

PROMINENT OLD-TIMERS COMING FOR WEEK-END

Former Prexies and Varsity Men Specially Featured

When the grads come pouring in for Homecoming next week, there will be two groups to whose arrival a special significance is attached. Old presidents of the student body and old members of Oregon's athletic squads are those included in the new plans.

All the A. S. U. O. presidents, from John MacGregor of last year, to men from the University's earliest days, have been invited by letter. A gathering of all these old prexies is to be held in the men's room downstairs in the Woman's building. Several answers have been received already. Carleton Savage, who held the office in the year '20-'21, and Vernon Motschenbacher, '14-'15, are enthused about the plan.

"The response to the idea shows that a student body president carries his alma mater close to his heart," said Claude Robinson, present student body head, who is fostering the plan. Another group whose ties to Oregon are strong is the Order of the O. Before the beginning of the Homecoming game this year, the Order of the O will stage the biggest parade of athletic veterans ever seen on Hayward field. It is the hope of the parade committee that the group will contain a number of every class graduated from the University.

The Order of the O men from the last four or five classes are expected to be back with a hundred per cent attendance. It is desired that some of the sports men be here to swell the group. The University wants them, one and all. There will be accommodations for housing them and a special section will be reserved at the game.

A special invitation is extended to all Order of O men to be here for the big battle, arrayed in their varsity sweaters.

When the serpentine of Oregon's warriors, old and young, starts in single file about the field, there will be many old, familiar faces represented. Many letters have been received from grads who are going to be back for this parade. From the class of '14, there will be Skeet Bigby, a football, baseball and basketball star. Ralph O'Leary, of basketball fame, and G. Clark Wheeler, a football man. Ed Bailey, '15, a well-known football man, will be here. From '16, there is Wrightson, who made his letter in basketball, and from '17, Hollis Huntington, brother of Shy and a football veteran.

Bill Steers, famous football, basketball and baseball star, and all star quarterback, who graduated in '19, is coming down for Homecoming. Ed Ward, a football man of the same year, will also be here. Ole Larson, last year's track captain, is another star who has signified his intention of being on hand for the parade.

FACULTY DRIVE NEARS END

Membership in Red Cross Expected to Reach 100 Per Cent Mark

The Red Cross drive among the faculty is almost completed, according to E. F. Carlton, field representative of the extension division, who is general chairman of the drive on the campus. All but nine departments have made their reports, turning in 100 per cent subscriptions, Mr. Carlton said.

"Quite a large number of faculty members have made substantial donations in addition to taking out the annual memberships," Mr. Carlton declared. He expects to have complete reports from the remaining departments by the first of next week. Judging from the returns of the departments which have completed their subscriptions, Mr. Carlton estimates that more than $200 will be received from the faculty.

HENDRICKS VICTORIOUS OVER TRI-DELTS IN SWIFT GAME

Hendricks hall, team 1, met the Tri-Delt team last night in a game which dricks. It was a fast game and both resulted in a 39 to 5 score for Hendricks. The game was played hard throughout. Alberta McMonies, guard, and Josephine Ulrich, center, were the stellar players for Tri-Delt. The Hendricks hall forwards, Genevieve Spear and Grace Sullivan, starred for Hendricks, and Alda Knips played a very good game in her position of guard.

Slogan Causes Much Gossip

May Take Krier Into Court

Wives Are Desperate at Loss of Husbands

Authorities at Obak's Kollege were thrown into an uproar last night when the rumor reached here that the wives of some prominent alumni members are threatening to sue the institution because of the wide-spread use of the recently adopted home-coming slogan: "Away from the wife, Obak's is the life." It seems that some of the women maintain that the use of this slogan is an alienation of their husbands' affections.

Just how this situation will be met is yet unknown. From the very outset of the thing, it looks decidedly serious, because so many old-timers have written long letters admitting that the thoughts of returning to Obak's for an evening of perfect freedom and escape from domestic relations is so pleasant that they cannot resist the temptation to return.

It is said that scores have wired for reservations and from the tones of the letters and wires, it is obvious that the men are planning upon leaving the wives home.

The latest reports from the meeting of the board of regents was to the effect that, no matter how grave the matter might appear, the Kollege would stick to its original slogan and that everything is being put in readiness for the seekers of pleasure and comfort during the home-coming week-end.

Perhaps the saddest case of all is that of the faculty member that submitted the slogan, his identity was kept as a secret because of the fear he has of his wife and now it threatens to go to court

PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS IS HOUSE MOTHERS' GOAL

Heads of Women's Organizations Enjoy Gym Classes, Theater Parties and Hike to Braes

"We have wonderful times," laughed Mrs. Lettie Mowrey, house mother of the Kappa house, in describing the activities of a group of 20 house mothers and head residents, who have banded together in the pursuit of good times.

Hikes, theater parties and gym classes are only a few of the things which are absorbing the interests of the group. Saturday they started early and hiked to the Braes, where they picniced until late in the afternoon. Tuesday nights about 10 women, under the instruction of Mrs. Mowrey, gather at the Woman's building for gymnasium work.

Those who are taking active part in the good times are: Miss Sue Badollet, Mrs. Lucy Perkins, Mrs. Jesse Stearns, Mrs. Lucy Abrams, Mrs. Mildred Giffen, Mrs. Jane Walker, Mrs. W. F. Graham, Mrs. Katherine Yerex, Miss Edna Porter, Mrs. Grace Russell, Mrs. Nora Welch Crump, Miss Gertrude Talbot, Mrs. S. N. Boyer, Mrs. Lettie Mowrey, Mrs. C. M. Krumpein, Mrs. F. W. Benson, Mrs. J. W. Kays, Mrs. H. Broeksmit, Mrs. J. G. Lange and Mrs. Linda D. Casey.

"IRENE" MUSICAL COMEDY COMING TO HELIG SOON

"Irene," the musical comedy which played to a "capacity" house when seen last season, will return to the Helig Tuesday, November 20. The songs are so eclectic that the music is being whistled, sung and played all over the world. The scenery and costumes are bright and new this season and a special orchestra is carried to ensure a proper hearing of Harry Tierney's fine music.

DIFFICULTIES FOUND IN MUSTACHE DESIRE

Our inquisitive reporter went out today to cultivate those peculiar lip growths that some are vain enough to speak of as "mustaches."

There seems to be many queer conditions involved in the development of these hairy decorations of the upper lip. The most desperate case is that of the senior who is serving his third term and, after the expenditure of over $56 on lotions, ointments and tonics, is still unable to boast of even the slightest remnants of a growth on the lip.

In contrast to this woebegone individual, is the tall, dark, fortunate that claims he has to clip his mustache with scissors every morning in order to keep it out of his coffee. It is said that he often goes to early morning classes with the major portion of buttered toast still clinging to the under brush on his lip; of course, this story may be exaggerated, we only have his word for it.

Many of the men who are having trouble with scorching the mustache when smoking cigarettes are finding relief in Obak's assortment of imported pipes; those who have been fortunate in the attempt at winning the mustache contest are also finding comfort and consolation in these same pipes. It seems to be a case of "Get a good pipe, boys, it will always be your friend."
