FAIRBANKS STUDIO OPEN

Jury Day Displays Student Art Work; Nolan B. Zane is Critic From Portland

An exhibition of the work of Emil Jacques, Belgian artist, temporarily in Portland, will be held for two weeks in the little museum in the arts building, beginning with an informal reception at eight o'clock this evening. The exhibition opening ends the regular jury day of the term, Mr. Jacques being also one of the critics of the student work. Another is Nolan B. Zane, art instructor in Jefferson high school, Portland.

The student work will be exhibited all day today in the several departments of architecture, fine arts and normal arts. Besides the sculpture work of the students, the work of Avarud Fairbanks, professor of sculpture, may be seen, since the studio will be open to visitors. Works of especial interest will be the clay medallion for the Old Oregon Trail marker; "Aphrodite," a private commission; the portrait bust of Ezra Meeker, Oregon's aged pioneer, and the "Mother Group."

Subjects Varied

The work of Jacques offers a certain range, with varying treatments of different subjects. His early manner seems to be more that of the Dusseldorf school. He is above all, a strong painter of sunshine, and the large canvas on the middle of the south wall, with its peasant women in the fields, is freely done and spontaneous. It is faithful in representing a certain atmosphere of the toilers near the earth.

A beach scene, possibly at Ghent, has a vibrant quality that is impressive and fairly spontaneous. The man's work is serious, and has an honesty that is commendable. Perhaps the most remarkably honest piece of painting is that of the old man in the gray blouse, evidently done during his student days.

Work Shows Skill

Holland's canal landscape is presented in a charming small canvas on the south end of the east wall. The small oil of the beach chairs has subtlety and careful values. A larger beach scene with two large figures in the foreground is done more in the French manner. The beach is probably Ostend. In this painting Jacques shows a facility for interpreting types—the woman's fine strong neck, the curve of the sleeping child's cheek. Informality is added in the treatment by the teddy-bear on the sand and the wind-blown drapery on the figures in the background.

The beach at Ghent has a strong continental feeling, a certain freedom in the reclining figures, and an open-air swing in the flying flags on the buildings. A baby asleep in its highchair is a study in tones

Men's Glee Home Concert Delights Record Audience

By Mary West

The Men's Glee club sang last night in the Woman's building before a crowd of two thousand, said to be the largest house before which they have ever appeared. The audience was unusually enthusiastic, and applauded nearly every number on the program until an encore (and sometimes many encores), was forthcoming.

The program was opened with the traditional singing of Evans' "Oregon Pledge Song," and was followed by the "Kashmiri Song," Woodford-Pinden, which showed expressive capacity and admirable tonal expression. Ronald Reid, pianist of note, again proved

Women Writers Plan to Peddle Sugary Sinkers

Thursday's the Date—Daylight to Dark

There was a young student named Blinker Who was known among men as a thinker.

When asked to tell why, He said, in reply,

"From eating a Theta Sig sinker."

"And then, Marie, all of the other students, were so envious, of this fellow, Blinker, that they rushed madly up to the campus, and each bought a whole fist full of Theta Sig doughnuts, and at the end of the term, there were no flunks on the scandal sheet." This is not a fairy tale, but a prophesy of what will happen tomorrow, when the members of Theta Sigma Phi, women journalists, stage their annual doughnut sale. Huge sugary doughnuts that will strike just the right spot, with less hole guaranteed per doughnut, than any other of its kind in the city.

So don't forget the date—Thursday, January 10th, from daylight till dark, as the lady pen pushers will be out after the sheekels in earnest and will furnish enough of the delicious confections to satisfy the hungriest, for the small sum of 5 cents each.

NEXT GUILD HALL PLAY TO BE CLEVER COMEDY

Junior Company to Present "Dress Rehearsal"

Gerda Brown will play the leading role in "The Dress Rehearsal," which will be presented by the junior company at Guild hall, January 24, 25 and 26. The leading character part will be played by Katherine Pinneo, whose character acting is well-known on the campus. Beth Fariss will also take a prominent role. David Swanson and Terva Hubbard are taking the leading men's parts, and Henry Sheldon and Paul Krausse also have outstanding roles.

"The Dress Rehearsal" is a lively comedy with clever lines and amusing situations. It is a play within a play; the intrigues of the shrewd stage mother and the Jewish stage manager, and the complications arising from the love affair of the ingenu and the leading man leave no room for a dull moment in the whole play. This play was written for Douglas Fairbanks and Zella Sears; David Swanson and Katherine Pinneo are taking these parts. One scene is particularly interesting, the dress rehearsal, in which the stage manager speaks from the back of the audience and a genuine rehearsal is staged.

"School For Scandal," by Sheridan, will be the next Guild hall production. A large cast from both the junior and senior companies has been chosen. Elizabeth Robinson, who took the leading role in "Dover Road," has the leading part. Betty Belle Wise, Wenona Dyer, and Katherine Pinneo play the other leads, and Darrell Larson, David Swanson, Bernard McPhillips, Gordon Wilson, John Ellestead and Fergus Reddie take the men's parts.

JUNIOR WEEK-END PLANS OUTLINED

Vaudeville to Have Many Excellent Acts; Imogene Letcher to Present Skit

SWANSON HAS CHARGE

Race to be Well Lighted For Canoe Fete; Campus Luncheon Plans Made

At the meeting of the directorate for junior week-end last night, plans for the whole week-end were outlined and discussed and several new features and improvements introduced. The details will get under way at the meeting of the whole junior week-end committee tonight at 5 o'clock in editorial hall, of the journalism building.

Attention was especially directed to the junior vaudeville to be given the week before junior week-end in order to raise funds. The vaudeville will be held at the Heilig theater as has been done in the past. Offers of numbers have already been received and the committee urges that any campus talent with numbers to offer report as soon as possible to Dave Swanson, the director of the vaudeville, or to Ed Tapfer, general chairman of junior week-end.

Many Numbers Listed

The following numbers have been offered to the committee: The Mid-Nite Sons are prepared to furnish a number; Phi Mu Alpha are preparing something in the musical line; Imogene Letcher, whose number was a decided success last year, is preparing another musical skit for this year's program.

Mask and Buskin are offering a prize of $10 for the best short play produced by campus talent, which will be acceptable for their production in the vaudeville program. The men's varsity quartet, will probably sing, and two men from Washington have prepared a clever skit. The committee desires to have the program planned as soon as possible.

Several improvements for handling the canoe fetes were suggested. A large part of time and money will be spent on proper lighting for the floats this year. Since the effectiveness of many of the canoes depends largely on the lighting effects the committee is planning to have more spot lights and to secure better ones if possible.

Bleachers to be Enlarged

It is possible that some of the sections of football bleachers may be placed temporarily along side of the present bleachers in order to accommodate a larger crowd. Plans for the campus luncheon are under way. As usual, there will be music furnished by the military band. There will be a plan worked out for systematic seating of the crowd and disposal of rubbish.

For the purpose of a systematic handling of funds, everything bought by the committees must be secured by a requisition signed by the treasurer of the junior class and countersigned by the general chairman of junior week-end.

Directorate Named

The directorate is composed of the class officers, Donald Woodward, president; Marie Myers, vice-president; Bruce Curry, treasurer, and Margaret Powers, secretary; Ed Tapfer, general chairman of junior week-end; Mary Hathaway, junior prom; Jack High, manager of junior vaudeville; Dave Swanson, director of the vaudeville; Hesdon Metalf, canoe fete, Maude Schroeder, campus luncheon, Stewart Sawtell, campus day; Don Park, entertainment of guests; Katharine Kressman, publicity; Bruce Curry, programs, and Gordon Wilson, athletics.

MANY PREPPERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Delegates From All Parts of State Will Gather on University Campus

PROGRAM IS COMPLETE

Plans for Accommodation of Guests; Ray Harlan in Charge of Housing

The distinction between the conference of high school editors, managers, student-body officers and women's representatives this year, and the one a year ago will be that next Friday and Saturday there will gather about 200 delegates representing more than 60 high schools; whereas last year there were approximately 350 delegates representing 40 schools.

The attention of the committees in charge for the coming conference has been centered on the restriction of attendance to make accommodation possible. With the even division of girls and boys serving as delegates, the handling of the visitors will be much facilitated.

Houses to Entertain

Ray Harlan is in charge of housing the guests for the week-end. Through the interfraternity and pan-hellenic councils he has arranged for the apportionment of the high schoolers among the various organizations. The assignments of the organizations to guests will take place prior to their arrival on the campus. The names of all those delegates coming have been received. In many cases they have expressed a preference of the place where they would stay. Special requests of organizations in the distribution of guests will be complied with wherever possible.

"It is necessary that each organization have some one representative at the registration booth all during the time when the guests are arriving," is the instruction given by Harlan. "If a representative from the organization is at hand, when one of his charges puts in an appearance, he can be immediately ushered to his place of residence for the week-end."

Divisions to be Made

The conferences are scheduled to open promptly Friday morning. There will be three divisions of the delegates. Presidents of student bodies will gather at Villard hall. Editors and managers of publications will have their sessions alternately at the lecture room of the school of journalism, and at the auditorium of the University high school. The officers of girls' leagues will meet first at Guild hall and later at Condon hall in the Administration building. The style show Saturday morning will be held in Guild hall and the demonstration by the Women's Athletic association will take place at the gymnasium of the Women's building.

All delegates will gather at Villard hall for the opening of the conferences. They will be addressed by President Campbell and Claude Robinson preliminary to the consideration of high school problems. Outside speakers who will address the high school representatives are: Fred Boalt, editor of the Portland News; C. A. Howard, superintendent of schools, Marshfield, and A. C. Strange, superintendent of schools, Astoria.

Many Sections Represented

Delegates will commence to arrive in Eugene tomorrow afternoon. They are coming from all parts of Oregon. Such sections as Prineville, Wasco, Redmond, Madras and remote districts are responding to the call to the conference this year. They have never before been represented. La Grande high school is sending two delegates. And they are coming from Astoria, Marshfield, Roseburg, Medford, and many other hitherto unrepresented sections of the state.

"The University will, as never before, have the chance to show itself off to a truly representative group of high school students," said John Piper, chairman of the committee making arrangements. "The

RACE PREJUDICE IS MUCH DISCUSSED SUBJECT AT RECENT STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION

Dr. Paul Harrison, Missionary, Urges That Students Be Consistent in Their Opinion on Equality for Colored Peoples

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles by one of Oregon's representatives at the recent Student Volunteer Convention at Indianapolis. The purpose of this series is to disseminate the important ideas brought out at the convention in the hope that they may bring forth valuable discussion.)

By Lester Turnbaugh

"If a man is willing to be a member of a fraternity that won't admit Chinese students to its membership because of their color, there is no point in his criticism of British administration in India, or French administration of Syria," declared Dr. Paul Harrison in his lecture to the student delegates at the Indianapolis convention last week. Dr. Harrison is a medical missionary to Arabia and is known as the Apostle of the Desert.

DENT MOWREY TO PLAY IN CAMPUS RECITAL

Young Pianist Will Present Original Compositions

Dent Mowrey, the gifted young pianist and composer, will appear in a recital at the Woman's building Monday evening, January 14, at 8:30. Mr. Mowrey will give a number of his own compositions as well as interpretations of composers of the old classical school and the more modern school.

His last group in the recital will be his original compositions, all of which are now in their second and third editions and which have won for this young artist an international reputation. The "Spanish Gypsy," which he is to play, was presented at the University of Paris in 1915 when Mr. Mowrey was a student in that city, and its presentation won for him the distinction of being the only American so honored by that institution. During the time of his residence in Paris he had the reputation of being the most brilliant and talked-of pianist there. Previous to studying in Paris he attended the Leipzig Conservatory of Music in Germany, from which he was graduated with honors. Since his return to America Mr. Mowrey has made his residence in Portland, where westerners who have heard of him only by reputation, now have the opportunity of closer acquaintance with him as a composer, teacher and pianist.

Mr. Mowrey will also play on Monday night one of Debussy's most interesting compositions, the much-commented on "Soiree dans Granada". Mr. Mowrey's interpretations won for him enthusiastic praise from the great master, Debussy, himself. One of Mr. Mowrey's numbers is Tschakowsky's seldom heard "Dounka", an exacting and stirring composition, telling the story of the composer's tragic life.

Mr. Mowrey's appearance on the campus is of special interest to those interested in music both classical and modern. Following his recital an informal reception will be given in Alumni hall. Of interest to campus people is the fact that Mr. Mowrey's mother is Mrs. Lettie Mowrey, Kappa Kappa Gamma house chaperone. Tickets for the concert are on sale at the Co-op. The admission is $1.00.

FELLOWSHIP COMMITTEE REORGANIZES FOR WORK

The World Fellowship committee, consisting of 12 University women, will again resume its work when it holds its first meeting of the term at the Anchorage Friday evening. This group has as its purpose the discussion of current event topics, including the subjects of religion, student movements, social and economic problems, and local topics of interest. It is a branch of the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Florence Magowan, secretary of that organization acting as advisor.

SCOTT TO ORGANIZE BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Physical Education Faculty Issues Challenge

"Skipper" Harry Scott's physical education crew has the inside track for the championship of the professional schools of the University, according to present indications. Scott has what he claims is one of the strongest quintets that have ever put forth in that section of the campus.

A plan has been proposed whereby every professional school and department enter a team in a professional league. As yet no school or department has responded. There are many students who can hoop the basket from any angle, and who could form strong department teams.

If the tournament is formed, a light schedule will be arranged so that a game or two can be played each week. Scott believes that a general faculty team can be formed and, as the physical department gang have thrown their hat in the ring, some fast snappy games of basketball could be played.

There is a world of material in the journalism, geology, law, business administration, music, and architecture departments. Last year the journalism, geology and physical education teams had some interesting contests, and there is no reason why a schedule cannot be arranged this year between the different schools and departments.

"Skipper" Scott has his basket shooters in such good condition that he believes they are over-trained. The team that is composed of Scott, Huntington, Widmer, Crossman, Reinhart and Foster is fast and it is seldom that any opponent can slip through their strong five-man defense. If some team does not come forth Scott will purchase a big silver cup and claim the championship of the University. Judging from the way these instructors have been talking, they are confident that no quintet could possibly slip them the small end of the score.

Any department wishing to enter a team in the tournament should see Harry Scott at the gymnasium as soon as possible.

Wealth of History Revealed in Names of Local Country

By Margaret Morrison

What's in a name? How true it is that we live our lives within the confines of a countryside, rich in associations of which we never learn, until some chance discovery brings us into the realization that we have within our gates, a wealth of local history and tradition of which we have never been aware.
