

GIFTS ARE SENT TO ART SCHOOL

Bernard Maybeck, Designer,
Presents Drawings

WORKS ARE VALUABLE

S. Doi, Japanese, Donates
Four Famous Prints

Recent gifts to the school of architecture and allied arts include drawings and prints.

Four original architectural studies have been presented by Bernard Maybeck, designer of the palace of fine arts at the Panama-Pacific exposition, to the school of architecture and allied arts. Mr. Maybeck is especially interested in the school and acted on the architectural jury last year.

"They are very valuable in showing methods," said Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school, in speaking of the drawings.

Japanese Prints Sent
S. Doi, a Japanese who was on the campus earlier in the year selling the University some prints, wrote from Tokyo, where he has since gone, speaking of the temporary wood construction in that city since the great earthquake. He sent the University a gift of reprints of famous Japanese prints with his compliments.

Further additions to the collection of art objects replacing the one destroyed by fire are being made by Mrs. Lucy Dodd Ramberg, Portland portrait painter, while on her trip abroad.

Textiles to Come in June
Mrs. Ramberg was given $150 out of the Gerlinger art fund to buy antique textiles and ceramics. She has now been gone several weeks, visiting Egypt, the Holy Land, Morocco, and Italy. She plans to stay somewhat longer in Florence, according to Dean Lawrence, and stop in Paris on her return. She will return with the textiles sometime in June.

Judging from the crowd around the Student Union headquarters, some of the students must have thought it was the Union itself.

Different persons have different ideas as to what a Student Union really means.

"Shux," said one freshman. We want this Student Union to be a permanent affair.

SEABECK CONFERENCE WOMEN PLAN PICNIC

College Girls Wishing to be Delegates Invited

All University women interested in going to the Seabeck conference, as well as those who are planning to go this year, are invited to a picnic, Tuesday evening at Coburg bridge, at 5:15 o'clock.

Cars will leave the Y. W. C. A. bungalow at 5 o'clock. Those who plan to attend the picnic should leave their names with Miss Florence Magowan at the bungalow before Tuesday. There will be a charge of 10 cents.

Each year Oregon has been represented by a large delegation at the summer camp, which is held at Seabeck, Washington. Young Women's Christian associations from all colleges and universities of the Northwest are participants in the Seabeck conference.

Discussion groups, lectures by prominent American Christian leaders, and all forms of recreation and sports are the events on the program of the annual conference. The University delegation has won the cup for the best songs for two consecutive years.

RUTH STONE, '13, TELLS OF SETTLEMENT WORK

"Impressions of New York" would be a fitting title for the letter sent to the alumni office from Ruth H. Stone, '13, who is attending the school of sociology of Columbia university. Miss Stone, who is living at 237 East 104th street, New York City, has written humorously of New York customs in subways, where she has become hardened to the scramble for seats.

Perhaps the most interesting portion of her letter is the mention of settlement life, where students take their "laboratory" work. Miss Stone says:

"Can you imagine a place so crowded that three thousand children live in the area of a city block? Union settlement is in such a neighborhood.

About ten thousand children, I understand, use the settlement at some time in some capacity during the year."

In describing the crowded city, she says: "Schools are only two or three blocks apart. The high schools, which are fewer and farther apart, of course, are named; but the grade schools are numbered. 'What school do you go to?' one asks a youngster of ten. 'P. S. 125,' he answers, meaning 'public school number 125.'"

Miss Stone speaks with praise of "Old Oregon," calling it a comfort to far away ex-Oregonians. She asked the names of Oregon students now in New York, so that she could meet them.

SIGMA XI APRIL MEET TO BE THIS WEEKEND

The April meeting of Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity, scheduled to be held at Portland last weekend, but postponed, will take place this weekend. "This will be one of the most important gatherings of the year," said Harry B. Yocom, secretary of the organization. "This is the meeting at which members are elected. We are hoping to have as many campus members of the organization as possible make the trip."

Benjamin Horning of the zoology department will speak on "The Effect of Thyroid Feeding on the Structure and Color of the Feathers of the Domestic Fowl." Professor Horning has been doing research work along this line for several months.
