

FOLK OPERA TO APPEAR JAN. 31

"The Hour Hand" Has New Cast and Scenery

SWISS FOLK ARE THEME

Second Performance Will be Given in Portland

"The Hour Hand," a folk opera by Anne Landsbury Beck, of the school of music, will again be presented on the campus January 31. This will mark its second appearance in Eugene. However, it boasts an almost entirely new cast, scenery, and various changes in the orchestration.

"The Hour Hand" will also be presented in Portland at the Heilig theater on February 6. This performance is being made possible by the great interest and encouragement received there. The Swiss colony of Portland are much interested in the operetta, as the theme deals entirely with people of Switzerland, and in various ways they have indicated their profound interest in the success of the performance in Portland.

Tickets for the Portland production are now on sale at Sherman, Clay and company in that city, and tickets can be reserved by mail by writing to W. G. Pangle at the Heilig theater. Mrs. Warren G. Thomas has charge of the ticket sale in Portland, and Mrs. Beck feels very fortunate in procuring her services as she is very adept in that line of work, having had charge of the ticket sale for the Chicago Grand Opera company when they visited Portland recently.

The University Orchestra will accompany the cast of "The Hour Hand" to Portland to play at the performance, and in all Mrs. Beck is taking 55 people on the trip. While there, they will stay at the Imperial hotel. The scenery will also be transported to Portland, making it an entirely All-University production.

"The Hour Hand" was very successfully presented on the campus last year, and the performance this year promises to be even better, as it is being greatly enlarged, and all details are being improved. Many who saw it last year are anticipating the coming production. Ted Gillenwater is acting as business manager, and Mrs. Beck is in Portland at the present time completing arrangements for the production in that city.

OFFICERS CLUB BALL STARTS SOCIAL SEASON

Elaborate Decorations and Military Dress Will Be Feature in Cadet Formal

One of the most promising social affairs of the season is scheduled for tonight in the sun parlor of the Woman's building, the occasion being the formal ball of the newly organized Officer's club of the University. Douglas Farrell, head of the committee in charge of the affair, said yesterday that the dance will be strictly military and regular army procedure will be followed in every respect.

Decorations in the form of regular army flags and regalia have been received from the government barracks at Vancouver, Washington, and refreshments will be served in army fashion. The cadets will wear their new tailored dress uniforms.

"We are anxious to make this event good so that it will be looked forward to every year," said Farrell. Patrons and patronesses for the ball will be: Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. W. S. Sinclair, Captain J. T.

Murray, Captain F. L. Culin, Lieutenant and Mrs. E. G. Arnold, President and Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Dean and Mrs. Colin V. Dymont.

The Officer's club was organized the first of this year for the purpose of promoting interest in the R. O. T. C., the social affairs being only a small part of their program. The membership of the club includes all advanced military students and now numbers 35.

FACULTY TO HAVE BASKETBALL GAMES

Students and Instructors From Departments to Play in Tournament

An intra-departmental basketball tournament may be staged if the plans work out that Harry A. Scott, director of the physical education department has formulated. The plan is that the different departments and schools of the University form a team so that a schedule can be arranged.

It is expected that a team be formed from the general faculty and from the physical education faculty. And also a team composed of students from the different departments. Scott believes that a team could be arranged from the schools of journalism, education, business administration, law, music, architecture, physical education and geology.

Mr. Scott would like to see all of those interested in forming such a league so that a schedule can be arranged. Games will be arranged to play a game or two a week at the most convenient time. It is expected that men who have been playing football or out for some other sport will play, also men that were not on fraternity teams.

Rules for the tournament will be made so that the arrangement will be run in a way that all will have a fair chance. Representatives from the departments and schools should see Scott at men's gymnasium as soon as possible, so that a light schedule can be arranged.

PRESIDENT IN PORTLAND TO ATTEND CLUB MEETING

President Campbell and Dean Rebec of the graduate school are in Portland attending the meeting of the Graduate club of that city. This club is composed of graduates of the University in Portland who are taking graduate work there. There are about 60 members in this organization. Both President Campbell and Dean Rebec are expected back on the campus by Monday.

BUILDINGS ARE HEATED BY NEW POWER PLANT

Boilers Consume Thirty Cords of Woods a Day

"Thirty cords per day. That's how much wood it takes now to run the new power plant which is heating all the buildings on the campus," H. M. Fisher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, told an Emerald reporter yesterday. "It takes six men to feed the grates under the boilers, two on a shift and three shifts, in addition to four men, a truck and a team, to move the wood from the yard to the power plant."

The new plant, according to Mr. Fisher, was steamed up a few days before the start of the Christmas vacation and was switched over to the heating system two days prior to the beginning of the vacation. At first it was not working at a maximum efficiency and did not heat all of the buildings, but at present the new plant is heating all the buildings and is doing it in a satisfactory manner.

The hog fuel conveyor is not yet complete and none of the fuel is on the ground as yet. As soon as the installation is complete the plant will discontinue the use of cordwood. It is expected that the electrically operated conveyor and the rest of the system will be in working order within three weeks and that the plant will be operating with the fuel for which it was designed by that time.

The interior of the new headquarters of the University Depot is nearing completion. The glass partition is complete except for a coat of paint and the carpenter work on the interior is practically finished. Within a few days, according to Mr. Fisher, the interior of the University Depot will appear minus the confusion, the shavings and the intensified smell of wet paint which has prevailed for the past three weeks.

EXPERIENCED MEN OUT FOR FRESHMAN SQUAD

Lee, Schroeder, Kaitera, Agee, Taylor and Wrightman. The players are smaller than last year's freshman quintet, but they appear faster and perhaps shifter. The forwards will be fast and carry the ball consistently from any angle. A tall, fast center, both a good shot and a good floorman is assured.

with Flynn, Okerberg, Shulte and Carter turning out for the pivot job. The guards will be small from all indications, but they are fast, close checkers and good shots.

To get these men from various institutions to working well together will be the task of Coach Evans, who is serving for the first time as frosh mentor at Oregon. Evans has had experience as a coach of basketball, both in the east and in the state, having trained the Gresham high team last season. He was a three-year letterman at Grinnell college and captain there his last year. Since then he has played with the winged M aggregation of Portland and on the Arleta professional team.

CURRENT MAY PLAY HAVOC ON CAMPUS

Jimmy Gilbert could have a reinder team instead of the visioned Cadillac—or was it Rolls-Royce? Dean Allen in fur knickers captaining a hockey team on Hayward field, and Mr. Turnbull skiing on Spencer's Butte would go unmentioned.

The co-ed rifle teams could go hunting for seals and walrus. And the mat artists could 'rattle' with bear meat before going out to hug their opponents. And the girls of the physical education department could get fat on blubber oil.

A mighty change would come to pass if . . . !!!

The banquet will be held at the Portland hotel on Monday evening. Dean Dymont will remain in Portland until Wednesday evening.

VERSE TO BE FEATURED

"Old Oregon" Will Devote Page to Work of Walter Evans Kidd

"The poetry page of the January 'Old Oregon' is to be devoted entirely to the work of Walter Evans Kidd," said Grace Edgington, editor of the magazine, yesterday. "Kidd won the Warner poetry prize—an eastern prize—and we want to see his work represented in a larger degree than formerly on this campus." Kidd is a sophomore on the campus and many of his poems have appeared in the Emerald.

"Old Oregon" goes to press January 8 and will be issued the 18th. Miss Edgington collected material in Portland over the holidays from the Portland Center of the University. One of the new features will be a drawing to appear on the poetry page by Ivan Houser, '26.

This Modernism

Slowly, insidiously there has seeped into the church of the present day a new mental point of view. It is simply a reflection of the new mental habits of the age in which we live. It has been happily named Modernism, for it is just that—an absorption by the ministry and laity of the churches of Christendom of the modern view point.

It is capable of enriching and broadening the life of the churches. Indeed it has already done so. But incidentally yet quite inevitably this Modernism is out of sympathy with the ancient creeds and dogmatism of the church, considered as an historic institution. It can, it is true, use the ancient creeds, expressing a theology based on antique assumptions of unique authority resident in the instituted church and the infallibility of the inspired Bible as the word of God, but Modernism can use all this only figuratively and symbolically, as the vesture for a nobler faith for moderns.

Within recent years those within the churches who cling closely to the old expressions of faith, to the infallibilities of the Church of Christ and the inspired book, together with the doctrines centering around the vicarious sacrificial death of Christ, have been aroused to a sense of danger. They see more clearly than Modernists within the church that the whole body of their doctrine is being slowly disintegrated, that it cannot live in the atmosphere of Modernism. This party calling themselves Fundamentalists have become militant and frankly say they intend to cast out these heretical Modernists from the fold of Orthodoxy.

Unitarianism rejected most of the ancient doctrines of the Orthodox church a century ago. Within Unitarianism there was no resistance to the reception of modern point of view. The theory of evolution came as a greatly desired illumination of their quest for truth. So Unitarianism today can in some degree play the prophetic role. Unitarians know from experience about where Modernism arrives philosophically.

Next Sunday the Rev. Frank Fay Eddy of the Unitarian Church will begin a series of sermons dealing with the significance of Modernism and its probable evolution. The theme of the first of these sermons will be "The Fundamentalism of a Modernist."

The soloist at this service will be Lora Teschner, cellist.

There is a class in New Testament History led by Mrs. Vera Todd Crow for University women, and a class in philosophy, led by Mr. Eddy, both of which meet in the Manse at the hour of the Church School immediately following the Morning Service.

The church is located on East Eleventh Avenue at Ferry Street. The hour of Morning Service is 10:45 o'clock.

The men and women of the University are cordially invited to all the services of this church, which likes to describe itself as "The Little Church of the Human Spirit." (Paid Advertisement)

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN 1706-1790

Printer, journalist, diplomat, inventor, statesman, philosopher, wit. One of the authors of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, author of Poor Richard's Almanack; and one of the most eminent natural philosophers of his time.

But nobody had thought to do it

By bringing electricity down from the clouds over a kite string, it was a simple thing to prove that lightning was nothing more than a tremendous electrical flash.

For centuries before Franklin flew his kite in 1751 philosophers had been speculating about the nature of lightning. With electrified globes and charged bottles, others had evolved the theory that the puny sparks of the laboratory and the stupendous phenomenon of the heavens were related; but Franklin substituted fact for theory — by scientific experiment.

Roaring electrical discharges, man-made lightning as deadly as that from the clouds, are now produced by scientists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company. They are part of experiments which are making it possible to use the power of mountain torrents farther and farther from the great industrial centers.

Electrical machines bearing the mark of the General Electric Company, in use throughout the world, are raising standards of living by doing the work of millions of men.
