Anna Case to Make Initial Appearance at Eugene in the Methodist Church

CONCERT TO BEGIN AT 8

Classical, Ultra-Modern, and Modern Numbers Are on Program for the Recital

Anna Case, concert soprano, will make her initial appearance in Eugene tonight at the Methodist church starting at 8:00 p. m.

Her recital program consists of songs of the most famed composers from the classical, ultra-modern and modern group. She will be assisted by Charles Gilbert Spross at the piano.

Following is the program:

Group I.—(a) Lamento, from Ariana, (No Longer Let Me Languish), Claudio Monteverde (1568-1643); (b) Lithuanian Song, Chopin; (c) Chantons les Amours de Jean, Old French arranged by Weckerlin; (d) Care Selve, from the opera "Atalanta," Handel; (e) Alleluja, Mozart.

Group II.—(a) Ave Marie, Schubert; (b) Mit Einer Wasserlied, Edward Grieg; (c) Wiegeliend, Schubert; (d) Vergeliches Standehen, Brahms.

Group III.—(a) Notre Amour, Gabriel Faure; (b) L'Insect Aile, Emile Nerini; (c) Le Beau Reve, A. Flegier; (d) Chanson Legere, D'Erlander; (e) Guitares et Mandolines, Gabriel Grovlez.

Group IV.—(a) Dawn, Pearl Curran; (b) Rain, Pearl Curran; (c) The Night Wind, Roland Farley; (d) Synnove's Song, Halfden Kjerulf; (e) The Answer, Robert Huntington Terry.

Anna Case acquired great prominence and popularity in 1913 from her role in the first American production of Moussorgsky's opera, "Boris Gorounov" in which Feodor Chalapine, famous Russian, and said to be the world's greatest tenor, had the title role.

Donald Park, manager of the music series which is sponsored by the Associated Students, requests that everyone attending the concert get there before 8:00 o'clock as no one will be ushered after that time until the intermission between the first and second groups of songs.

WALKING COURSE TO BE GIVEN AT NORTHWESTERN

Northwestern University—A three hour a week course to teach Northwestern University students how to walk is to be added to the curriculum, according to Professor Leon Kranz, of the physical education department of Northwestern. Professor Kranz said he had found that 40 per cent of the students showed lack of knowledge about proper distribution of the weight of the body while walking and as a result suffered from fallen arches and other foot defects.

"Had a Good Time; Glad to Be Home," Says Dean Allen

An anxious reporter with a fat roll of paper and a substantial-looking pencil, and Colonel Leader with his pipe and stick, sat in Dean Allen's office and waited. The reporter was planning to interview the dean, and the Colonel was merely going to "slap him on the back," and ask him what he thought of London.

When the dean came in the door the Colonel not only slapped him on the back, but shook him violently, swore at him affectionately, and pushing him into the chair behind his desk proceeded to interrogate him. The reporter who was going to ask him how it seemed to be back and how the Emerald compared to leading continental dailies, was reduced to speechlessness, listening to their flurry of words:

"And did you meet the Honorable Mrs. Pleydell-Bouverie? And did you remember her title?"

DR. SHELDON EXPLAINS PURPOSE OF DOCTRINE

Group Gathers to Observe 100th Anniversary

"Live and let live" might be said to be the essence of the document which James Monroe, fifth president of the United States, issued when European nations were attempting to regain control of the American republics, said Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education, in an address before the student body yesterday. The occasion was the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Monroe Doctrine.

"It has succeeded in doing what it started out to do, for it has protected the states of America in their independence and given them, for a hundred years, the opportunity to grow and develop freely," said Dean Sheldon. "It behooves us to watch carefully any spasmodic attempts to destroy our record or to endanger this great policy to live and let live, and it is by this policy that world peace may be brought about."

The real test of the Monroe Doctrine came in 1860, when there was an attempt to establish French rule in Mexico under Archduke Maximilian. The American government announced its intention of adhering to the policy against foreign conquest in the American continents, and the French troops were withdrawn from Mexico.

Preceding the address, Paul Patterson announced the first varsity debate between Oregon and O. A. C. to be held this year. Oregon football team went down to defeat against O. A. C. last Saturday, and in celebration of the event, the whole town of Corvallis, young and old alike, turned out to celebrate, said Mr. Patterson in effect.

Announcement was also made by Jeanne Gay, of the annual Christmas college ball, given by Women's league, which will take place in the Multnomah hotel in Portland during the holidays.

The University orchestra presented two selections entitled "Polonaise from Mignon," by Thomas, and "Mock Morris," by Percy Grainger.

TWO ALL COAST ELEVENS PICKED

Mythical First and Second Teams Named Locally by Emerald Sports Staff

By the Sports Staff

Now that the moleskins of the coast gridsters have been turned in and California has romped her way to a fourth consecutive championship of the far west, there remains but one last rite to perform in the burial of King Football for the year.

There is always a great deal of conjecture on the part of sport critics as to who are the best individual players in the section which concerns them most. This always culminates in the picking of an all-something-or-other team and since the sport scribes of the Emerald have been fortunate enough to see most of the coast teams in action, they have seen fit to flip their editorial sombrero into the circle and make a selection for the mythical All-Coast eleven.

Since California, Washington and Stanford were the outstanding figures in the coast race this fall, it is no more than natural that a large percentage of the material for the honorary squad should come from these three teams. According to the final selection by the staff, California and Stanford would each place four men on the eleven, Washington would rate two and Oregon one.

Mell is End

The wing men are perhaps the easiest of the lot to choose and the staff was unanimous in its choice of Mell, of California, and Lawson, of Stanford, as the ends of the mythical team. The tackles presented more of a difficulty as there was a wealth of material for these positions on the coast this fall.

Stew Beam, of California, was perhaps the outstanding figure of the season, but for the other tackle there seems little to choose between Ludeke, of Stanford, and Ed Kuhn, of Washington. Since a choice of one is necessary, the shade falls toward the Stanford man.

FINAL RIFLE MATCHES TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Twelve Women's Organizations and Six Men's to Compete in Shooting Contest

"Twelve women's organizations are expected to be in trim for the do-not rifle matches, the finals of which will take place next week," said Captain J. T. Murray, instructor in charge of gallery practice, at the R. O. T. C. headquarters yesterday afternoon. Since the rain has set in and the approaching final matches are getting closer, the girls are showing increased interest in practice. "They are coming right along," is the way Captain Murray puts it.

About six men's organizations will take part in the matches, and Captain Murray insists that the lists of eligible shooters must be in the office by Saturday morning.

Challenges for inter-collegiate matches during the spring months are still being received and others are being sent out by the local authorities. Few dates have as yet been definitely arranged, so a schedule will not be completed until after the beginning of next term.

Women's Place in Press Work Is Topic of Talk

Mrs. Ernst Speaks to Theta Sig Girls

"Petticoats Around the Press Table," was the subject which Mrs. Rudolph Ernst, wife of Professor Ernst, of the English department, discussed before the members of Theta Sigma Phi, and their guests at an open meeting held last night in the Y. W. bungalow.

Mrs. Ernst, who is herself labor and political correspondent of the New York Evening Post, gave a short review of the position which woman holds in the newspaper office of today, pointing out that although women have not taken men's places entirely in the newspaper world, they have made a place of their own, which is being rapidly recognized.

Mrs. Ernst has had a great many stories published since she "wrote her first novel at the age of ten." "Our butcher had once held the hat of the Prince of Wales, and I considered that I had a wealth of material for an English novel." She has held her present position since she graduated from the University of Washington where she was a member of Theta Sigma Phi.

FOUR STUDENTS HAVE ROLES IN SONG CYCLE

Cadman's Work Has Initial Performance Tuesday

Charles Wakefield Cadman's Song Cycle for four solo voices will receive its initial performance on the campus Tuesday evening, December 11, at eight o'clock in Alumni hall.

The words of the cycle have been selected from the works of modern poets by Nellie Richmond Eberhart, who has written many of the lyrics for Mr. Cadman's songs.

Ruth Akers, soprano; Eloise McPherson, contralto; Frank Jue, tenor, and Robert Dart, baritone, with Bernice Yeo, at the piano, are the soloists. They are all well known on the campus, with the exception of Mr. Dart, a newcomer, who is the possessor of a mellow baritone voice, which lends itself well to those of the other singers. Owing to the limited seating capacity of Alumni hall, the admission is by invitation.

ANNUAL COLLEGE BALL PLANNED FOR HOLIDAYS

Many Friends of University Included in List of Guests; Jeanne Gay in Charge of Affair

The annual Christmas college ball will be an event of the holidays for students and alumni who are spending the week in Portland. It is to be given at the Multnomah hotel on Thursday evening, December 27.

The assembly room and the tea room of the hotel are to be used for dancing. Betty Kerr is acting as chairman of the patroness committee and about 140 patrons and patronesses are to be present. The list includes many friends of the University, in both Portland and Eugene, and several members of the faculty. This committee also has charge of the decorations.

Hand-made and printed posters are to be placed on the mantels of the various men's living organizations to remind them of the coming event. Tickets are on sale at the University Co-operative store. Various organizations in Portland which are interested in college affairs will also be provided with tickets.

Jeanne Gay is acting as general chairman of the affair—Georgiana Gerlinger is head of the publicity committee, and Virginia Pearson has charge of the sale of tickets.

OREGON WINS DEBATE MEET

ALL DELEGATES CHOSEN FOR TRIP

Thirteen Representatives Will Attend Convention at Indianapolis Soon

A. S. U. O. SEND KIRTLEY

Five more delegates to the student volunteer convention at Indianapolis have been chosen this week. Ed Kirtley, selected by the student council and approved by the convention committee, will receive his financial backing largely from the student body. Other delegates chosen this week are Edith Howe, Ethlyn Forrest, Oakland Hollis and Mary Bartholomew.

It is not certain yet what method will be used to raise the money necessary to send Kirtley, but it is expected by the convention committee that a tag day will be scheduled for the near future. Kirtley will be the only one of the thirteen delegates that the students will be asked to support directly.

Women Represented

Miss Bartholomew will be supported by the faculty women, the women's halls of residence, the Women's league, and the Y. W. C. A. Miss Forrest will go as a representative of the Baptist church, while Miss Howe will arrange for her own finances. The Rotary club of Eugene voted $200 to the support of Orlando Hollis, which will pay all expenses of the trip.

The complete delegation from the University will include Arthur Everett, Helen Andrews, Charlotte Winward, Lovisa Youngs, Lester Turnbaugh, Ruth Harvey, Arthur Gray, Paul Krause, Ethlyn Forrest, Edith Howe, Orlando Hollis, Ed Kirtley, and Mary Bartholomew. Rev. Henry Davis, interchurch pastor and Y. W. C. A. secretary, and Rev. Bruce J. Giffen, Presbyterian student pastor, will accompany the delegates to Indianapolis.

Financial support for those who will make the trip east was raised largely by the delegates themselves with the help of the local churches. In some cases the money was raised in the church itself, while in others socials and entertainments are being held, the proceeds of which will go toward raising the delegation budget.

Box Social Planned

An old fashioned box social, arranged jointly by the churches of Eugene, will be held in the First Methodist church Saturday night. The Wesley club of that church is also planning to hold concerts for the purpose of raising money for their delegates. One of these will be given in the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7:30. A silver offering will be taken at this service.

RECITAL SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Each Instructor is Contributing One Pupil; Affair to be Given Early

The first student rehearsal in the form of an informal recital will be held in the lounge room of the school of music Saturday, December 8, at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Minnie Douglas, of the school of music, is in charge of the program. Each teacher is contributing a pupil for the rehearsal. Those appearing are Mable Madden and Margaret Hyatt, vocal; Myrtle Janssen, Cecil Kercher, Edna English, Esther Church, LaVergne Rich and Dorothy Wallace, piano; Nina Warnock and Roy Ford, violin.

All music students are urged to be present at this rehearsal which will mark the first get-together of the year. The purpose of holding this event at 1:30 Saturday afternoon is to allow those who are attending to carry out other plans for the afternoon.

Varsity Teams Beat Reed and Agg Men on Soviet Question

Bailey and Frazer Get 2 to 1 Vote in Campus Contest; Malcolm and Dickey Receive 3 to 0 Decision in Portland

The University of Oregon won the state championship in the first debate series of the year by defeating Reed college in Portland and the Oregon Agricultural college in a contest here, last night. The Oregon negative team won a three to nothing decision from the Reed college affirmative and the affirmative team defeated O. A. C. by a vote of two to one. Reed college negative team captured a two to one victory over the O. A. C. affirmative at Corvallis.

Walter Malcolm and Marion Dickey were the debaters on the negative team which won from Reed college in Portland. Joe Frazer and Ralph Bailey were on the affirmative team which debated on the campus.

The Phi Gamma Delta basketball quintet scored another win when it won the game from the Friendly hall aggregation by the score of 21 to 16 in the game played yesterday afternoon. The game was featured by rough playing on both sides and men were knocked to the floor scores of times. The game was much closer than the score would indicate, for the Fijis were unable to break through the close guarding of their opponents. Time after time the Friendly hall tusslers worked the ball under the basket and missed easy shots. It was a fast, rough and tumble contest from beginning to end, with the Phi Gamma's scoring a lucky series of shots in the last part of the game. Starting out in the lead it looked as if the Fijis would have a walkaway, but when the losers got into action they almost tied the score and gave the winners a close race for the game.

Organization of Museum for University Advocated

By Col. John Leader

In February, 1918, a standard for the University battalions was made by fifty of our girls. It was duly presented, consecrated by the bishop, and saluted by the governor. Under that flag we not only gained the reputation of being the best private officers' training camp in the United States, but we also became an officers' training camp for the seven western states, and the military center and administrative headquarters of an army of nearly fifteen thousand minute men of Oregon. The student body considerably more than doubled its number in that 18 months, and the University of Oregon was placed on the map.

A month ago I found that standard forgotten and tucked away in a

This is the second time in three years that Oregon has won the championship in the state triangular contest. In 1921 the University negative team, composed of Boyd Isminger and Claude Robinson won from Reed college, and Paul Patterson and Charles Lamb defeated the O. A. C. negative team. Last year Reed dropped out of the triangular contest and a dual debate between the University and O. A. C. was held in its place.

Argument Given

The Oregon affirmative team won a two to one decision from the O. A. C. negative team in Villard hall last night in the Eugene corner of the state triangular contest. The Oregon team, composed of Joe Frazer and Ralph Bailey, centered its argument around the increasing efficiency of the Soviet government in dealing with Russian governmental affairs, and declared that recognition would help the Bolsheviks get on their feet and continue the program of encouragement of capital which they have recently adopted.

The affirmative declared that Russia is at the present time carrying on an effective program for public education, that 5,000,000 persons in Russia have been given educations, and that the illiteracy of the Russian army has been decreased from 85 to 15 per cent.

Debts Mentioned

The effectiveness of this educational program was denied by the negative which declared that the Russian school system had depreciated under the Soviet regime until it was scarcely one-fifth as effective as it had been under the old rule. It was contended that the Soviet government was largely responsible for the distress in Russia and that it was not entitled to recognition on the basis of its record during the past five years. Blair Stewart and Robert M. Kerr were the members of the negative team.
