Homecoming—It's Up to You

The success of the 1923 Homecoming now lies in the hands of the student body. The official committee and the alumni officials have done their work exceedingly well. Hundreds of grads and ex-students are scheduled to arrive today and tomorrow for what promises to be the greatest home-again gathering in the history of our University.

Campus organizations are making great plans for the entertainment of their alumni. There will be a great many men and women here, however, who were not affiliated with campus groups. Those in particular are the people who, through the thoughtfulness and the alertness of the undergraduates, must be taken care of. It is the duty of every Oregonian to make himself or herself known to any returned grad, who is seen alone on the campus, and to see that every courtesy is extended. It is a great opportunity for such organizations as the Oregon Knights and To-Ko-Lo, both underclass organizations, to make themselves useful.

Homecoming visitors find the greatest enjoyment in meeting those who attended the University at the same time as they did. Fraternal ties mean considerable to them, of course, largely because they knew the people in their group the best, but to see anyone whom they knew while here will probably give them a greater enjoyment than seeing the undergraduates, whom they do not know, in their own houses.

The moral of this is, of course, that the usual spirit of open house should prevail in campus organizations. All the fraternities, sororities and halls should see to it that they entertain not only their own alumni but also any returned visitor not otherwise provided for. The Sunday open-house idea is a good one and should be carried out in every way possible.

The impression we make upon our grads is one thing; but there is another group of visitors to whom we must show characteristic Oregon courtesy. That is the throng of two thousand or more O. A. C. visitors who will be at Hayward field Saturday afternoon. Days of cap-stealing and roudyism are over. A good, clean fight on the gridiron and a vigorous competition between the rooting sections is desirable. Courtesy to visitors does not mean any lack of Oregon spirit. To act like ladies and gentlemen maintains the prestige of our student body. The recent painting of the O. A. C. campus by some unknown "bad boy" vandal and the subsequent official action by the student body presidents of the two institutions, proved that both Oregon and O. A. C. have passed the small town rowdy period.

A Homecoming game free from acts of poor sportsmanship is highly desirable. Let's do our part tomorrow.

The Rooters' Battle

Latest reports indicate that a thousand men are turning out to regular yell practice at O. A. C. An editorial in a recent O. A. C. Barometer indicates that the encouragement gained from the W. S. C. struggle last Saturday has keyed the team and the student body of the Agricultural institution to the highest pitch.

Oregon's only chance to get together for a real yell practice is tonight at the armory after the bonfire. It's going to be a real test of the yell king and his staff to compete with the well-organized Beaver aggregation of rooters.

Here is what the Barometer said recently concerning the coming classic struggle: "Today is the day to start thinking, eating, and talking football, and Saturday is the day to vent that stored up fight in a tidal wave of spirit that will engulf Oregon's Hayward field." Needless to say Oregon's fighting team will prevent the engulfing of Hayward field as far as the gridiron showing is concerned, but the student body has a real task to compete with the well organized Aggie rooters—at least until Oregon makes its first touchdown. Then the competition will be over, if we are to judge from last year's showing.

Remember, Oregon fight never ceases but continues most powerfully until the final whistle has been blown.

Saturday," replied Dean Dymont when questioned as to his feelings on the behavior of the Oregon students at Corvallis.

Vachel Lindsay, who has been coming to the University ever since the opening of school this fall, will be on the campus November 28, sure.

There are 24 Johnsons, 19 Smiths, 12 Wilsons, 12 Andersons and 11 Rices on the campus this year.

Remington Portable

Take any user's advice

Anyone who uses a Remington Portable will tell you how indispensable it is.

It makes writing swifter—likewise easier. And—without any reflection on your penmanship—it makes reading easier.

Compact—fits in a case only four inches high. Easy to pick up and carry around, or tuck away in a desk drawer.

Convenient—can be used anywhere—on your lap, if you wish.

Complete—with four-row keyboard, like the big machines, and other "big machine" conveniences.

Price, complete with case, $60. Easy payment terms if desired
