

RUTHERFORD'S RECORD IS GOOD

Break With Alumni Causes Mentor to Quit Post

SUCCESSOR NOT NAMED

Webfoot and Beaver Teams in Same Situation

By Monte Byers

Like a bolt out of the clear blue comes word that Head Coach Dick Rutherford of the Oregon Aggies has resigned his position. After four years at the Corvallis institution, Smiling Dick found himself at outs with the alumni body and did the gentlemanly thing by resigning.

It has been known for some time that the Aggie grads were not entirely pleased with the showing made by Rutherford's football machines. After the Oregon game, in which the Aggies defeated the Webfoots 6-0, it was generally believed that Rutherford would be proffered another contract. Rutherford was the big show following that game, but the alumni were not satisfied yet.

Trip is Disastrous

The trip to the Hawaiian islands was disastrous to the Aggie footballers, but that was non-conference. Still there was dissent not to be quelled, and then came the break when Smiling Dick Rutherford bowed to the inevitable, a disgruntled alumni, and handed in his resignation.

This brings to mind the resignation of Shy Huntington, Oregon mentor, who also bowed gracefully to a dissatisfied alumni. As it now stands the football situation in Oregon is a muddled mess. Both big institutions are now obliged to get mentors for the coming year. Nothing has been heard from the Aggie camp regarding the search for a coach, but it is certain that something will be started soon. The situation at both schools will be interesting to watch.

Students Support Coach

At both schools student sentiment and that of the football men has been to a great degree with the coach. The Aggie grid athletes, like those of Oregon, were behind their coach to a man.

While Rutherford has won no championships, his record stacks up well with others who have faced like difficulties. In four years against Oregon he has broken even with the local school, having won one, lost one, and tied two. In other conference games he has done well enough. He is the last of a string of short-time coaches. Doc Stuart who had some marked success with Aggie football machines, stayed three years. Rutherford stayed four.

Prospects Are Gloomy

It looks now as if football in Oregon will go through a year or so of gloomy prospects. The new coaches, whoever they may be, cannot possibly mold machines of championship caliber in less than that time. Bagshaw, at Washington, is an example of this. After two years of difficulty, he has a good machine. Oregon and O. A. C. are now in the same boat without a rudder. There are other schools in the same boat. Centre college has lost Charlie Moran, a big place to fill.

The scramble for coaches is going to be interesting to watch, but we will be more interested in the situation at the two state institutions.

THE PROPHET LINE

There is no doubt that Unitarianism and other forms of Modernism undermine the authority of the Bible and the institution organized as the Church of Christ. Many of those who call themselves Modernists do not realize that yet but the logic of the situation will sooner or later bring them face to face with the facts.

The much abused process of rationalization, however, is not necessarily destructive, as defenders of the old faith usually assume. Rather it enlarges our whole conception of truth and introduces a long line of prophets, instead of limiting the line to those closely related to Judaism and Christian history, we add those who expressed the early monotheism of the ancient Egyptians, the unknown great ones who phrased the Vedic hymns of pre-historic India and that note which sounded throughout Asia. Zarathustra who struck a spiritual We add the marvelous Greeks with their philosophy and the beautiful sanity of the Chinese sages. metabolism, differentiation and growth."

The chickens next door, who are eating all sorts of things to please the zoology majors, increased their ribaldry. Mrs. White Rat frowned. "I'm afraid my family has been awakened," she suggested. The interview had ended.

BACHELORDON BEATS FIJI HANDBALL TEAM

Kappa Sigma Loses Lop-sided Game to Sigma Pi Tau in Second Contest

True to expectation, the Phi Gamma Delta and Bachelorlon handball game was the fastest and most closely contested match on yesterday's schedule. Playing at high speed from start to finish, and using team work to good advantage, the Bachelorlon combination, made up of Patterson and Garner, won the contest by a score of 22-20, 21-12. Realizing that their chances for the trophy were at stake, the Phi Gamma Delta pair, made up of Goodell and King, made every effort to win, but the Bachelorlon aggregation was able to check the attacks and emerged victors. The final score was a fair indication of the fast pace set by the players.

In the second contest of the afternoon, the Sigma Pi Tau squad, made up of Thillets and Gabriel, easily and decisively defeated the Kappa Sigma representatives, Bliss and Randell. The score was 21-9, 21-14. The steady and consistent team work of the victors accounted for the lop-sided score.

SUSAN CAMPBELL GIRLS WIN IN SWIMMING MEET

Susan Campbell (2) won yesterday's swimming meet from Hendricks hall (2) by the score of 40 to 23. Maude Schroeder, for Susan Campbell, was high point winner, taking three first places. Yvonne Smith showed up well for the losers.

STUDENT REHEARSAL TO BE THIS AFTERNOON

School of Music Presents One Pupil of Each Teacher in Piano and Voice

The second student rehearsal of the year will be held this afternoon at 1:30 p. m. in the lounge room of the school of music. Theodore Walstrum, teacher of piano, who has charge of the affair, expressed the hope yesterday that not only school of music students, but everyone interested in musical activities will attend.

The heads of the piano, voice, violin and flute departments, as well as the various teachers, will each present a pupil. Those appearing in solo numbers are: Voice, "The Nightingale Song," Nevin, Flavia Ritter; "The Rosary," Nevin, Melba Maey. Piano: "Etude Mignonne," Schutt, Veda Davis; "Breton Gigue," Bachman, Lyle Baird; "Hungarian," McDowell, Alma Lawrence; "Prelude D Flat," Chopin, Helen Faloner; "The Parade of the Peacocks," Adelaide and Barbara Laraway. Violin: "Meditation From Thais," Massenet. Flute: "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Dvorak, Genevieve Phelps.

Student rehearsals are held monthly, and it is the opinion of Dr. John Landsbury, dean of the school of music, that they afford excellent opportunity for people to become acquainted with the various departments.

ABBOTT'S PUBLICITY WORK COMPLIMENTED

Illustrated Magazine Devoted to Future of Longview Edited by Oregon Graduate

A recent article in the Longview Daily News at Longview, Washington, comments on the excellence of the work of Leith Abbott, in his publication for the Long-Bell Lumber company. Abbott edits the Longview Progress as a part of his work as Western advertising representative of the company. The publication is an eightpage illustrated magazine telling of the development and news of the newly built city.

The following clipping from the local paper indicates the success which Abbott has attained with it:

Abbott was graduated from the University last June and during his career here was prominent in athletics, journalism and campus politics.

At the Theatres

HEILIG

May Robson who comes to the Heilig Monday night is using as her vehicle this season the long looked for "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." "Aunt Mary" is a wealthy spinster who lives in a small country village and is rather an eccentric character with her own ideas about everything, not caring what others say or do.

She has her old faithful servants, whose whole lives have been devoted to her.

Her nephew "Jack" is all she has in the world and no matter what he does, she always sees him through financially. Her endurance and patience is reached when a newspaper has a story of "Jack" and a "Girl from Kalamazoo."

That is the finish; she immediately sends for her lawyer and has "Jack" cut out of her will.

The picture was beautifully staged at Thomas H. Ince Studios under the direction of Del Andrews.

Men Wait in Wonder While Women Choose Escorts from Group

Conditions in the pigging field are becoming very tangled, according to the reports of our campus representatives. Men are not sure now whether it is proper for them to call a woman and ask her for a date; it may look as though they are trying to be too forward. In some cases it has been reported that men have phoned for dates only to have the young lady of their hopes inform them that she has already asked a man to take her.

Teas, dances and parties are becoming social functions of the ladies elite, and men that are not summoned to the phone had best keep away from the instrument; the women do the asking, the men do the declining now—it's strange but true.

For men that are fast fading into wall flowers, Obak suggests his splendid course in pool ethics; this course does not help a fellow's batting average with the "weaker" sex, but it does keep one from being lonesome during these winter evenings.

Anyway, the women will soon be broke and a man can then afford to take a chance at calling for a date. In the meantime, the masculine population sits back and wonders just what it is all about. When in doubt, come to Obak's Kollege Klub, a house full of entertainment, good food and cheer, a ways. Incidentally it might be noted here that the men should have the choice of the place to go, so men that wish their feminine escorts to feed them right had better insist upon visiting the Obak Lunch Counter after the dance or show.

KOLLEGE KOLLUM

By K. Nite
Good morning, men, are you going to play pool today?

The only thing that we don't like about Sunday is that Monday comes so soon following.

What has become of that freshman that used to buy annual tickets for the library steps? We suppose that he now spends his money supporting campus drives.

Students will vote on Bok peace plan, says paper; wonder what effect that plan will have on the R. O. T. C.?

Yesterday there was a fresman came in here that had never heard of Obak's before. He thought that Hayward field was a real estate addition; and Oregon Spirit a horse liniment. Was it Milton that said there is one of these born every minute?

Just remember that there will be the usual smoker at Obak's Kollege Klub Rooms tonight, featuring the smoothest of pool and billiard tables and the finest of lunch counter eats.
