

EDUCATION GROUP SHOWS PROGRESS

Phi Lambda Theta Active in Teaching Field

RESEARCH IS PROMOTED

Standards of Women's National High

Phi Lambda Theta, woman's educational fraternity, had a number of its alumni back for Homecoming and reports from officers of the organization indicate that the work of the group is going ahead throughout the state as well as on the campus. Crystal West, president of the fraternity, has expressed herself as being well pleased with the activities of the alumni group and predicts a busy year.

Pi Lambda Theta is interested in the furthering of scholarship, research, and professional attainment. In the realization of these aims it attempts to promote the spirit of fellowship among women in the profession of teaching and to inculcate in the hearts of teachers a high code of professional ethics and an interest in educational affairs and, through them, in social progress. As a means of encouraging scholastic achievement and research the national organization this year gave one thousand dollars for the establishment of a scholarship fund for graduate research in the field of education.

In the fall of 1920 a group of girls, interested in education, anxious to advance its cause, and feeling the need of an organization upon the campus which should be devoted to that purpose, organized a society known as the educational club. This petitioning group brought Pi Lambda Theta to Oregon the following year. It does not comprise a large active membership, for the scholarship requirement of a two average and the professional training required, limit the number eligible for membership. The smallness of the group, however, facilitates efficient work and makes possible a close fellowship among the members.

Phi Lambda Theta stood first in scholarship last year among all of the honorary fraternities upon the campus.

of all was the same cooperation and hard work to put over a great reception. I am proud to have been a member of such a group and want to extend my sincere thanks to those of the administration and of the student committee who aided us so diligently."

The noise parade was put over through the untiring efforts of Eddie Edlund and James Leake. Ralph Crandall, Ed Haney and Augusta Dewitt also worked on the committee. The success of the rally was due to the work of Jack Myers and Haddon Rockey primarily. Under their direction were Ted Baker, Fred Martin, Velma Farnham and Mary Jane Hathaway.

Jason McCune did a great deal of the work of field decoration. He was assisted by Margerite McCabe, Lawrence Cook, Tom Robertson and Joe Fraser. In the line of welcoming Douglas Wright, Luella Hausler and Adrienne Hazard did excellent work, according to Rockey. Andy Karpenstein and Herm Blaesing were also helpers. The dance committee had the best organization of any. Every member worked and they put over the entire thing without any outside help. James Meek, Wenona Dyer, Marie Meyers, Russell Gowans and Charles Speer formed the committee.

The rooms and accommodations committee under Mason Dillard had the best organization of any year so far, says Rockey. Georgia Benson and her luncheon committee worked day and night. Clara Wheelhouse, Henry Maier, Marjory Hazard and Laverne Spitzberger were the members who, with the aid of Mrs. Davis, at Friendly hall, made the campus luncheon a success.

Lot Beattie had charge of features. The big feature which was to have come off between halves of the game was a tumbling stunt, and was prevented by the muddy condition of the field.

Rockey commended highly the work of the publicity committee under Douglas Farrell. Katherine Kressman covered all the publicity work for the Emerald. Professor Casey helped through the state newspapers. Ben Maxwell, Monte Byers, Catherine Spall and Nancy Wilson worked on the committee. The naturalization feature under Francis Linklater did not hold as large a part as was hoped for in the program because the number of grads who were coming was not known. It will probably be featured more next year.

Jack High, assistant Homecoming chairman, and Mary Skinner, Homecoming secretary, did excellent work. High handled all the outside features, such as the closing of shops in town and cooperated with the freshman chairman in building the bonfire. Mary Skinner attended every committee meeting and kept a complete record for future reference.

Rockey wishes to thank the administration for their helpful cooperation. The noise parade committee wishes to thank the following for their generosity in lending trucks: Pacific Transfer Co., Oregon, B. & B., Billmore, C. & M., Stewart and U. of O. transfer companies; Booth Lumber Co., Manerud Bros. and the county officials.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA TO BUILD BIG STADIUM

University of Minnesota—Final plans for a new $750,000 stadium at the University of Minnesota, construction of which is to begin next spring, have been announced by Professor Mann, Minneapolis chief architect. The stadium will be a single desk U shaped structure with an opening at one end to allow erection of additional seats to accommodate 7,000 persons. The normal seating capacity of the stadium stand will be 50,000 according to Mr. Mann.

SOCIAL EVENTS FEWER AS TERM NEARS CLOSE

No Dances Permitted for Last Two Week-Ends

With the advent of the Thanksgiving holidays comes a corresponding decrease in the number of social events. This appears to be particularly marked when one observes the very few week-ends left before the term ends. Inasmuch as no dances are permitted to be scheduled two week-ends before the finals, there will be none on the evenings of December 7, 8, 14, or 15.

An official reception will be given by the college of literature, science, and the arts, for the new members of the faculty, on the evening of November 30. Anna Case will be heard in concert, the night of December 7. On December 6 and 8 a triangular debate will be held. "Peter Ibbetson," a Guild hall production, will be witnessed on the evenings of December 12, 13 and 14. On December 13 faculty and students will have the opportunity to hear the orchestra pop concert, and the big event on the following evening will be the party with which the Oregonian, the faculty's social organization, will entertain.

The complete list of events follows:

- Nov. 30—(Thanksgiving vacation.) Reception for new members of faculty.
- Dec. 1—(Thanksgiving vacation.)
- Dec. 6—Debate, Reed college, O. A. C. and Oregon.
- Dec. 7—Anna Case concert. (Closed for dances on account of exams.)
- Dec. 8—Debate, Reed College, O. A. C. and Oregon. (Closed for dances on account of exams.)
- Dec. 12—Guild hall play, "Peter Ibbetson."
- Dec. 13—Orchestra pop concert. Guild hall play, "Peter Ibbetson."
- Dec. 14—The Oregonian party. Guild hall play, "Peter Ibbetson." (Closed for dances on account of exams.)
- Dec. 15—(Closed for dances on account of exams.)

sible to tell just what may happen in the next few games.

The game for today will be Phi Delta Theta vs. Phi Kappa Psi, at 4 p.m.

The Betas continued their winning streak and went into first place by defeating the Oregon club, 20 to 13, in a veritable rough and tumble contest. Both aggregations attempted everything that is prohibited in the rule book at least once. The Betas led throughout the entire contest but by such a small margin as to keep the final issue in doubt. The teamwork of the winners was somewhat ragged and their play was not up to the standard of their last few games. The Oregon club quintet also played a ragged game, but managed to keep within a few points of the Betas at all stages of the contest. Westergren and Gunther starred for the Betas and Westerman and Young for the Oregon club.

THANKSGIVING

A real Thanksgiving Dinner can't be without some kind of fowl meat. Our forefather's first Thanksgiving was celebrated in that way, and it has come down to us through the ages. This year this kind of meat is the lowest in years—and every bird is of top-notch quality.
