaigns, the profits of the cooperative store, which last totaled $65,000, by an assessment of the funds of the associated students and by the profits from student activities such as football and the daily newspaper. The general purpose of this student union is to make it the center for all student life upon the campus and the headquarters of all student activities.

Among the features the building boasts are the cooperative store, soda fountain, cafeteria, tea room, barber shop, roof garden, lounging rooms and offices. The alumni association has exclusive use of one portion of the union for offices and reception rooms.

Tri-Color Oriental Motif Will be Used in Decorations

In an Oriental milieu of exotic splendor, the annual Sophomore Informal will be given Saturday evening at the armory. Strictest secrecy is being maintained by the committees in charge of decorations and features for this big University event, but a few "teasers" have leaked out which have caused much interest and suspense on the campus.

A tri-color motif of Oriental green interspersed with gray and burnt orange, which will be worked out in the decorations, has caused much speculation as to the mode of treatment of the hall which will be "exceedingly different," the committee states.

The feature dance to be given by Gladys Noreen and Kathryn Jane Seel will be a fantastic creation in conformity with the decorations, stating those in charge, and will be teeming with brilliant and gay action.

Women will be dressed in formal dress and men will appear in either informal attire, or tuxedos.

Refreshments have not been neglected and the committee handling this phase of the dance is enthusiastic regarding its choice.

The orchestra will be organized for the affair and so will be in keeping with the setting. The designs and colors of the programs are to be kept secret until the very hour of the dance.

Inasmuch as the affair is one of the big all-University affairs of the year and no admittance fee is exacted, a record-breaking attendance is forecast by the sophomores. Floyd McKelison is the chairman heading all committees for the event.

Y. M. AND Y. W. TO SPONSOR MEETING OF SOCIAL WORKERS

There will be a meeting for all those interested in observance of world fellowship work at the Y. M. C. A. hut at 7:15 o'clock tonight. The meeting is being given under the joint auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. and everyone interested in student volunteer work, or world fellowship, is invited to attend.

EMERALD TO BE MADE SEVEN COLUMN SHEET

Enlargement Found Necessary With Increase of News

A distinct advance in campus journalism was made last night when the executive council unanimously accepted the recommendation of the publications committee that the Oregon Daily Emerald be changed to a seven-column sheet.

The editorial staff of the Emerald has been handicapped this fall by lack of space and considerable important news has been crowded out to meet the needs of the advertisers, and the change was considered a necessary move.

The Emerald has come to be recognized as one of the best advertising mediums in the city, according to the report of the publications committee. This fact, the committee believes, is largely due to the work of Leo Munly, manager of the student daily, who has carried the Emerald advertising prestige to the highest mark in its history.

Robert C. Hall, superintendent of the University Press, has been instructed to go ahead with plans for the

KNIGHTS OF 2 IN 1 TO INVADE CAMPUS TODAY

National Odor of Italy to Prevail in Classes; Eyes to be Blinded by Glare of Bright Colors

Juniors will shine today! Large hobnailed, mud scows, trim, natty oxfords, dainty co-ed slippers and shoes, the Juniors will shine anything that comes by on a pair of feet today—and it will be some shine.

Bright sashes, villainous mustaches, beetling brows and melting Italian eyes will these knights of the 2 in 1 have as they sally forth accompanied by the sparkling, colorful Carmens of the class who will inveigle the more hard-boiled masculine bipeds of the campus into the lairs of the lusty-lunged advocates of a shine as the great panacea.

No one will escape, say the juniors, the professors will be accosted, their collective conscience appealed to, and their pockets rifled. Of course, no violent means will be employed, it is stated, but the most strenuous moral persuasion is in order.

As a special inducement, a handsome shoe-shining kit will be ab-so-lute-ly given away—free for shoes, to the customer having his shoes shined between the hours of 9 and 11, who holds the lucky number and is present when the drawing takes place at 11 o'clock in front of the library.

Classes will reek with the national odor of Italy. Eyes will be blinded by the glare of many newly-attacked pedal extremities, and life savers at the co-op will not sell as rapidly because of an inexplicable shortage of small change among the students.

Colonel Leader, it is rumored, came back for the express purpose of being on the campus for this occasion, though he would rather not have that published because he has told other groups the same thing. At least he will have his shoes all put in order for his next trip.

Excellent Technique Shown in Jackson Dance Program

By L. K. B. and M. S.

A uniform sense of balance and rhythm characterized the varied Denishawn dance program given by Juanita Jackson last night in Guild theatre. She was supported by Elizabeth Nelson, soprano, and Jean Harper, pianist. Four dances were presented, each in a different mood, the last one, "Maria! Mari!", being especially original in interpretation.

The most typically Denishawn of the four were the "Garden Dance" and "Brahm's Waltz" from the visualization of the waltz by Ruth St. Denis. Poise was maintained throughout, as one line rippled into another. Miss Jackson also shows her Russian ballet training in the sharp definition of
