A Thinking Campus

A steady movement of real worth has been taking place on the campus since the movement to raise the scholastic standards went into effect. Intellectual activity has been stimulated beyond the hopes of even the staunchest advocates of the new scholastic regime.

Outside of the group of what might be called pure "intellectuals" there is a surprisingly large part of the student body who are inclined toward intellectual pursuits. Discussions by persons who often are charged with wanting a good time above all else deal frequently with subjects about which real constructive thinking can be done.

Don't misunderstand, however, that we think the campus has reached a place where we are all highminded students of great problems or seekers after hidden truths. We do not think such a thing possible or even desirable.

An Oregon diploma nowadays means that real work has been accomplished. That is as it should be. There is still a great deal of work to be done. The movement toward wider interests and a broader education generally is a thing which should be helped along.

Better Books for Oregon

A greater interest in good books on the University campus as shown by the library records has brought forth a new idea which is due to help along the general movement toward campus intellectual activity.

Through the work of Mrs. Marion McClain, Dr. H. D. Sheldon, and other faculty members, the University library is to receive, from time to time, groups of noteworthy books, including those on art, music, biography, anthropology, criticisms, literature, economics, sociology, education, essays, politics, current affairs, history and travel, philosophy and religion and sciences.

The plan, presented in yesterday's Emerald, for obtaining these books is a good one. It will be the policy of this paper to print in the Sunday edition reviews of a great many of the volumes, and general information concerning the plan will be diffused through the Emerald.

The organizers of this movement of "better books for Oregon" have the support of the great body of University campus population who feel that an important part of a University education is the value received from browsing through material not definitely assigned. Real interests which require further intellectual satisfaction are created in this way.

The puerile view held by some students that getting work assigned is all that is necessary to a real education, is one which should have been left behind with high school days.

A broader knowledge on the part of its graduates means more power to them and greater prestige for the University.

Campus Bulletin

Notices will be printed in this column for two issues only. Copy must be in this office by 5:30 on the day before it is to be published, and must be limited to 20 words.

Mu Phi Epsilon—Business meeting Saturday, 3 p.m., Mu Phi room. University Orchestra—Rehearsal for "Hour Hand," Sunday, 2:30 at Villard.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

Since the first of October, 1,594 guests have registered in the guest book at the alumni hall in the Woman's building.

The football team will lose five men by graduation this year.

Pan Xenia, new honorary foreign trade commerce fraternity, was installed last night.

Madame Marguerite d'Alvarez, noted contralto singer, will appear on the campus tonight.

A reunion of over 70 Oregon alumni was held in Seattle last week.

Lucille Elrod, senior in the music department of the University will give her graduation recital on the pipe organ next Tuesday evening.

Emerald editorial says, "The faculty has appointed a committee to reduce the number of committees, there contributing its bit to contemporary campus humor."

At the Theatres

REX The Rex theatre announces a special feature to be shown today and Saturday. The name of the picture is "The Printer's Devil," and it features Wesley Barry. It tells of Brick Hubbard, a small-town lad who works as printer's devil on the Briggsville Gazette.

COLLEGE INN WILL OPEN

Dinner Dance Planned for Tonight; Special Features Promised

Considerable interest has been aroused among University students in the novel appearance of the new College Side Inn. Although the place was only recently opened it is getting its share of the student trade.

The formal opening of the inn will be held tonight, when the management plan a dinner dance, followed by a regular dance later. Although the opening is formal dress suits, tuxedos and taxis will not be in order. "A little too formal," was the verdict of Jack Myers, whose Mid-Nite Sons are to furnish the music. Special features are promised tonight.

NEW BUREAU CREATED

Department for Lost and Found Established at Y. M. C. A.

When the owner of a girl's coat belt claims same from the lost and found department at the Y. M. C. A., thus will be christened the newly formed bureau voted through a short time ago by the student council.

The department is in charge of Mrs. Donnelly, who requests students finding lost articles to clearly mark them as to where found and put them in the campus mail, or bring them to her at the "Y" but. A closet will be built especially for the lost and strayed belongings which will be kept under lock and key.

STUDENT DANCE SLATED

Affair to be Held Under Auspices of Oregon Knights, January 4

The first student body dance of the year will be given January 4, the first Friday after the beginning of the winter term, at the Woman's building, under the auspices of the Oregon Knights.

Charles Norton, who heads the committee in charge of arrangements states that the Knights are planning several new and original stunts, different from the features of former affairs. The list of patrons and patronesses has not been given out.

CAMPUS TO HAVE GRILL

Campa Shoppe Plans Dance Series for Students' Amusement

Students who like to spend their time in Portland dancing at the hotel grills will be interested in a grill dance which is being given tonight and Saturday night at the Campa Shoppe. Dou Woodworth and Ray Graham have charge of the Campa Shoppe hall and plan to give

ORIENTAL GIFT SHOP

OPENED IN NEW CO-OP

Curiosities and Novelties Sent From China Are Now Offered for Sale to Students

The Co-Op has opened a Chinese gift department with some Chinese articles sent by Helen Hall from Canton, China, where she is teaching. There are among this collection necklaces of jade, amber, glass, and carved ivory. These necklaces have the new crochet work, covering each bead, and sometimes in between the beads.

There are also glass bowls of many different colors, tea and tray clothes of Chinese linen, hand embroidered, and many Chinese novelties in carved wood and bamboo.

Among other things there are some of special interest to the co-op. These are girdles of jade and amber beads and vanity cases of gaily painted bamboo with long silk tassels. There is also an extensive collection of embroidered silk squares in brilliant colors.

Miss Hall was formerly on the campus where she was a member of Delta Gamma. Miss Amy Dunn, the former head resident, accompanied her to China for the year.

TEXAS ROOTERS STORM THEATRE DURING PARADE

Austin, Texas—As a climax to the shirt-tail parade, indulged in by the University of Texas student body before the Oklahoma-Texas football game, the rooters stormed the Majestic theatre and forced the pianist to play "The Eyes of Texas," while the entire audience joined in the refrain.

NEW FILMS RECEIVED BY EXTENSION DIVISION

Many Subjects Covered in Reels Received from Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh

Twenty-seven additional reels of motion picture films have just been received by the University extension division from the U. S. department of the interior of the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh.

These reels are divided among six different subjects, including the stories of coal, abrasives, the automobile, alloy steel, the motor truck and the world struggle for oil. This last film, of seven reels, was reviewed Monday at the extension division, and according to Alfred Powers, of the visual instruction department, is probably the most complete picture that has ever been made on this subject. The film traces the use of oil from the time of Noah to the present and gives the various uses of petroleum.

This is the second shipment received from the bureau of mines. There is a tremendous demand for these films, Mr. Powers said, and at present they have circulated from the schools in Eugene to Seattle and eastward to Idaho.

The University extension division is the northwest representative for films from the department of the interior.

FACULTY MAN OBTAINED

National Children's Bureau to Send Summer School Teacher

Earl Kilpatrick, dean of the University extension division, has just received word from Washington, D. C., that an instructor from the staff of the National Children's bureau, there will be a member of the faculty of the summer session of the University in Portland in 1924.

This representative was secured through Dr. Stella Ford Warner, director of the bureau of child hygiene of the Oregon state board of hygiene. It is probable that instruction for lay-workers in clinics will be given at the summer session, according to Mr. Kilpatrick.

PHI MU ALPHA ELECTS

Organization is Composed of Men Interested in Music

Phi Mu Alpha, national men's music fraternity, recently elected eleven new members. Robert McKnight, Ed Sox, Simon Muller, Doug Wright, Jack High, Henry Karpenstein, Curtis Burton, Bert Holloway, Ted Larson, Tom Robertson, and Ted Walstrom are the men newly elected.

The organization consists of men connected with campus music activities, the majority of whom are members of the glee club, orchestra and band. Its membership now numbers 28.

PORTLAND CENTER BUSY

Students Enrolled Number 1,550; Attendance is Larger

There are 1,550 students enrolled in the Portland center of the University compared to 1,413 at this time last fall, according to Earl Kilpatrick, dean of the University extension division, who was on the campus yesterday.

These students are enrolled in 111 different courses, a statistical check showing that the average number of hours taken by any student is two. "Portland center is serving busy people who would otherwise be unable to attend college, but who can give one evening or so a week to courses in which they are interested," said Mr. Kilpatrick.
