Homecoming Sacrifices

For months a large group of representative students have been giving generously of their time and energy that Oregon might fittingly receive its old grads home again. The results of their endeavors have been very satisfactory, and things have shaped up for a mighty gathering. Now it's up to the student body as a whole.

Unless the main body of students put aside all selfish interests and give themselves to making the 1923 Homecoming successful, the work of the committee will count for little. This year's program is prepared to give the former students and graduates of this institution a good time to show them that we appreciate the things they did to contribute to the present strength of Oregon. The pleasure which is coming to students from the affair should come largely from seeing those who came before us enjoy themselves.

The big idea for the week-end is "grads first." Every opportunity to spend time with our visitors should be taken. Friday night, after the rally, is a good time for get-togethers with alumni. Let's forget ourselves, students, and be all for the grads.

The New Coach

The plunk of the leather spheroid can once again be heard in the gymnasium. The varsity basketball squad is starting its early season practice. Bill Reinhart, one of Oregon's own athletic products, is the mentor this year. A student of the Bohler style of play, "Billy" promises to carry on the building up of the great future Oregon teams, the foundation for which was laid by Bohler in the last three years.

Reinhart, although not a veteran authority and teacher of basketball tactics, as was last year's coach, has the vigor of youth and the ambition to make the best possible showing. In addition, only two years out of college, Bill Reinhart has the good-will of the basketball squad. Some of those who will make up the team have played with him. They know him and he knows them. This should insure cooperation between the coach and the team.

The nucleus of this year's squad is made up of Bohler-trained men. The teachings of Bohler should be carried out by them successfully to the extent that his absence will be less noticed, than if some entirely strange coach were appointed in his place.

We are glad to welcome Bill Reinhart back to the campus. He has a big place to fill as coach of Oregon's basketballers. It's a big job, but also a great opportunity. Good luck, Bill!

One Year Ago Today

SOME HIGH POINTS IN OREGON EMERALD, NOVEMBER 21, 1922

John MacGregor and Kenneth Youel have left for Berkeley to attend the conference of student body presidents and editors held in that city.

B. F. Irvine, editor of the Oregon Journal, will speak at the assembly Thursday.

A new society known as the L. N. P. club, composed of second stringers on the football team, has been organized on the campus.

Bob Hawkins, Francis Alstock, Earl Shafer and Bill Poulson received physical and mental shake-ups, when the automobile in which they were riding to the Oregon-O. A. C. game, left the road and turned over several times.

Because of today's inclement weather Junior Shine day has been postponed until Thursday.

"THE ACQUITTAL" PLAYING AT HEILIG THEATER TODAY
 "Who's guilty?" This is the question that agitates the audience until the very last in one of the strangest mystery plays ever seen on the screen, in which in turn every character is suspected, almost engulfed in the net of evidence; then released. The solution comes in a dramatic climax as surprising as it is sensational. The play is "The Acquittal," Universal's super-Jewel production of Rita Weiman's famous stage play, coming today to the Heilig theater. Norman Kerry and Claire Windsor, with an all-star cast, enact the tale.

SANGER SCHOLARSHIP GIVEN NORMAN BYRNE

Former Oregon Assistant in Philosophy Department Receives Honors in Harvard Graduate School.

Norman T. Byrne, '21, has been awarded a Sanger scholarship in philosophy at Harvard. Mr. Byrne entered the graduate school at Harvard this fall, and has been awarded the scholarship in recognition of the outstanding quality of his work. An additional honor lies in the fact that this recognition was almost immediate; the scholarship was granted before the completion of four weeks of study.

Mr. Byrne was an assistant in the philosophy department at Oregon for two years following his graduation. He was granted a master's degree last summer. Mr. Byrne plans to stay at Harvard until he has completed his work for the degree of doctor of philosophy. This will not be finished, probably, until 1925.

OLIVER TO SPEAK ON CHINA

Luncheon to be Given Today at Hut for Visiting Y. M. C. A. Man

Internal conditions of China will be the subject when Mr. J. C. Oliver speaks at a luncheon to be given at the "Y" Hut today noon.

For seven years Mr. Oliver was engaged in Y. M. C. A. work at Hang Chow, a city about a five hours' journey from Shanghai. In 1913 the association work was just starting in Hang Chow. Since Mr. Oliver's arrival in 1916, it progressed until in 1922 there were 3,169 members, with a modern concrete building to house the activities. Bible classes were built up to a membership of 1,100 students. Mr. Oliver is now on a furlough and lecture trip through the United States.

All students are invited to the luncheon. Thirty-five cents a plate will be charged.

LIFE INSURANCE CLASS WILL HEAR LECTURES THIS WEEK

Robert Earl, district manager for the Equitable Life Assurance society, will speak to the life insurance class of the business administration department this morning on the subject of "Approach."

Friday morning Mr. E. M. Sprague, general manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, will talk to the class on "Ethics of the Insurance Profession." Both lectures will be at eight o'clock and in room 101 of the Commerce building.

MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR WRESTLING TEAM

Oregon to Meet Four Aggregations in Heavy Program Planned for Winter Term.

A heavy schedule has been worked out for the varsity wrestling team this year. The first match will be with the Aggies at Eugene, February 9. O. A. C. has been putting out winning teams and it is reported that they are considerably stronger this year than in previous seasons. Last year Oregon was on the small end of the score, but this year, although victory is not in sight, Coach Widmer's men expect to put up a better battle.

February 16 the team will travel to Moscow, and tackle the Idaho grapplers. The strength of their team is unknown, but it is certain that they will collect a strong bunch of wrestlers. Two days later Oregon's men will match strength against W. S. C.'s wrestlers, at Pullman.

A week after the match at Pullman, the University of Washington squad will be seen in action here. A return match with the Aggies will be staged March 6 at Corvallis, which will wind up the season for the Lemon-Yellow wrestlers.

A schedule has not been worked out for the frosh team but it is believed that three matches will be arranged at a later date.

MRS. WARNER TO GIVE CELEBRATION DINNER

Dr. E. T. Williams Who Will Speak at the Formal Dedication on Friday to be Guest of Honor.

The first celebration of the re-opening of the Murray Warner Oriental art collection this week will be the dinner for which the donor of the collection, will be hostess at the Osburn hotel on Thursday evening. The dinner will be held in honor of Dr. E. T. Williams, who will be the speaker at the formal dedication of the museum on Friday morning. Mrs. Warner's guests will include a number of prominent members of the University community, who will be asked to meet the distinguished visitor for the first time during his brief visit in Eugene.

Among those who have been invited by Mrs. Warner as guests at the affair are President and Mrs. P. L. Kerns, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis F. Lawrence, Campbell, Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hale, Mrs. Mrs. Avard Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Lillian Seton, Mrs. Lucy Perkins, Mr. Sam Bass Warner, Mr. Fergus Reddie and Mrs. Alfred Schroff, Miss Maude and Mr. and Mrs. George Gerlinger.
