STUDENT UNION CAPTAINS NAMED

Campaign Will Halt All Other University Work; Drive to Start April 23

STATE WATCHES EFFORT

Earl Shafer to be Leader of Seniors for Drive; Others Are Appointed

By J. W. P.

There comes a time when all things must cease. And it might as well be said right here and now that the University plant will just about have to come to a standstill on the four days which are being set aside for the Student Union campaign. These should be crowding days in student history. They will be days of activity, of serious thought, of calculation and imagination.

Neither Claude Robinson, Haddon Rockley, nor anyone else connected in any capacity with the Student Union campaign think that academic work will stand a ghost of a show when study, activity and organization for the campaign gets under way. If the faculty want to give competition to this all-student weekend by calling classes, they may. But who to the popularity of the professor who fails to wink at careless attendance of his classes at this time. For this is to be the time of times. This is to be a period of only a couple of school days which will bring a monument of years to student enterprise, life and gratitude for benefits received.

Organization Makes Progress

Like the incoming tide, which at no particular increment of time can be said to be at any one depth, the organization for the Student Union drive progresses and grows greater. Haddon Rockley, who was appointed general chairman of solicitation during the four days, has chosen eight students who will act as class captains and assistants to organize the members of the student body into their various classes for personal canvassing.

Earl Shafer and Henrietta Lawrence are captain and assistant respectively of the senior class. They will head the network of teams which will be organized under them for individual solicitation of not only seniors, but also special students of all kinds. Edward Sox and Winifred Graham will head the junior organization; James Leake and Mary Brandt, the sophomores; and Fred West and Esther Setters, the freshmen. All these captains and assistants are now making their selections of subordinates to start the actual work when the time comes. The complete organization is expected to be ready by April 22 to make the big kick-off on April 23.

Students Show Interest

"There is to be absolutely no monkey-business about this campaign," Haddon Rockley said yesterday. "This drive for the Student Union is to be one affair that the students will take seriously. The discussions about giving money are not to be superficial chats or disinterested discussions taking place around fraternity fire-places. Every man and woman in the University is going to feel his or her personal responsibility to back this movement to the fullest extent of his power. It is not my Student

JOURNALISM MAJOR ACCEPTS FELLOWSHIP

Vishnu Vitthal Oak, a senior in the University school of journalism, has been granted a junior fellowship in Clark University, Worcester, Massachusetts, for the academic year 1924-25. He will accept the offer.

The fellowships of this nature are reserved for those applicants who are judged to be within two years of their academic years of their doctorate. It includes free tuition, and $100 in addition.

Mr. Oak obtained his M.A. at the University of California last year. At California he specialized in economics. Mr. Oak's home is in Bombay, India, where he taught mathematics in a school for several years.

Program Outlined for May Meeting of Oregon Authors

The tentative program for the meeting of the Oregon authors, to be held on the campus May 3, includes a number of addresses on the general subject of modernism in literature. The program, according to present plans, will begin with a luncheon which Ye Tabard Inn and Pot and Quill will give for the authors. In the afternoon, there will be a rather formal conference, at which the addresses will be given.

In the evening, the University will give a banquet for the delegates. Tickets to this may be purchased by local people interested in the conference. Following this, the delegates will attend the Junior Vol-vil, Ye Tabard Inn will then entertain the men with a smoker.

VOCATIONS WILL BE ASSEMBLY SUBJECT

Dr. H. L. Swartz to Speak in Villard Thursday

The speaker for assembly Thursday, April 10, will be Dr. Herman F. Swartz, president of the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, California. The topic that Dr. Swartz will speak upon will be, "The Idealistic Vocations."

Dr. Swartz will be on the campus from Wednesday evening through Sunday. Besides speaking at assembly Thursday, he will address the state convention of the Christian Endeavor, to be held in Eugene the latter part of this week. Also, Dr. Swartz will be a speaker at a luncheon to be given in his honor by the Y. M. C. A. at Thursday noon, at which he will talk on some phase of the Christian life. It is planned to have Dr. Swartz address vespers service next Sunday afternoon.

Those that know him, say Dr. Swartz is quite a remarkable man, and has done much to build up the Pacific School of Religion since becoming its head. He is especially interested in getting recruits for the ministry and has done much along that line.

Henry W. Davis, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, says that Dr. Swartz is a very magnetic speaker. Mr. Davis is acquainted with Dr. Swartz, having met him when he resided in Berkeley. Dr. Swartz was characterized by members of the student body of the University of California as the best assembly speaker that they had heard last year, according to Mr. Davis.

Dr. Swartz has been on the campus before, although he did not address an assembly at that time. He stopped here on his way back from speaking at Washington State college and was the speaker at a luncheon given by the Y. M. C. A. The assembly will be in Villard hall instead of the Woman's building. The music for assembly has not yet been announced. Who will give the invocation has not been decided.

LAST RESPECTS PAID TO CHARLES H. FISHER

The students of the University and the townspeople of Eugene yesterday morning paid their last respects to the memory of Charles H. Fisher, University regent and veteran Oregon newspaper man, whose death occurred on Saturday. As classes were closed during the morning, scores of faculty members and students attended the funeral services, held in the Veatch chapel.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Charles E. Dunham, of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Fisher was a member, and music was furnished by the University male quartette. Following the ceremony, the body was taken to Roseburg for burial.

DOROTHY COLLIER LEAVES FOR AMERICA MARCH 29

Dorothy Collier, former secretary of the University Y. W. C. A., sailed for the United States March 29. She will visit in the East before coming to her home here, and plans to attend the national Y. W. C. A. convention in New York from April 29 to May 6. Miss Collier has been on a tour of European and Asiatic countries for nearly a year, having sailed the latter part of last spring for England.

FORENSIC YEAR RATED SUCCESS

Debating Season Is Past; Two More Oratorical Meets Are Scheduled

MANY GIVEN TRAINING

Plans Being Made to Lay Out 1924-25 Program; Coaches Are Hopeful

By Frances Sanford

Oregon's 1923-24 debate season is a thing of the past, and her oratorical activities are half over. Only two more contests remain in the season's schedule, the tri-state oratorical contest between the Universities of Washington, Idaho and Oregon, and the Failing-Beekman orations, restricted to seniors, the former contest scheduled for May 22, and the latter for June 13.

In surveying the season that has passed, it becomes evident that Oregon made a creditable showing. The University participated in a number of events not ordinarily included in her forensic schedule, and, while the teams have not been entirely victorious, over half the contests have been won. In the field of oratory, Oregon has taken second place in both contests that have been held.

New Coaches Train

Considering the fact that the debate teams were trained by new coaches to whom conditions here were unfamiliar, and that there was considerable deviation from the regular schedule, the debate season has been a success, according to Elam Amstutz, forensic manager.

During the year a large number of people have been trained, and the experience that they have gained will prove particularly valuable to them next year, pointed out the debate coach, H. E. Rosson. Already plans are being laid out for a schedule for next year which the coaches hope, will be as attractive as the one that they have followed this past year.

Some Contests New

Among the new contests held this season was the men's triangular debate with Idaho and British Columbia on January 18, a contest which was reinstated after five years, and which proved to be a very satisfactory debate. Oregon won two to one over British Columbia and lost two to one to Idaho in this contest.

The radio debate, conducted by the University of California and the University of Oregon, on February 29, the first meet of its kind ever staged, proved to attract the attention of people throughout the entire country. Oregon won in this contest by a safe margin, the judging being accomplished by the audience mailing in their decisions. A word from the California coach shows that the debate was successful from the standpoint of both parties. In the minds of those who worked out this experiment, there is the hope of repeating this event next year. The realization of this dream of bringing together the arguments of two contestants hun-

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES TO DECIDE CHAMPION

The annual high school debates, to decide the champions of Oregon, are nearing completion, according to Dr. Dan E. Clark, of the University extension division.

The winners of the district debates have been decided and inter-district debates will follow until the winners of eastern Oregon and western Oregon are decided. These will compete for the championship of the state about the middle of May. Due to the fact that Junior Week-end is earlier this year than usual, the championship will not be decided at that time, as has been done formerly.

The district champions are: Warrenton, of the Columbia River district; Tillamook, northern Willamette; Salem, middle Willamette; Eugene, southern Willamette; Myrtle Point, Coos Bay; Ashland, southern Oregon; Bozana, central Oregon; Hood River, north central Oregon; Pendleton, Umatilla; Union, northeastern Oregon; and Burns, southeastern Oregon.

Richard M. Nance Receives Award for High Grades

Foreign Trade Student Has 1.13 Average

The Beta Gamma Sigma freshman award for this year goes to Richard M. Nance, a student specializing in foreign trade. Every year the freshman man in the school of business administration who has the highest average for the fall and winter terms, is given recognition by having his name engraved on a brass plate, which is in the Commerce building.

Nance had a straight "I" card for the winter term and his average for both terms was 1.13. He lives in Portland, and is a graduate of Washington high school. He is one of the students on the campus who is absolutely self-supporting, as he works six hours a day, besides preparing for his classes.

Y. W. C. A. TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS TODAY

Josephine Seaman Will be Speaker at Meeting

One of the larger and more important meetings of the year for the student Young Women's Christian association will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. The occasion is to be the installation of the 1924-25 officers who were elected last term.

It is especially important that all members of the new cabinet be present. One of the most impressive numbers in the ceremony will be the talk by Mary Clerin, retiring president.

Miss Josephine Seaman of La Jolla, California, will be the principal speaker at the meeting. Miss Seaman is an official in the national association of the Y. W. C. A. She is at present visiting Dean Esterly.

Special music is being arranged for by Florenee Buck and Muriel Paul. All University women are invited to attend the meeting, and all members of the association are particularly urged to come.

Officers to be installed are Florenee Buck, president; Mary Donaldson, vice-president; Marian Lovry, secretary; Lois Esterbrooks, treasurer; and Helen Andrews, undergraduate representative.

SECOND DIME CRAWL IS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The second dime crawl of the year will take place on Wednesday evening, when all the men of the campus will change their dollars to dimes and make the rounds of the various women's houses between the hours of 6:30 and 7:30.

Men are asked to have their dimes ready at the door in order that no delay will be caused in making change. The members of Alpha Delta Phi have engaged the Campa Shoppe for the evening in order to be nearer the center of activities, and the Delta Tau Delta house will be turned over to the members of Alpha Phi. Delta Zeta will have the College Side Inn for the affair, and Chi Omega will have the Sigma Chi house.

Jeanne Gay, chairman of the affair, asks that all money taken in be turned over to her as soon as possible in order that an early estimate may be made of the amount taken in.

FROLIC CLEARS $250 FOR LEAGUE'S FUNDS

The April Frolic was decidedly a success financially, the women clearing about $250. There were a large number of girls present, and practically all the seats upstairs in the Woman's building were sold to women who were not students.

In addition to the admission charged to spectators, there was an entrance fee of 10 cents to the girls, and ice cream sandwiches were sold during the evening. The greater part of the money will be used for the Women's league scholarship fund, declared Anna DeWitt, who was general chairman of the affair.

Beta Theta Pi announces the pledging of Glenn F. Schneider, of Twin Falls, Idaho.

ATHLETES FAVOR DOUGHNUT SPORT

Two Different Opinions Are Held by Other Classes of University Students

MODERATION ADVOCATED

Development of Varsity Material Is Pointed Out as Benefit from System

By George H. Godfrey

A thorough sounding out of student sentiment on the action of the inter-fraternity council in abolishing inter-fraternity sports amounts to this: The active athletes, that is, the men who are either on varsity teams or competing for places on teams, are heartily in favor of a system of intramural sports similar to that discarded. Some favor limitations, but all favor doughnut competition.

Men who are not accustomed to "turning out" for varsity teams, are often opposed to intramural, and especially inter-fraternity, programs.

A third class, however, is composed of men not regular athletes who really like to participate in the sports. These men usually favor a system that would simply allow any team to enter or not to enter, at will.

Exercise Claimed Beneficial

The athletes point to the doughnut sports as the varsity's greatest source of material, and they see in the passing of the system a restriction of the field in every event. Also, these men claim that participation, even though at times compulsory, heightens a man's interest in games, and thereby builds up a stauncher body of supporters for Oregon teams. It is also claimed that the physical exercise is beneficial, and that doughnut sports provide it many times when for lack of such sports, the student would never have an incentive to go out.

The general impression gained after discussing the question from all angles is that some program of doughnut sports should certainly be adopted, that the absolute abolishment of inter-fraternity athletics was more or less a mistake, and that the final solution is to be found in the adoption of a new system. The new system must be more moderate than the old one, yet contribute equally to varsity teams, and have the same beneficial effect on the men, and on athletics in general.

Latham Makes Statement

Captains of the varsity teams all favor a program of doughnut sports, all condemn the action of the inter-fraternity council, but at the same time, all favor moderation. Hugh Latham, captain of the basketball team, severely criticizes the abolishment, terming it "hasty and unjustifiable." "Doughnut sports were becoming too extensive, I believe," he says. "But, instead of trying a remedy, the council kicked them out altogether. It's like killing a dog in order to rid him of his fleas."

Latham offers a definite program, in which three sports, basketball, track and baseball, would be compulsory for every living organization, halls of residence, and the men's Oregon club. Then an option of two more sports out of a choice of several could be allowed. Optional sports would be tennis, swimming, wrestling, boxing and other minor activities. In this way, the system could be simplified, yet still contribute material for the varsity teams. All awards would be scrapped.

Reed and Chapman Favor

Dick Reed, captain of football for next year, and Hal Chapman, captain last fall, both are emphatically in favor of the inter-fraternity sports, but believe the program formerly in effect should be somewhat cut down. Reed favors stressing major sports, while Chapman is in favor of eliminating some of the less important events. Both believe that the average student has some time for athletics, and that the doughnut system is best for the individual. They, and all others queried, are in favor of abolishment of all awards.

That the action, although it may have been justified, was rather

Cashier's Windows Open for Payment of Term Fees Now

It behooves the wise student to pay his fees at the business office early this week, in order to avoid the last minute rush, according to E. P. Lyon, cashier.

The cashier's windows will remain open from 8:30 to 12:00 and from 1:30 to 3:00 each day except Saturday, when the windows will close at noon. Fees paid after that time will have an extra $3 added to them for late filing.

All fees, including registration, laboratory and non-resident fees, are payable at this time.

It is easier on the workers in the business office if the students come early to pay their fees, instead of waiting until the last day or two, and it is especially requested that they observe this advice.

DEAN HALE RETURNS FROM CAMPAIGN TRIP

University's Needs Are Told to Clubs of State

"I'm getting to be a seasoned campaigner," said William G. Hale, dean of the school of law, who just returned yesterday from a week's trip of lectures for the alumni gift campaign. Dean Hale, as part of the organization work, has been presenting the reason why the University needs $5,000,000 for buildings and general developments. During the past week he spoke at St. Helens, Hood River, Astoria, Portland and Seattle.

Two persons are chosen to cover each county for the campaign work—one to present the needs of educational conditions which have given rise to the campaign, and the other to outline plans as to how the campaign can be carried on most effectively.

Dean Hale is to be engaged for some time in the campaign work and is leaving again Wednesday on another trip. This time he will talk at Pendleton, Spokane, Butte, Boise, and Burns.

Also it has been arranged tentatively for a trip beginning April 28 to May 1. The trip will be made through eastern Oregon. Lectures will be given to commercial clubs, Kiwanis clubs, and other civic organizations on general extension service for the University. In addition, a lecture will be given April 24 at the Hillsboro Rotary club.

RONQUILLO TO SPEAK TO COSMOPOLITANS

Romeo Ronquillo, who attended the State Student Volunteer convention held at Corvallis a few weeks ago as a representative of the University Cosmopolitan club, will speak tonight at the meeting of the foreign students in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow at 7:30.

This is the first meeting of the Cosmopolitan club for this term, and an opportunity to become a member will be given to any one wishing it. There are several candidates for admittance into the society. Mrs. F. C. Purvis, member of the Congregational church choir, will sing a few selections. Mrs. R. E. Griswold will be her accompanist.

Portland Japanese Student Achieves Authorship Fame

Once upon a time (as all good stories should begin) there was a little boy in Japan who refused to study his lessons. He was a merry little boy, and handsome—taller than most of his race, he grew to be. Instead of studying, he used to write and write. Stories he wrote, and poems. At last his mother and father conferred together and decided that Ken—for that was his name, should leave school, go to America, and earn money for another brother to attend art school.

Ken Nakazawa did come to America. He left school and earned enough money to put the artistical inclined brother through the Tokio school of fine arts. But he did not give up his beloved writing. He wrote in his own tongue, and

FROSH SCHEDULE CALLS FOR WORK

Sunshine Will Enable Men to Get Down to Practice During Next Two Weeks

ROUGH DIAMOND MADE

Infielders to Get Chance for Grounder Exercise and Faster Work-outs

Spring baseball practice for the freshman squad has been slow getting under way this year, because of the inclement weather and the lack of adequate training grounds. However, with Old Sol peeping out and with the weather warming up in true baseball fashion, the green-cappers will get down to hard work for the next couple of weeks in order to get in shape for the start of the season.

A very rough diamond has been constructed upon the R. O. T. C. drill ground, where the frosh squad can get in a little infield practice. This will give the infielders an opportunity to get accustomed to the old hard-hit ground balls. The rough field has prevented any infield practice and with the conjunction of the weather bureau has slowed up the work-outs.

Running Practice Held

With the temporary diamond in readiness, Coach Earl put his men through a little snappy practice in running bases last night. He also had them work on the play of getting a baserunner in the hotbox and then run him down. The frosh then tried to adapt themselves to the mysteries of the hook slide, and sent the sawdust flying in all directions in their efforts to hook the imaginary bag. This with a little bounding, hitting and fielding practice wound up the day's work-out.

It is a little too early yet to predict the probable strength of the freshman team. However, there were some twenty-five candidates out for the practice session last night. This is possibly not near as many as should be out at this stage of the season, but there are enough to whip into a fast little team, if they show any class at all.

Squad to be Reduced

Earl will probably keep the men hard at work mastering the fundamentals of the sport for the next few days and by that time will have enough of a line on the prospective material to begin cutting down his squad.

No regular schedule has been outlined for the freshman team as yet, but some hard games are being lined up for a little later in the season. The frosh will undoubtedly have their regular exchange series with the Rooks, and may take a trip to Portland to play some of the faster interscholastic nines there.

Y. W. GROUP WILL MEET FOR WEDNESDAY LUNCHEON

The first business meeting of the term for the Y. W. C. A. new cabinet will be held Wednesday noon at the College Side Inn. It is very important that all members of the group be there. Florenee Buck, president of the Y. W. C. A., is to outline the plans for the year and to line up the various departments of the association.
