

FIRST OF MEET TO BE TUESDAY

Intramural Bar Vault and Swim Scheduled

FIJIS HOLD FIRST PLACE

Nineteen Teams Entered in Annual Pentathlon

Less than a week remains for the entries of the intramural pentathlon to round into shape for the first two events, the bar vault and swim, which will be held next Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the men's gymnasium.

"Hank" Foster, director of the intramural program, asks that the managers of the different house teams turn in the names of the five men that will compete in the pentathlon before Friday evening, February 1, at 5 o'clock. The names of the men on the team must be turned in to Foster before the men can compete in the events.

Fijis Hold Lead
Of the 19 teams entered in the intramural tournament the Fijis have managed to hold down first place. There may be a chance that they will be dethroned if some team piles up a high score and carries off the meet. The first two events will be staged Tuesday evening and the remaining three, rope climb, run and high jump will be finished Thursday evening.

High Score Expected
The events will be run off this year in two evenings because of the lack of time and again the amount of endurance is not required for two events as if all five were held in one evening. By this method of staging the pentathlon it is expected that some team will make a high score. If an extraordinary score is made in the meet it will not be counted toward the high point position of the University, which is held by Hadron Rockey.

Each man will be given a card and will take his turn at the bar vault, and after finishing this event will go to the tank and take the swim. Harry Scott, Jim Cossman, Earl Widmer, and "Hank" Foster will be in charge of the bar vault, while "Rady" Fahl and Don Park will look after the swim.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS THOUGHT ESSENTIAL

of athletics, last year the department of physical education through the intramural program, had 596 men actively engaged in some sport. Statistics available in Scott's office show that 19 men's organizations were active in the intramural program during the past year and that each living organization had on the average for the year, 20 men engaged in each of the nine intramural sports.

In the fall-term basketball is the major intramural activity and the 19 living organizations engaged, are represented by seven men to a team. The varsity and freshman teams would limit the possibility of basketball playing to 35 or 40 men instead of 112 men who enjoyed the game last year. Last fall 62 men turned out for intramural cross country, although this was the first time that the event had been listed as an intramural activity.

During the winter term handball, the physical ability pentathlon, wrestling and swimming are open to intramural men. The handball teams are composed of 2 men from each of the 19 living organizations. Each organization is represented by 4 men in the pentathlon, 55 men turned out for intramural wrestling last year, and swimming, which is the last intramural activity in the winter term, attracted 75 men.

In the spring each of the organizations are represented by 2 men in the tennis tournament, 11 men in baseball, and last season 50 men turned out for track.

The 9 intramural sports offered to members of 19 living organizations in 1922-1923 consist of basketball, in which 112 men were actually participants; handball, 34; physical ability pentathlon, 55; wrestling, 61; swimming, 50; track, 75; baseball, 175; tennis, 34.

With all of these various activities available for the man who likes to play—and Scott believes that all men like to play—beneficial athletics are open throughout the year to the University student. By adhering to, and occasionally modifying the intramural program, the end desired by the school of physical education is realized. The man who is not in condition for varsity athletics, or cannot make the team, is given an opportunity to improve himself physically by 9 different activities.

But the thing that pleases Scott the most, is the fact that men are participating in the intramural program learn to play games which will afford them pleasure and exercise and enjoyment long after they leave the University. After a man becomes 30 years of age, he does not care to play basketball—the game is too strenuous. "But a man can enjoy and does profit by a game of handball even after he becomes bald or gray," Scott declared.

The plaque, offered by the department of physical education to the organization winning the year's intramural contest, was awarded to the Sigma Chi fraternity last year. Any organization winning the plaque three times in succession gets to keep the trophy. To win the plaque the organization must be a consistent participant in all of the intramural activities.

The time element entering into the intramural activities does not jeopardize the student scholastic record, according to Scott. Less time is consumed and more benefit accrues to the student participating in a well organized and systematized sport than could possibly be obtained by haphazard, irregular playing.

In closing Scott said that men entering the intramural activities did so on their own initiative and played with a definite purpose. When they leave the University, he believes that they will continue to play on their own initiative for the same reason that they do now—for enjoyment.

DEAN DYMENT RECOVERING FROM ATTACK OF GRIPPE

Dean Colin Dymont of the college of literature, science and the arts, is able to be about and on the campus once more, after being confined to his home for about a week with an attack of la grippe. The dean spent a few hours in his office on Monday and yesterday, but until his strength returns more fully he will carry on his office correspondence at home and will not be in his office regularly until later in the week.

BOK PEACE PLAN VOTE TOTALS 477 BALLOTS

Faculty Members Turn in Decisions on Issue

Final returns from the straw vote, taken on the Bok Peace Plan show a total of 477 votes cast by the students of the University. From the 29 living organizations which voted, 355 students balloted yes, and 92 no.

Forty-two faculty members sent in votes on the plan, and of this number 40 were for the plan, and two against it.

The ballots will be sent immediately to the American peace award office in New York as the University unit in the national vote.

Persons directing the vote on the campus expressed the opinion that the students as a whole did not take as active an interest in the vote as was expected.

Edward W. Bok, at one time editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, originated the plan whereby an award of $50,000 would be given to the person who submitted the most practical plan for achieving and preserving the peace of the world. It was also stated that if the plan proved to be practical, the author of the plan would be given an additional $50,000.

The author, as yet unknown to the public, will be announced Monday, February 4.

MISSIONARY TO TELL OF LATE EARTHQUAKE

Rev. Detweiler to Give Account of Japanese Earthquake on Next Wednesday

An opportunity will be given to all University students and townspeople to hear a personal account of the recent disastrous earthquake in Japan from Rev. James E. Detweiler, D.D., who will speak at the Presbyterian church next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Detweiler is a Presbyterian missionary to Japan and a professor in the Theological Seminary at Osaka, Japan.

Although his station is in the southern end of the island he was in the northern part during the earthquake and was an eye witness to the terror and ruin which followed in its wake. He has had to come to America on a leave of absence to regain his shattered health, and while in this country was prevailed upon to make this tour. He is said to be a most interesting and convincing speaker and should have a subject of great interest to all, according to Dr. Caswell of the department of pre-engineering who has received word of his coming.

FINAL DEBATE TRYOUTS TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Seven Men Selected to Do Extra Work Before Final Squad is Selected

The team for the Oregon-Stanford-Washington men's debate triangle has not yet been selected, but from among all the aspirants seven men have been chosen to do extra work before a definite team of four men is selected. The seven are: Ralph Bailey, Martin Moore, Harold Sox, Herschel Brown, Ernest Henrikson, Curtis Erwin, and Glenwood Archer. They will work on the question all this week and Saturday morning in Villard hall the final tryouts will be held.

The question for this contest is, "Resolved, that the United States should enter the world court." March 6 has been set as the date for the varsity contest. One end of the triangle will be held here, one at Palo Alto and the third at Seattle.

The date for the women's Oregon-O. A. C.-Willamette debate has been set forward one day, so that it will be Thursday, February 14, instead of Friday, February 15. "Resolved, that France should evacuate the Ruhr," will be the question at issue. Mildred Whitcomb, Margaret Woodson, Mildred Bateman and Dorothy Abbott constitute the team which will represent Oregon.

BOTANY POPULAR STUDY

Sweetser Will Give Courses in Summer Center

Prof. A. R. Sweetser, of the botany department of the University, will be an instructor in the Portland summer session of the University, where he will handle three courses. These are in general botany and plant biology, systematic botany, and an advanced course in botany, which will be adapted to the needs of the individual.

"The demand for Professor Sweetser in Portland is constant and wide, and his classes draw a large number of eager students who are interested in botany and nature study," said Alfred Powers, of the extension division.

Professor Sweetser is familiar with Portland classes from extension work in the Portland center and has served on the faculty for former summer terms.

REDDIE TO BROADCAST

Professor to Give Readings Over Oregonian Radio

Professor Fergus Reddie, head of the drama and speech arts department is to broadcast a radio lecture Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The transmission will be in the nature of readings, and "Huck Finn" is what Professor Reddie has selected to give. The broadcast will be made from station K G W of the Portland Morning Oregonian.

Professor Reddie has a new theory on the expression of personalities over the radio which he is going to try out at this time. Being an expert on the speech arts, expectations are that he will have some good pointers on the vocal expression of personality to give. The subject of expression of personality over the radio is a much discussed topic in the radio world these days, says Mr. Reddie.

NEW SEVEN DAY SHELF PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Students and Faculty Urged to Assist Library by Handing in Suggestions

Considerable interest has been shown in the new seven-day shelf of interesting books which was opened a week ago for the first time. About half of the books are now in circulation. The plan, that of Mabel McClain, circulation librarian, and H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education, is to bring before students and faculty the current non-fiction books of most lively interest.

That the plan is proving successful, is shown by the fact that several of the most popular books on the shelf are those which have been in the library for as long as six months and are not just new books. Although they have been in the library, people in general did not seem to know of them until they were brought out together on the new shelf for special attention. Many of the books have circulated once and a half already.

Only three or four suggestions, have been handed in to the suggestion box at the circulation desk, however, and it is by this plan that students and faculty are urged to co-operate in making known any book they may be interested in seeing added to the new shelf. The titles handed in will be judged by a committee and if there is enough demand for the book it will be purchased for the collection.

In addition to 25 books that are already ordered for the shelf, and will arrive soon, volumes will be added from time to time, as interesting books come out and are being discussed. All books in this collection circulate without fees.
