

HANDBALL GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

Nineteen Teams are Divided Into Four Leagues

TWO GAMES TOMORROW

Betas to Meet Fijis While Phi Sigs Play Kappa Sig

The new doughnut handball leagues swing into action tomorrow with Phi Sigma Pi and Kappa Sigma opposing each other in league A, and Beta Theta Pi and Phi Gamma Delta tangling in league B. The games are not scheduled at any specified time of day, but they must be played on that date or the game is forfeited. There will be no officials to conduct the games, however, the play will be governed by a set of rules posted on the bulletin board in the gymnasium, and will depend upon the clean sportsmanship of the players on the opposing teams.

The nineteen teams entering the competition have been divided into four leagues. A round robin will be played and the two highest teams in each league will enter another division, where they will play a straight elimination to decide the champion. The different divisions were chosen by lot so that all had an equal chance in their choices.

League A—Phi Sigma Pi, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Tau, Phi Kappa Psi.

League B—Beta Theta Pi, Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Bachelordon, Oregon club.

League C—Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Beta Chi, Chi Psi, Sigma Chi, Kappa Delta Phi.

League D—Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Psi Kappa, Sigma Nu, Friendly Hall.

Following the two games scheduled for tomorrow, contests will be played nearly every day and play in the first round will last well up into February. The men on the different house teams have been playing together since their return to school after the holidays and many of them are members of last year's aggregations. Some of the players are fast and have had considerable experience in the sport of the boxed court, so that some thrilling matches are in promise. Especially in the light of the closeness of several of the houses in the race for the doughnut trophy this year, some of the contests will be very hotly contested.

soon to be sure and to relax vigilance, according to Dr. W. K. Livingston, head of the health service. The state board of health reports many cases of contagious disease all over the state and with the return of the students after vacation there was a case each of scarlet fever and of chicken-pox and two cases of measles but these seem to be under control, he said.

To continue warding off all epidemics Dr. Livingston says to keep vigilant, to report early all illnesses and to follow the fundamental rules for health, namely, for fresh air, plenty of sleep, avoid infections, eat regularly and moderately, breathe slowly and deeply, keep clean internally and externally, and have some exercise.

RETURN OF SPIRIT OF PLAY IS IDEAL

of true dramatic representation as found in the old, old, ballads and primitive, middle and modern plays."

Stuart Walker is not only a playwright and poet, but he is a practical man of the theatre, and Stuart Walker, the practical man, has been able to realize and quicken into life the dreams of Stuart Walker, the dreamer.

His interest in the theatre began as a small boy in Covington, Ky. His father bought him a toy theatre and he gave performances for the neighborhood children. Later at college, Mr. Walker was director and actor in any number of amateur productions from Shakespeare to Ibsen.

After being graduated he went into the lumber business, but this proved entirely too prosaic an enterprise, so he went to New York, subsequently becoming general stage director and play-reader for David Belasco.

He resigned his position with Mr. Belasco after six years in order to exercise, without restraint, his own ideas of imaginative play production. He had an idea that mystery, and youth, and romance, had been lost in the American theatre and that the reason was that there was too much of grim realism in it. He lectured on the imaginative staging of plays for a time after leaving Mr. Belasco and it was about this time that the idea of the Portmanteau Theatre was evolved.

GRAD HAS LEAD IN PLAY

Janet Young Appears at Portland in "Mr. Pim Passes By"

Janet Young, graduate of '14, is playing the lead in "Mr. Pim Passes By," in Portland this week. She is with the Moroni Olsen players. Mr. Olsen, the director and head of this company is a noted actor who played opposite Margeret Anglin in New York for several years.

Miss Young majored in the dramatic department when she was here. After she graduated she played with the Baker Stock company in Portland for some time. Later she went into Chautauqua, playing with Ellison-White in the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. For several years she was head of her town companies in the Chautauqua. She played at the Salt Lake Social Hall theatre for a season and went from there to New York, where she was leading lady for Maurice Browne. For the last two years she has been holding a responsible position with the Swarthmore Chautauqua at Swarthmore, Pennsylvania as assistant business manager. Last summer she played an important part in the organization of the Moroni Olsen players, who are in Portland now.

At the Theatres

REX
At the Rex theatre last evening the writer was given an opportunity to pass judgment on the screen version of the Hutchinson story "If Winter Comes," which William Fox has produced, under the direction of Harry Millarde.

The verdict was overwhelmingly in favor of the picture. Readers of book were delighted to find that the qualities which had made it such a popular success were all included in the screen version. From the skilful handling of the scenery to the selection of the members of the excellent cast and the shooting, titling and cutting of the film each step in putting the novel into picture form is marked by a fine artistic sense and strict fidelity to the famous story.

CASTLE
Booth Tarkington, famous American author, who wrote "Boy of Mine," the First National picture now showing at the Castle theatre, playing today and Wednesday, has written Producer J. K. McDonald to the effect that he believes it to be the best film yet based on one of his stories. Tarkington took a personal interest in the production, assisting in casting and titling of the picture.

COLLEGES MAY EXCHANGE NEWS

Emerald Receives Outline From California

PLAN HAS POSSIBILITIES

Ideas Can be Broadened by Interchanging Views

The organization of an inter-collegiate correspondence staff is the plan outlined in a letter received recently by the Emerald from the Daily Californian, the student publication of the University of California.

The purpose of the movement is to make possible the interchanging of ideas and opinions on current student problems and movements. College papers which are listed as members of the system will exchange articles on important campus topics. Sample subjects which might be of interest in this line are: honor spirit, campus theaters, stadiums, student union buildings and dramatics.

Drives Are Assisted
"Exchange of stories on these and similar subjects would assist in the campus drives, broaden the scope of the paper, and furnish readers of the campus daily with viewpoints of other universities, which might prove of constructive help in the reorganization of old activities and stimulate new ones," states the letter, which is signed by Helen Duprey, feature editor of the Californian.

Norborne Berkeley, exchange editor of the Emerald, says that the plan has great possibilities if the various college papers and the students they represent will take an interest in the exchanges. Signed articles are to be sent out to other papers, and in this way students may become "I. N. S. correspondents" on a small scale. An article may be written by a student of Oregon giving his opinion on a certain subject. By means of this exchange system, the article might be printed in a California paper and a student from there might answer the article, based on his experiences in that school. This feature will be valuable in giving students broader ideas and better understanding of problems of the other campus.

Staff is Separate
The gift campaign in the near future and the plan for a student union building on the Oregon campus will benefit by the proposed exchange system.

The new intercollegiate staff will be entirely separate from the present Pacific Intercollegiate News Service. In the past only news stories have been exchanged, but the new organization will make possible the exchange of many articles on important topics, including proposed changes and successful plans.

LUTHERN STUDENTS MAY ORGANIZE CLUB

Work is Promoted by Rev. C. P. Harry Who Was Recent Visitor on the Campus

A meeting of the committee on the establishment of a Lutheran students' organization on the campus will be held at the campus Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday to formulate plans for such an organization. It is planned to call a meeting of all Lutheran students in the University in the near future.

These plans for a Lutheran club on the campus are the results of a visit made to the University recently by Rev. C. P. Harry, of Philadelphia, who has been interested in the organizing of Lutheran college students throughout the United States. At the time of his recent visit to the campus, he visited the other state institutions of the northwest and was successful in organizing student organizations at O. A. C., Washington, Washington State and Idaho. These organizations are small in comparison with those at Pennsylvania State college, the University of Minnesota and the University of Wisconsin, where there are several hundred Lutheran students and Ernest Henrikson, chairman; Camil-were the clubs are very strong.

The local committee consists of Ernst Hendrikson, chairman; Camilla Anderson, Esther Christensen and Jalmar Johnson.

WALKS ARE COMMENDED

Thoroughfares on Campus Receive Heavy Gravel Surface

Some one has observed the slippings and slidings of the University and high school students who traverse the walks around the Education building and University high school and has taken pity. These said students returned this term to find the old, damp narrow walks all replaced with brand new wide ones. Much rejoicing was done. The same person or some one as kind also has beautified the grounds around the two buildings by planting new shrubbery at corners and near the walks.

It appears that pity was also taken on the muddy boots that come from Kincaid street, as new gravel walks have been started there.

Either charity ran out before the job was finished or else a temporary halt has been called because of the weather. At any rate the walks have been only started and boots still suffer from the slush. It is hoped that this benefactor will return soon to finish his good work.

NEW PERIODICALS ADDED

Science Magazines Introduced for Purposes of Research

A new set of periodicals has been added to the library very recently, entitled "Proceedings of American Academy of Arts and Science." The collection, consisting of 58 volumes, was published from 1848 up to the present date.

Although the periodicals were purchased especially for the botany department, they contain articles on various branches of science and are considered very valuable for research work. The set will be bound and put in regular circulation.

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL CLUB WILL HOLD BANQUET

The Oregon Normal School club, made up of ex-normal school students from Monmouth, will hold a banquet in connection with its regular meeting at the Anchorage Wednesday evening, according to Secretary, Hazel Robinson. All members are urged to be present.
