

AUTHORS TO BE CAMPUS GUESTS

Oregon Writers to Meet Literary Students

NOTED MEN TO ATTEND

Honorary Societies to be Hosts to Visitors

The second annual conference of Oregon authors is to be held this year at the University of Oregon, Saturday, May 3. This will be an assembly of the most noted men and women writers of the state, as well as several visitors from Washington and California.

"The purpose of the authors' convention is to give the young writers of the University a chance to meet those who have already actually won their spurs," said Prof. W. F. G. Thacher, who is chairman of the conference.

Noted Writers Coming
Those writers who have already signified their intention of coming are: Edison Marshall, who is now writing for the Hearst corporation; Charles Alexander, writer for the Sunset magazine, Blue Book, etc; Victor Shawe, Saturday Evening Post author; Anthony Euwer, poet and illustrator; George O'Neal, literary editor of the Oregon Journal; Richard V. Haller, of the Oregonian book department; Albert Wetjen, writer for Sunset, Collier's and the Saturday Evening Post; Charles H. Carey, president of the Oregon Writers' league; Robert Ormand Case, Blue Book and Western Stories writer; Donegan Wiggins, contributor to Outdoor Life; Frank Richardson Pierce and Kenneth Gilbert, writers from Washington; Alexander Hull, successful fictionist; and Col. Hofer, editor of the Lariat.

Modernism Is Subject
While on the campus, the authors will be the guests of the literary fraternities and an elaborate program is being drawn up for their entertainment. Saturday morning will probably be spent looking over the campus and meeting members of the faculty. At noon there is to be a lunch for the visitors, the hosts being Pot and Quill, Ye Tabard Inn, Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi.

In the afternoon, a number of addresses or papers on the various aspects of "Modernism," in contemporary literature, will be given in the Guild theater. A banquet is scheduled in the evening at Hendricks hall with Pot and Quill and Theta Sigma Phi as hosts. Short speeches will be solicited from the visitors, after which the Junior Varsity will take place. To wind up the conference, a smoker for the men will be held at 11 o'clock, Ye Tabard Inn being the hosts.

The committee in charge of the entertainment of the literary visitors is, W. F. G. Thacher, chairman; Grace Edgington, Julia Burgess, Ralph D. Casey, C. D. Thorpe and Alfred Powers.

SIDELIGHTS

In four years this would amount to $300. The difference between $300 and $100 is $200. This is how much the individual saves under the present plan.

Not only that, but instead of having to pay this sum when he is least able, the student can wait until he is out of the University and is earning money.

"We freshmen girls realize that $28,000 is quite a quota," said Esther Setters yesterday. "But we are just getting started—watch us tomorrow."

Tomorrow is now here and all freshmen women who forgot to pledge yesterday are watching. Also the rest of the student body.

Students who have only themselves to care for have it easy. One man who has a wife at home and three children in grammar school was only too glad to sign the pledge.

"We are building a Student Union right now," declared Haddon Rockey. "The students on the campus are becoming united as they never were before."

Team members sometimes have considerable trouble finding the students assigned to them.

"Now where in the world is Motor Route B?" marveled one team member yesterday.

In view of the fact that it was a motor route, he supposed he would have to have a Packard eight, or at least a Flivver, to get there.

Mary Clerin had the most varied report of any made at the luncheon yesterday.

Her team had 49 to interview. Out of these, seven had withdrawn from the University. Three were out of town, one was in the infirmary, and one couldn't make up his mind to sign on the dotted line.

MAGAZINE PUBLISHED BY LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The president's office recently received a magazine published by the League of Nations, at Geneva. This is the first time that this magazine has been published.

The name of it is "Bulletin of the International University Information Office," and it is in charge of the committee on intellectual cooperation of the League of Nations.

The magazine is published quarterly in January, April, July, and October. It is priced at two Swiss francs or 40 cents the copy, or 8 Swiss francs or $1.60 for an annual subscription. It is published in separate editions in English and French.

The special sphere of the bulletin is that of international university activity, that is, the interchanging of professors, and students, of books and of ideas between universities of various countries.
