In Appreciation of Good Work

Too much cannot be said in praise of the 1923 Homecoming committee. Haddon Rockey and his crew of committeemen put the job over in a characteristic Oregon way that would more than do credit to a much older and experienced group of workers. To do them justice almost every name on the Homecoming committee should have special mention. It is often the sad part of appreciations that people who work the hardest receive the least praise. Those who made the affair the success that it was have the satisfaction of knowing that their work will benefit Oregon for years to come because of the increased regard which our visitors have come to feel for the institution and its hospitality. Those who did the most work received the most good—that is the happy phase of doing committee work and doing it well. We are glad we are a part of a student body that can produce such a splendid band of thinkers and doers.

May their tribe increase!

Officials of the University co-operative store are to be complimented upon their enterprise in providing the splendid new quarters in which to house the store. The next step in the progress of the institution will probably be the assumption of control by the A. S. U. O. Financial conditions make this apparently impossible at the present time. The report of the committee recently appointed by the student body president to investigate the possibility of greater cooperation between the Co-op and the A. S. U. O. should be forthcoming shortly and ought to make interesting reading.

Y. M. C. A. officials, Eugene churches, officers of the student Y. W. C. A., and a student body committee are working on a plan to send a group of Oregon men and women to the great Student Volunteer conference at Indianapolis, Indiana, during the Christmas holidays. As the gathering will include about 6000 people any one who is able to attend will have a rare experience. The good that can come to the University by having a representation at the conference should be far-reaching. Those who have the opportunity should help make it possible to send our full delegation of 15.

Fourteen school days—then final examinations. It is to be hoped that every one of Oregon's 2224 students is aware of this fact and is preparing for the time when blue-books and worried looks come into being generally. We suggest that it might be appropriate to sing, "Just Before the Battle—" at the next assembly.

FORMER PRESIDENTS APPROVE UNION PLANS

Ex-heads of Student Body Discuss Growth and Development of the University

The annual Homecoming meeting of all ex-presidents of the student body was held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Woman's building. The gathering this year was more than pleased with the Homecoming plans and their outcome. They were enthusiastic over the prospects of the student body's growth and heartily endorsed its union plan.

"These old student body presidents are extremely loyal to the University," says Claude Robinson, this year's president. "They carry the place close to their hearts, and wherever they are found—in the various walks of life—they are always boosting their Alma Mater."

Those at the meeting were: President P. L. Campbell, George Hugg, '07, now superintendent of schools at Salem; Leon Ray, '12, practicing law in Eugene; Carlton Spencer, '13, registrar; Lamar Tooze, '16, a member of the gift campaign committee on the campus; Nick Jaureguay, '17,

Portland lawyer; Carlton Savage, '20, executive secretary at the normal school; Lyle Bartholemew, '21, an architect in Portland; John MacGregor, '22, now studying law in the University; and Claude Robinson, acting president, '23.

Other ex-presidents on the campus this last week but not attending the meeting, were: C. N. "Pat" McArthur, '02, candidate for United States senator; Harold White, '19, in business in Eugene, and Robert Prescott, '08, Eugene real estate man.

EMERALD WILL PRINT LIST OF CAMPUS "LEFT-OVERS"

Thanksgiving is always a festive time for "left-overs" on the campus. House dances, turkey dinners and social events of various kinds are customary. To assist in the promotion of a general good time for those who do not need the hours too much to prepare for the impending examination period, the Emerald plans to print the list of names of all those who will remain on the campus after Wednesday night. Any prospective "left-over" who has not been reached by an Emerald reporter is asked to phone his name into the Emerald office, 655, before five o'clock today.

SATURDAY IS DEADLINE FOR TAKING PICTURES

Organizations Have Final Chance to Make Reservations for Oregana This Week.

All individual pictures for use in the 1924 Oregana must be taken this week, according to announcement made yesterday from the Oregana office. Students not affiliated with campus living organizations and those in halls or houses who have not yet had their pictures taken are urged to make immediate appointments with the Kennell-Ellis studio, Hampton building, 1697.

For those students who are leaving the campus for the Thanksgiving vacation, there remain only three days in which to have their photographs taken.

"It is absolutely necessary that all pictures be taken this week," said Freda Goodrich, editor. "This coming Saturday is the deadline for all portrait work, and we urge immediate appointments."

This week is also the final opportunity to make space reservations for the book. Honor organizations, clubs, halls and houses that have not yet sent in their checks for space are reminded that no space will be saved after Saturday. There are a number of organizations that have not paid to date.

to be held in the spring at the Oregon Agricultural college were made by the delegates, and Corvallis was named as the national headquarters of the organization for the coming year. A cut exchange was also arranged at this time, and will be in operation within a few weeks.

A combined Hammer and Coffin comic, which will be composed of all five of the comics issued by the society, will make its appearance in the spring term, if present plans are carried out. This number will be composed of the Stanford Chaparral, the O. A. C. Orange Owl, the Oregon

Lemon Punch, and the Washington Sundodger.

The Oregon Lemon Punch, which has temporarily suspended publication, is expected to resume soon. A staff is now in the process of organization. It is believed that a very creditable comic can be issued by the University of Oregon, and that a need for such a publication exists on this campus.

There is to be an exhibit of rare old shawls and fabrics given by the Mu Phi Epsilon Mother's club on December 1, in the Woman's building. The affair is to be in the nature of a silver tea, and funds taken in are to be turned into one of the two scholarship funds which the active chapter of Mu Phi supports. A national and honorary musical fraternity for women, Mu Phi Epsilon, carries these two scholarships for Mu Phi girls, and through them a great many talented and worthy college women have been able to complete their musical work at the University.

Hours for the tea and 'at home' are to be from two until six, and in addition to the exhibit of shawls and fabrics, there will be a musical program given by members of Mu Phi. Incidentally, anyone having shawls or old and interesting bits of fabric, is invited most cordially to contribute them to the exhibit, and the most excellent care is promised.

This invitation through the press, is the only one which is being extended and mothers from outside chapters of Mu Phi are asked to phone Mrs. A. C. Dixon. The following matrons are to sponsor the afternoon: Mrs. E. J. Frazier, Mrs. C. L. Teshner, Mrs. A. C. Dixon, Mrs. G. W. Parker, Mrs. A. H. Potter, Mrs. L. D. Pierce, Mrs. F. O. Davis, Mrs. J. C. Watkins, Mrs. W. F. Gilstrap, Mrs. Elizabeth Prescott, Mrs. Jennie Shumaker, Mrs. M. S. Wallis, Mrs. Marion Dickey, Mrs. Landsbury and Mrs. Lucy Densmore.

1860 Camille was the original gold digger with a nasty cough. She coughed her way to success and put the Smith Brothers into business. But there came a day when she got into a merry mix-up and tried to give the air to her little friend Armand. This made the atmosphere so cold that the dear lady coughed her way past St. Peter and got a solid gold harp next to Little Eva who was plunking away on a gold-plated one.

1923 These babies all had their in-nings, but following the seventh, we can all stretch and take a look at pretty little Jerry Lamar, who concentrated her major operations on Little Old New York. Jerry used a pick as well as a shovel and could dig up more hats and jewelry in a day than could an energetic '49er in a lifetime.

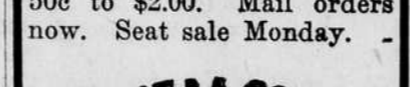

So hold your watch and keep an eye out for "The Gold Diggers" coming soon to The Castle.

General Motors Building, Detroit, Michigan. ALBERT F. KAHN, Architect. Drawn by Hugh Ferriss

"In Terms of the Colossal"

THE co-ordination of commercial strength, architectural vision and engineering skill which created this titanic quadruple office building represents the motive and creative force which has turned the eyes of the world toward this type of American architecture.

This, the largest office building in the world, possesses fundamentally magnificent largeness in its conception, and a clean-cut directness in its execution which place it among the most significant of American buildings.

With such existing structural achievements no architectural future is impossible, no project too vast or too complex to come readily to our imagination.

Certainly modern invention—modern engineering skill and organization, will prove more than equal to the demands of the architecture of the future.
