GLAMOR AND UPROAR FEATURE NOISE FEST

Parade and Bonfire Declared Greatest in History

"The noisiest parade in history" they predicted, and it certainly was. The bonfire was touched off on the dot at 6:30 and in five minutes was a sheet of flame.

The S. A. E. combination carried off the cup with a steam roller and three whistles. They netted eleven points, while Beta Theta Pi came second with nine and Delta Tau Delta third with a total of seven points.

Red fire cast a lurid glow on the scene and sparklers, firecrackers and Roman candles sputtered, fizzed and added to the general clamor.

Steam rollers, circular saws, whistles and every conceivable noise contraption was there. There may have been a little rain, judging from the umbrellas that lined the streets, but the mob in the parade didn't know it.

Down Willamette street they thundered and rumbled, finally ending at the armory, where the crowd of students and alums crowded in to fill all the available space.

GIFT ACCEPTED BY UNIVERSITY

Additions to Warner Art Museum are Formally Received By President

SPECIAL ASSEMBLY HELD

Dr. E. T. Williams Talks on American-Chinese Bond in Art and Government

The art treasures of the Murray Warner museum—a bond between East and West. Such was the thought expressed by Dr. E. T. Williams, professor of oriental languages and literature in the University of California, in a talk yesterday morning in the special assembly in which the recent additions to the art collection were formally received by President P. L. Campbell.

"Within the four seas all men are brethren," was the old Chinese proverb quoted by Professor Williams in urging a closer union of America with China, "the mother of eastern Asia" in art, government, religion and philosophy.

Although the idea was not one of the aims in the plans of the Sigma Nus, they would like to see a tradition grow up in the laying of cornerstones of new houses as a part of Homecoming.

The event of tomorrow morning will take place at 9:30 at the site of the new house, on Eleventh street, between Alder and Hilyard. The Sigma Nu lot is next to the Kappa Sigma house.

The program is as follows: Invocation—Bishop W. T. Sumner. Reading of the Sigma Nu creed—Ray Harlan, commander of Gamma Zeta chapter.

The Oriental library, part of Mrs. Warner's gift, contains books on Chinese, Japanese and European art. Nearly every museum piece will have a background in one or more of the many volumes.

The large painting on the west wall of the library dates from the Ming period, between the Thirteenth and Sixteenth centuries. It represents a delegation on the way to a scholar's house to inform him that a degree has been conferred upon him.

An old bronze bell from a Buddhist temple has a remarkable tone. One can almost see the old priest striking it with his padded stick to call the worshippers.

One of the finest of the bronzes in the old Women's league room is a curiously wrought wine jug. Four bronze dogs, each with his head in a different direction, no longer guard an old temple, but a bronze bell in the middle of the central case.

OREGON AND O. A. C. PRIMED FOR FRAY

DOPE FLIES FAST BEFORE BIG FIGHT

All Tickets are Sold for Game Scheduled at 2:30 on Hayward Field Today

SAX MISSING IN LINE-UP

Today is the day! Today is the day that some 3,000 grads have been waiting for. Today is the day that a couple of thousand undergrads have been waiting for.

Whilst the dope is flying thick and fast, the supporters of the Lemon-Yellow will have to take a look at the facts of the case and judge for themselves. After the so-called dope has been simmered down we find that the only two games upon which we can pass judgment are the Idaho and W. S. C. game.

Now, as any one knows who has followed the football fortunes of the two schools, one point of dope is a mere bagatelle and as a usual thing dope of any magnitude means very little when the grid representatives of two Oregon institutions get on the field of battle.

Over in Corvallis they have it figured out that the Beaver Fight has made a great change—a step forward—that Beaver Fight has just come into its own. Maybe it has. There is one thing certain, however, that Oregon Fight has not changed one whit since that first little band of grid warriors started making Oregon's football history way back in 1894.

The oldest of Oregon's adopted sons is greeting the campus with his "hello." He is a slight, venerable figure with white beard and twinkly blue eyes that defy anyone to believe that he is 77 years old.

Mr. Robbins, like all the rest of the gang, knew the tricks to play upon the professors. At that time regular hours had to be kept by the students and each student had to report what he did during each sixty minutes.

FANS TO SEE TUMBLING

Twenty-One Trained Men to Perform Between Halves of Game

Tumbling is to be the main feature of the stunt to be given between halves at the game today, according to Lot Beattie who has charge of it. Twenty-one tumblers, trained by Earl Widmer, wrestling coach, will take part in it.

"Because of the other ceremonies taking place between halves, the stunt will be short and snappy. The actual nature of this skit will not be divulged, but we promise something good when the time comes," says Beattie.

The O. A. C. rooters will probably stage some kind of stunt in their section. Jack Myers may also manage a very short act, but this is not certain as yet.

UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES STOP AIRPLANE MENACE

University of Ohio.—Flying by any sort of aircraft over an assemblage of people on the Ohio campus was forbidden by the trustees of the university at their last meeting.

Repeated stunts over the stadium when it was thronged with spectators at recent football games caused the decision. During the game with Colgate, a stunt flyer doing smoke writing frightened the crowds. Another aviator hovered over the field during the Iowa game.

CORNERSTONE OF NEW HOME WILL BE LAID

Sigma Nu Invites Public to Ceremony Saturday

Homecoming week-end will be the occasion of a special feature this year, in the laying of the cornerstone for the new Sigma Nu house tomorrow morning. The event will be open to everyone, and all houses are asked to send representatives.

Although the idea was not one of the aims in the plans of the Sigma Nus, they would like to see a tradition grow up in the laying of cornerstones of new houses as a part of Homecoming. It is the most advantageous time, for it enables a large number of alumni to return for both events at the same time.

The event of tomorrow morning will take place at 9:30 at the site of the new house, on Eleventh street, between Alder and Hilyard. The Sigma Nu lot is next to the Kappa Sigma house.

The program is as follows: Invocation—Bishop W. T. Sumner. Reading of the Sigma Nu creed—Ray Harlan, commander of Gamma Zeta chapter.

Ideals and Traditions of Sigma Nu—C. N. McArthur. Message from the University—President P. L. Campbell. Laying of the cornerstone by charter members of Gamma Zeta chapter.

Benediction—Bishop W. T. Sumner. Charter members of Sigma Nu are: Luke L. Goodrich, Clifton N. McArthur, Clarence M. Bishop, Clyde A. Payne, Condon McCornack, Frederick J. Ziegler, Edward N. Blythe, Richard S. Smith, Charles A. Redmond (deceased).

The Sigma Nu house was the first national men's fraternity to be installed on the University campus. Its charter was granted in 1900. The Sigma Nus have lived in their present house since 1906. At present there are 30 men living in the house.

The new house is to be of brick veneer in the colonial style. In the spring, when it is to be completed, it will accommodate forty. The first floor will be constructed so that it can be thrown open for social affairs.

MEETING DAY CHANGED

All Second Orchestra Members Urged to Attend Wednesday

The second orchestra will hereafter meet in Villard hall on Wednesday, instead of Tuesday, at 4:45 p. m. All members are requested to communicate with Mr. Walstrom, the director.

On account of work which the director wants to carry out, it is urged that all who contemplate playing in this orchestra be at the next rehearsal on Wednesday, November 28. By doing this the orchestra can become thoroughly organized before the term is completed.

Lip-Adorned Seniors Parade Before Judges at Men's Gym

After six long and arduous weeks of cultivation of their labial adornments, members of the male element of the senior class are today in line for reaping a reward, a reward for which competition will be so close as to include even a hairs-breadth degree of difference. For today is the day on which Colonel Leader and two prominent alumni will select from the senior class the lucky man—the man whose moustache has in that short six-week period assumed the largest and finest proportions, taking into consideration size, color, shape and intensity.

The judging, which is expected to overshadow even the football game in importance and interest aroused, will take place at noon in front of the men's gym. It is expected that Colonel Leader will be a most excellent judge, for he has long maintained one of the objects in question on his own upper lip. Furthermore, his extensive travels in Australia, England and Canada should have familiarized him with the different styles and types of ultra-smart moustaches.

Wenona Dyer, class barber, and Kate Pinneo, her assistant, state that there are several fourth year men who have excellent chances at the gold Auto-strop razor which the fortunate contestant will bear proudly home. They refused, however, to omit themselves on wearers of the sombrero who are their special favorites in the race.

THOUSAND EXPECTED AT DANCE TONIGHT

Crowd to Be Divided in Last Event of Week-End

Tonight the Woman's building and the Armory will be the scene of campus merrymaking at the annual Homecoming dance. Underclassmen will dance downtown while alumni and upperclassmen are to use the Woman's building.

The decorations of the upperclass gathering are to be distinctly characteristic of Oregon in vivid lemon and green with hanging baskets of ferns. It is not all in the nature of a social gathering for grads who do not care to dance.

A committee of town alumni will be in Alumni hall to welcome all the grads. For those who do not dance there will be musical numbers during the evening which will consist of violin and piano solos, and singing.

Music at the upperclass dance will be furnished by the Midnite Sons, and the feature of the evening will be selections by the glee club quartet. About one thousand people are expected to attend the dance at the Woman's building and about 750 at the downtown hall.

All underclassmen must go to the Armory, the alumni and upperclassmen having a choice of the two halls. At the Armory, the decorations which were used at the sophomore informal, last week-end, will be used again. The music for this dance will be Ray Graham's orchestra, and the feature will be a dance by Camille Burton. Punch will be served at both dances.

Tickets may be purchased at the men's houses and at the Co-op, as well as at the entrances to the dance halls. Alumni are to be admitted free upon presentation of their registration cards.

Old Timer Harkens Back to the Civil War Period

The oldest of Oregon's adopted sons is greeting the campus with his "hello." He is a slight, venerable figure with white beard and twinkly blue eyes that defy anyone to believe that he is 77 years old. But he says he is, though his actions—spirited as those of any frosh—disprove it. Both he and his wife are graduates of '69 Grinnell college, Iowa.

H. H. Robbins is a personal friend of M. H. Douglass, the University librarian. Back in the days when Mr. Robbins was treasurer of Grinnell, he collected tuition from the University librarian.

His residence in Eugene has permitted him to watch the growth of Oregon for 13 years and to compare it with the college he once attended. In the days just after the civil war, Mr. Robbins was a member of the first baseball team in Grinnell. "The batter (or striker as he was called in those days) would holler out to the pitcher to send him a knee-high ball. The pitcher would oblige with an underhand delivery. I played shortstop unless a pitcher was needed. There were only two, one who could pitch slow balls, and one who could pitch fast ones."

Mr. Robbins, like all the rest of the gang, knew the tricks to play upon the professors. At that time regular hours had to be kept by the students and each student had to report what he did during each sixty minutes.
