

FRESHMAN NINE WORKING HARD

Coach Specially Training in Hitting and Fielding

INFIELD SEEMS STRONG

First Game Will be May 3 With Washington High

With 25 candidates turning out daily the freshman baseball squad is beginning to take shape. Coach Earl has been putting the men through some hard workouts in order to whip them into shape and get a line on the prospective material. It is a little early yet to dope out just how the team will shape up, or who will be at the respective positions. However, with the men working as they are, Earl will probably start pruning down the squad in the next few days and picking those who will be carried on the first squad during the season.

The first game for the frosh crew as it has been arranged to date is scheduled with the Washington high school team of Portland, to be played here on May 3. This gives the green-cappers nearly three weeks to get in the pink for the opening contest. The second game is also to be played here on the home diamond against the Salem High nine, on May 16. The only other four games scheduled are the regular exchange series to be played with the O. A. C. Rooks.

Rooks Here May 24
The first game will be played at Corvallis on May 23. The Rooks come over here on the 24th in the return game. The Babes go to Corvallis again for the third game of the series on the 29th, while the final contest is played here on Saturday the 31st. Only six games are on the freshman schedule as it has been drawn up, however, all of the games are billeted with strong teams and the season should prove to be a hummer for the babes.

"Hank" Foster has been assisting Earl in coaching the first year men and the two have been instructing them in the rudiments of the game, stressing especially hitting and fielding. Some very capable sluggers are showing up among the candidates, and a hard-hitting nine is in prospect.

Fast Infield Expected
The infield as it is now composed, looks to be a fairly strong one. Rex Adolph seems to hold the edge over the other candidates for the job of holding down the initial bag. Christenson and Wrightman are the leading aspirants for second baseman honors. Shortstop lies between Kiminki and Miller. Both are covering a lot of ground and fielding their position well. Dallas has been used the most at third, and seems to handle himself in a capable manner around the hot corner.

There are a number of other men trying out for infield berths, who might break into the lineup. As far as can be told in an early season diagnosis, the frosh will have a fast, fair fielding infield with a consistent punch.

Catching Crew Good
The squad is especially well supplied with catchers. Three capable backstops have been used in practice during the past day or two. Lynn Jones is making a strong bid for the position, and is not only receiving well but is using the stick in a capable way as well. Mimmough who used to catch for Jefferson high, also stands in a fair way to do the backstop honors. The third member behind the bat is Marsh, who may also get a chance to work.

The hurlers are more or less of a doubtful quantity as yet. Four pitchers have been working out in the box, but none of them have been able to show anything to class them as college caliber. Kiminki, Dave Adolph, DeLassus and Strickland have shown the most stuff so far. Shulte, a promising twirler, was forced to leave school Monday because of the illness of his mother. It is not known yet whether he will return this quarter or not. He has twirled high school ball around San Francisco bay and has lots of speed and plenty of stuff. If he returns, he should bolster the staff considerably.

Tossers Showing Up Well
The outfield appears to be well taken care of with a number of fast players trying out for the outer gardens. "Pete" Brooks, Frank Reinhart, C. Johnson, Lee and Russell have been snagging the long drives in good shape in practice. All of them have good reputations as hitters in high school ball, and have been finding their batting eyes to good advantage in batting practice. Unless hard luck hits the frosh tossers, they should have a strong aggregation lined up to start the season, when they meet Washington high here May 3.

DYMENT TO ENTER SOUTHERN HOSPITAL

Disease Contracted from Refugee Children During War to Be Treated

Dean Colin V. Dymont, accompanied by Mrs. Dymont, will leave Eugene on Friday morning. He has written to a specialist in Berkeley California, that they will report at his office Monday morning. They expect to enter a convalescent hospital in Berkeley on Monday evening or Tuesday morning to receive treatment for amoebic infection.

Patients with the amoebic infection commonly remain in the hospital about three weeks. If they have not suffered too much in the treatment, they can leave the hospital, but active treatment continues for another three weeks. During this time, however, the patient having become immunized to the severe regime of the first three weeks, does not necessarily remain hospitalized.

There is a succeeding period of occasional treatments which varies with the extent of the infection. Thereafter comes a period of from four to ten weeks in which the toxemia caused by the massacre of innumerable amoebae is wearing off. The patient by that time has then been restored to his old time vigor.

The principal among several drugs used in elimination of the amoebic infection is emetine, a derivative of ipecac, although ipecac is also taken "straight."

Mrs. Dymont is believed to have contracted the infection from the thousands of refugee French children and in whom she treated medically, and in hundreds of cases operated on for tonsils and adenoids at her medical station in Blois, the famed "Bloey" of the American army during the recent war. These children in many instances had just come from areas back of the fighting lines where they probably became infected through the presence in those regions of many fighting divisions and labor battalions from the tropics of Asia and Africa.

Dean Dymont was present at military operations both in the Argonne and in Flanders in territory that had been frequented by colonial troops from the tropics with the result that both water and soil became affected.

Dr. W. K. Livingston of the University health service has returned after spending a week in the laboratories of Dr. C. A. Kofoid, the noted protozoologist of the University of California, in whose laboratories about six hundred examinations a month are made for the amoebic infection, the California state board of health cooperating somewhat in this work. Since Mr. Dymont returned with an account of Dr. Kofoid's researches in the field of pathogenic animal organisms several Northern physicians have decided to go to Dr. Kofoid for instruction in the diagnosis and identification of the amoeba.

The University of Oregon medical school may install a laboratory similar to the one maintained by Dr. Kofoid for public service in the Pacific Northwest. From his observations among ex-service men around San Francisco bay, Mr. Dymont believes the infection to be fairly common in Oregon, although it has been identified in comparatively few cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Dymont will motor south. They expect to return to Eugene by the end of July.

THIRTY GIRLS TO TAKE PART IN DANCE DRAMA

Selections by Orchestra Are Included in Program

Thirty girls are taking part in the Dance Drama which is to be presented in a joint program with the University of Oregon symphony orchestra next Wednesday evening at the Heilig theater. The program is divided into two parts, the orchestra selections forming the first group and the dancing with orchestra accompaniment the last.

The girls participating are Crete Gray, Deloris Pearson, Margaret Hughes, Mildred LeCompte, Adah Harkness, Harriet Howells, Maude Graham, Helen Newland, Nellie Rowland, Irene Buckley, Neva Service, Mildred Crain, Katherine Sartain, Dorothy Cushman, Gertrude Hill, May Agile Barr, Margaret Dovery, Bernice Lamb, Maurine Buchanan, Kay Bald, Margaret Stahl, Kate Lambert, LaVerne Spitzberger, Edith Lewis, Cecile Johnson, Elizabeth Pierce, Marian Smith, Alene Larimer, Doris Parker, and Dorothy McKee.

The half of the program devoted to the dancing is divided into two groups, the Wedgewood China and the Cycle of Hours. In the first, nine girls dressed in white, representing figures in a frieze, are placed on a blue background, and slowly come to life. The dance is performed by small groups, who again assume their original positions as the music fades away.

"The Cycle of the Hours" traces the hours through the day, dainty figures representing all the characters from early dawn to the twilight time. Senior majors in the physical education department in the class of theory of dancing are taking charge of the management of the program. The committees are: program, Cecile Johnson; lighting, Irene Perkins; Harriet Howells; staging, Pearl Pyritz and Margaret Mylne; costuming, Mildred LeCompte, Theresa Robinsonette and Dorothy McKee; properties, Adah Harkness and Harriet Veazie.

LIEUT. C. W. WOODWARD REVIEWS R. O. T. C.

Colonel Sinclair's Plans Are Favored by Officer

After an inspection of the class work and drill of the local R. O. T. C. unit and a review of Colonel Sinclair's plans for next year, Lieutenant Clare W. Woodward, assistant to Major Jordan, R. O. T. C. officer for the Ninth corps area, departed yesterday afternoon for Corvallis where he will join officers of the distinguished rating board who have been inspecting the R. O. T. C. units at O. A. C. The next institution to be inspected is the University of Washington.

Lieutenant Woodward declares that prospects are bright for a large enrollment in the advanced course at Oregon next year and expressed his approval of Colonel Sinclair's plans for next year.

"There are some things the Colonel wants in order to advance the work of the military department. These things are needed, and I hope he will get them," said Lieutenant Woodward.

No formal review was held for the benefit of the inspecting officer. Regular class and drill work proceeded as though he were not there.

Captain Card of the motor transport division of the R. O. T. C. at O. A. C. was a visitor on the campus yesterday and was accompanied by Lieutenant Woodward on his return to Corvallis.

REX

Allan Dwan's newest comedy drama, "A Broken Doll," which comes to the Rex theater today only, is replete with thrills and attractive bits of excitement. The action takes place in one night and particularly beautiful night effects of rain storm carry out the mood of the story.

Monte Blue, who plays the leading role in "A Broken Doll," was brought up on a ranch and is exceedingly fond of horses. In the picture he has numerous scenes with an aged crowd of long, lean visage, cross-browed protruding ribs and a shaky gait. Monte insisted upon having a special comfortable cart made for the animal in which it was hauled each day to location, looking, Monte said, much like Madame Du Barry being hauled to the guillotine. When the picture was finished the horse was sent to nice green pastures at Monte's expense, to be kept there for the rest of his days.

SIXTEEN T. N. E.S DEPOSED FROM OFFICES AT ILLINOIS

University of Illinois—Sixteen active members of Theta Nu Epsilon, at the University of Illinois, were recently deposed from all campus offices and barred from participation in most of the school activities. Among the men disqualified are the president of the student council and the captain of the tennis team.

WOMEN'S LIFE-SAVING WORK BEGINS APRIL 25

Tests May be Given by Man From San Francisco

Women's life-saving classes will start Friday, April 25, and will meet every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock for two weeks, when an examination will be given. Registration is now open and all may enter the classes.

There are certain requirements which must be passed before the examinations. Those who cannot do them now may enter the class and practice in order to pass them off before the test takes place.

Girls must attend six lessons in order to take the examination; must be able to swim 20 lengths of the pool free style; must do a straight front or racing front dive in good form; do a surface dive in six feet of water and recover an object.

Barbara Page, instructor in swimming, is making an attempt to get a Red Cross life-saving man from headquarters in San Francisco to give the tests. Members of the class will be passed into life-saving corps, but some may also qualify to become examiners.

CAMPUS WOODWORK TO BE RETOUCHED BY PAINTERS

Due to the inferior oils in the paint applied to the Household Arts building last year, the lower part of the building is having to be scraped and re-painted. The campus painters will soon begin work retouching the window frames in the paint applied to the Household Arts building, Hendricks hall, and some of the walls in the Household Arts building, according to H. M. Fisher, superintendent of the campus buildings and grounds.

STUDENTS WHO WILL APPEAR IN DANCE DRAMA ON APRIL 23

WALTER EVANS KIDD SELLS SHORT STORY

A short story, "The Canyon of Storms," has been sold by Walter Evans Kidd, sophomore in journalism, to Street and Smith, publishers of a number of current magazines. Kidd has likewise placed a poem, "A Message," with Lyric West, a journal of poetry, and "Silver Slippers" with American Poetry.

His career on the campus has been marked by a series of sales of his writings. When a freshman last year he won the second prize of $10 in the Edison Marshall short story contest and this year won a national competition for poetry, the Wartner prize of $75. His poetry was recently featured in the poetry section of Old Oregon. He is a member of Ye Tabard Inn of Sigma Upsilon, national writer's fraternity, and of Sigma Pi Tau.
