

MISS SEAMEN IS GREAT TRAVELER

Y. W. C. A. Worker Visits China, India, Russia

IDEA OF PEACE RELATED

Lack of Foreign Students Found on Campus

Miss Josephine Seamen, of the Y. W. C. A. world service council, who is visiting Dean Virginia Judy Esterly, has done a great deal of traveling, along with her duties with the Y. W. C. A. She has made her home in China for the past 20 years. It was there she met Dean Esterly. During this time, she has traveled up the Yang-tse-Kiang river, to Hangchow, Peking, Shanghai and all other prominent places.

Miss Seamen has visited in India twice, each time making a circuit of the country from Bombay to Calcutta, up the Ganges river, then to Jaipur and back to Bombay. She has been in Siberia, Russia, and almost any other country one cares to mention is familiar to her through personal experience. But this is Miss Seamen's first visit to Oregon. Furthermore, she has never visited on the campus of a co-educational school for any length of time before.

Co-education Is Discussed

"There are some girls and boys whose contact in an intellectual way proves a common stimulus; on the other hand, there are some that are not of that temperament. Some not very steadily balanced girls would find a school strictly for girls to their best advantage during their studying days," said Miss Seamen.

"World peace is such a comic sounding phrase. I should like to substitute a 'common understanding' of people and their handicaps, and what they can exchange. There can be no world peace and I don't know that it is desirable. As long as a thing lives there is a struggle. If there were no conflict in this world, it would be as dead as the moon. The struggle impending does not deal with the physical slaughter method but rather that of the higher plane—the mind. Even when we attain the perfect cooperation we plan, we shall compete as to who shall be the more cooperative," she said.

She was particularly interested in the lack of a great number of foreign students on this campus as compared with those in the California schools. Her possible solution to this was that so many of the steamer lines end there.

"I think that the presence of Oriental students in a university is indispensable to common understanding. This tends to create a friendly attitude as only personal contact can. Otherwise, students meet those of a foreign country only through books. There is an open sesame between the youth of the countries and by this means only can there be a common understanding. I think that the future of both India and China lies in their young students, whether they study in America and return, or study in American schools in their own country," said Miss Seamen.

Viewpoint Is Optimistic

The forward attitude that is taken by so many that the conditions are getting worse is not sanctioned by Miss Seamen. It is her idea that the prevalent turmoil and unrest is due to the vision that all people have which arouses discontent and is merely proving a stimulus to this. "I believe that there is a spirit working in the hearts of men, awakening a desire to do God's will and pleasure without knowing exactly what they are doing," she said.

Miss Seamen is especially interested in Y. W. C. A. work and expends a great deal of time and energy as a volunteer worker.

J. DUNCAN SPAETH IS ON SUMMER FACULTY

Princeton Man Will Offer Popular Courses

Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, professor of English and rowing coach of Princeton university, is one of the faculty members of the Eugene summer session. During the time spent at previous summer sessions both here and in Portland he proved to be one of the most popular professors the summer session has ever had.

Dr. Spaeth is offering three courses—Makers of American Ideals, Northern Epics and Northern Epics Seminar. Makers of American Ideals is a study of some of the main aspects of America's cultural inheritance in the field of religion, morals, literature, and politics, and of the specific modification of this inheritance by leading Americans.

Among the prominent Americans to be studied and the ideals with which they are identified are: Benjamin Franklin and Jonathan Edwards, Common Sense and Puritan Conscience; Thomas Paine, Political Radicalism; Thomas Jefferson, Political Liberalism; Alexander Hamilton, Political Realism, the Frontier in American Life; Emerson, Hawthorne, Lowell, the New England Humanists; Abraham Lincoln, Human Equality and National Union; Walt Whitman, Democracy and Nationalism.

Northern Epics, a three hour course, deals primarily with epic legends and literature. Students wishing to register in the Northern Epics seminar must also enroll in Northern Epics. The hours for this course have not yet been arranged.

There can be no richer reward for those doing the work than to be able to tell their grandchildren what they did for the Student Union.

"We are planning all manner of entertainment for the campaign days," Farrell said. "There will be entertainment to enhance the morale of the students. This is to be a serious four-day period, which will have no place for frivolity except to relieve the danger of tedium in the hum-drum of the canvassing."

Hermians to Spend Weekend at New Club House

One-room Cabin Built on Bank of Willamette at Riverside

The Hermian club, an honorary physical education society for women, will spend the weekend at their new cabin at Riverside park.

The cabin, which has been leased from A. C. Dilly for the remainder of this school year and all of next, was just recently completed. The cabin has one room, which is 16x20 feet, and the grounds contain one-half acre. The land has all been fenced and a well has been constructed. As yet, there is no fireplace, but one will be built next year.

The club house is on the bank of the south fork of the Willamette river, and is surrounded by trees. "The place is ideal," said Harriet Howells. "because of the wonderful opportunity to enjoy swimming and rowing. Next year, we expect to have a diving board."

It is expected that 23 members will hike out to the cabin Saturday morning. Most of the girls will stay until Sunday.
