

VARSITY FACES: HARD SCHEDULE

Idaho Vandals and Cougar Nine Will be Opposition in Four-day Ball Series

OUTFIELD SHIFTS MADE

Bittner May be Changed to Center, With Troutman Taking Position at Short

The varsity ball tossers have plenty of work scheduled for them this week. Four tough games in a row are on the boards for Reinhart's nine during the next few days.

Coach Mathews' Idaho Vandals and the Washington State Cougars are the opposition that the Lemon Yellow bat wielders will endeavor to overcome during the four-day session. The Vandals will be seen in a two-game series, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday, W. S. C. will battle the varsity, two games that should prove a worthy attraction to the Junior week-end program. All of the contests will be staged on the Cemetery ridge sand lot.

Idaho Proves Strength
Both the Vandals and the Cougars are reputed to have strong nines this year, and the games will no doubt be hard-fought affairs. Idaho, in particular demonstrated that she will be in the conference race when the Vandals broke even with Washington in a two-game series last weekend, losing the first game by a two-run margin. Previous to that, Idaho and W. S. C. broke even in two games against each other. The Cougars were shut out by Borleske's Whitman nine last Friday, but came back and won the second game, Saturday. Comparing these games with the varsity's showing against Whitman and Washington indicates that Reinhart's men should be at least an even match for both of the visiting contingents this week.

In spite of the disastrous outcome of the two recent games with the Aggies, the varsity is still a contender for conference honors. The forthcoming contests will determine in a large measure Oregon's future standing in the Northwest college circuit. The Lemon-Yellow has already dropped three games, but, on the other hand, every other nine in the conference has lost at least two games, except the Aggies. Coleman's crew have suffered but one defeat, that by the Huskies. If Coach Reinhart can bolster up his defense during the next week or so, the varsity will give any of the nines a good run for their money.

Pitching Staff Weak
Oregon stood a mighty good chance of beating the Aggies in the second game if her fielding had been up to the standard put up by their opponents. The varsity stickers smashed out 11 hits, only two less, than the victorious Beavers, and would have had more if the Aggie fielders had not performed in big league fashion at times. On the other hand, the Lemon-Yellow defense cracked badly when good support was necessary. As far as pitching goes, the varsity is not blessed with any phenoms this year, but Sausser, Pil, Latham, and Williams have been hurling fair ball so far, fair enough to rate more victories considering the hitting the team has been doing.

The outfield in particular has been causing Coach Reinhart a good deal of worry. None of the gardeners have been playing up to their past standard, and Reinhart has tried out several combinations in an effort to get a strong fly-chasing crew. In last night's practice, Bittner was shifted from shortstop to center field, Sorsby moved to left, and Terril placed in right. This appears to be the best combination yet tried, as Bittner has a mighty strong arm and is usually death on fly balls. Sorsby and Terril are both nifty fielders, but are short on throwing arms.

Short Is Problem
In case Bittner remains in the outfield, there is a big hole to fill

Twenty Prizes Given For Forensics Work

Twenty students of the University of Oregon received awards this year for work in forensics, eight men and eight women in debate, three men in oratory, and the forensic manager. Members of the men's varsity debate team who were awarded letters are: Walter Malcom, Joe Fraser, Marion Dickey, Ralph Bailey, Ernest Henriksen, Martin Moore, Herschel Brown and Glenwood Archer. The women who debated for the University this year and who have consequently won their debate O's are: Dorothy Abbott, Mildred Bateman, Margaret Woodson, Mildred Whitcomb, Lurline Coulter, Mary Raker, Marjorie Brown and Helen Louise Crosby.

In oratory, Ephraim D. Conway, who represented the University of Oregon in the Old-line oratorical contest, and Ted Baker, who was Oregon's contestant in the Peace conference, have won letters, and Claude Robinson, varsity debater of one year's experience, will receive his award by representing the University in the Tri-state oratorical contest on May 22.

Elam Amstutz has won his letter through his work as forensic manager this year.

Of the varsity debaters among the men, Bailey stands out as a three year man on the team and one who will win a shield, one of the highest honors a man can receive in forensics, and the result of service for three years in one special activity. Ernest Henriksen, who has been on the team for two years, represented the University in oratory in his freshman year. Marion Dickey had experience at Reed college before coming to Oregon.

Lurline Coulter, among the women, has debated in the varsity team for

Recent Print Purchases to be on Exhibition, Starting Today

An exhibition of the recent print purchases for the school of architecture and allied arts is to be seen beginning today in the gallery in the Arts building, and will remain on the walls until May 24. The collection was made possible by the Gerlinger art fund, which Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, member of the board of regents, made by lectures in Portland following the fire that destroyed the old art building.

Eighteen productions of etchings and drawings by Frank Brangwyn, greatest English mural painter of the century, have been hung. Reproductions of William Walton's "Roman Compositions" will be of interest not only to students of art, but of history as well. They are not the fantastic dreams which they at

ALUMNI TO HEAR RADIO PROGRAM

Message Sent from K G W Will Arouse Enthusiasm in Oregon Gift Campaign

QUARTET OFFERS MUSIC

The greater portion of the University of Oregon alumni will experience a May homecoming when they listen in on a University of Oregon radio program, to be broadcast Thursday night from station K G W (Portland Oregonian) in the interests of the alumni endowment campaign. Several campus speakers and musicians are scheduled to help focus the attention of the alumni on the now imminent alumni drive.

This radio program, which has been made known to all alumni through mail notices, is the appetizer, as it were, for the numerous alumni banquets the next evening, Friday, May 9, marking the inception of the drive among alumni for their $1,000,000 quota.

Campaign to be Explained

The various phases of the campaign will be made clear by well known speakers. Rev. W. S. Gilbert, a member of the Gift Campaign committee, was a well-known chaplain, holding the rank of major, in the recent war, and is well qualified to present the case for the proposed Memorial court, one of the alumni aims. President Campbell or some representative will explain the reasons for the Gift Campaign.

Students Furnish Music

Music will be provided by University students. A quartet composed of Aubrey Furry, Henry Karpenstein, Roy Bryson and Richard Adams are to furnish the greater share of the music. Frances Pierce will play a piano solo, and Furry and Bryson will each contribute vocal solos. The quartet will also sing at the Portland Alumni banquet on Friday, when 800 people are expected to attend the campaign send-off in Multnomah hotel.

DEAN HALE RETURNS FROM LECTURE TOUR

William G. Hale, dean of the school of law, has just returned from an eastern Oregon trip, where he has been lecturing on problems of higher education. In Hood River he spoke before the Tuesday Luncheon club, an organization similar to commercial clubs, and in The Dalles a talk was given before the Kiwanis club members.

The latter part of the week, when the other representatives of the University leave to speak at endowment dinners, Dean Hale will again resume his work of lecturing over the state. He is tentatively scheduled to attend a meeting in Seattle soon.

first seem, but are a real portrayal of buildings, based on "a solid and profound knowledge of architecture," and give a study of ancient Roman life at its height. Temples and arenas, multitudes watching death in many forms, and the pageantry of a dead civilization is depicted. A dozen of these are on display, though the school owns others which have not been hung.

Prints, etchings, wood engravings, wood cuts, wood blocks, aquatints, colored etchings, colored lithographs, a few fine old Japanese prints—these give variety to the exhibition, and offer a background for student work.

"Our aim in getting the collection together," said Miss Maude Kerns,

LIGHTS SECURED FOR CANOE FETE

System of Footlights and Spots Gives Each Group Choice of Color Scheme

MUSIC TO BE FEATURE

Committee Requests That Race be Clear of Debris in Demolishing Floats

Due to the fact that the canoe fete committee for Junior week-end has secured two theater spotlights, each house may have the choice of the color to be flashed upon its float. The magic lantern style of lighting, which has been employed during previous canoe fetes, did not give the float its full color effect. This year a system of footlights and the two large spots have been secured so that the best possible effect may be given.

In order to take advantage of this, it is absolutely essential that all houses turn in to Rupert Bullivant or to Hesden Metcalf, the color desired for their float by Thursday night of this week. Metcalf may be reached by calling 721.

Ticket Sale This Week

Tickets for the fete will be sold all this week at the Co-op store and at Kuykendall's, down town. Bert Gooding is in charge of the ticket sale. Tickets are being sold at 25 cents general admission, and 50 cents for reserved seats. A block of reserved seats will be marked off, but extra bleachers will be provided so that there will be ample room for all.

"All houses must have their floats in the water and ready to start by 8:30 sharp on Friday night," declares Hesden Metcalf. Numbers for the floats will be given out by Bullivant this week. It is absolutely necessary, in order to enter the fete, that the canoe be ready on time, the committee heads state.

It is requested that all houses, in demolishing the floats after the canoe fete, keep the race clear of rubbish. The materials should be carried away and destroyed, because in floating downstream they become entangled in the mill wheels and choke them.

Musical Feature Arranged

"Greater effort is being put forth for a successful canoe fete this year than ever before, and more money is being spent on lighting effects," Metcalf states. A musical feature has been arranged to take place before and during the carnival. One of the popular campus orchestras will be stationed on a float across the race from the bleachers and is scheduled to play for an hour and a half preceding the fete and at intervals between floats.

Programs are being printed, bearing the list of floats and houses who prepare them. These will be given out the night of the canoe fete, Friday, May 9.

Friday, May 9, to be Holiday For University

Friday, May 9, will be a holiday for the entire University, it was announced by the president's office. This is University day, a part of Junior Week-end, and is a holiday that has come down from years back.

University day, said Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell, was formerly a time of bitter class rivalry and fights—a time when the students used to tear up the campus. This idea was changed to the opposite phase, to that of constructive work around the campus.

On former University days, walks have been made, the campus cleaned up and other work accomplished. At one time when the University was not very prosperous the students used to paint some of the buildings. Lately the University has been able to have all campus clean-up work done without the aid of the students and the day has become one of a University get-together.

Candidates Announce Platforms for Election

(Editor's Note—Space was offered by the Emerald to candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency for the purpose of allowing statements of platforms. Candidates were instructed to sign their communications and to keep them under a 250-word limit.)

FOR PRESIDENT

As long as the present students can remember, there has not been democracy and equal opportunity in the student administration. Despite the high qualifications that many student body presidents have had, they have been so handicapped by political machines, pre-election promises, and secret political alliances, that they were not free to pursue a course of action which they might have better followed.

Because I am opposed to such cut and dried tactics, I am a candidate who has not entered into any agreement for exchanging votes or any political alliances, nor will I do so; and if elected, the only promises I will make are in this public platform; and because of an entire absence of secret negotiations, I will be absolutely free to carry out this platform, and pledge myself to work to the end that the University of Oregon may soon have a student body of men and women rather than organizations founded upon principles of equal representation. If elected, I will abide by the following points:

1. To promote to the fullest extent the University Gift Campaign.
2. To work to restore Oregon's former athletic prestige.
3. To maintain a fair-minded attitude on all questions and to encourage suggestions from all students in matters of student administration.
4. To utilize to the fullest extent the abilities of worthwhile students, regardless of his or her affiliations.
5. To keep students constantly informed concerning the working out of their problems on the part of the administration.

RANDALL S. JONES.

1. If elected, I will do all in my power to handle the problems of administration justly and fairly with a firm determination to disregard the influence of cliques or other factions.

2. I will endeavor to represent all of the student body in its relations with the faculty, the administration and other universities and to work fairly for the rights of the student body and for a greater Oregon.

3. I will put forth every effort to uphold Oregon traditions and the "hello" spirit in the face of growing campus numbers.

4. I will strive to promote forensics, music, and other legitimate activities.

5. I will do everything in my power to make Oregon victorious on the athletic field.

CLYDE ZOLLARS.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

I am fully aware of the duties and work connected with the office of vice-president of the A. S. U. O. and I am prepared to devote all of my time and energy to the discharge of these duties, if elected.

MILTON G. BROWN.

If I am elected to the vice-presidency of the A. S. U. O., I will do all in my power to have Oregon first in anything which I honestly believe will make it a greater Oregon. Endorse the Gift Campaign. Favor intra-mural competition in basketball, baseball, and track, and place varsity athletics on a higher relative plane.

RUSSELL GOWANS.

Having entered the University of Oregon with the expectation of making her my Alma Mater, my sincerest and truest desire is for those things which tend toward the greater and mightier Oregon.

Realizing that she is now in the greatest period of transition in her history, I fully appreciate the responsibility that devolves on those who are given the power to guide her destiny through the difficult years that accompany such a change, in order that while the fullest ideals of greater Oregon may be realized, the important

POLITICAL GAME PLAYED QUIETLY

Unwonted Calm Noted, But Leaders Expect Things to be Livelier Today

CARTER GETTING READY

Election Details in Hands of Vice-president; Some Managers Busy in Dark

By Arthur S. Budd

These are restless days for campus candidates. It's hard lines to figure out just how much to appear on the capus or just how much cordiality to put into one's "hello." It's hard lines, too, to sit up until two o'clock while some young campaign manager reels off the list of one's opponents.

Yes, it's hard lines, all right; but it'll all be over Wednesday night. Then look what the successful ones will get—a chance to serve old Oregon by attending a few dozen meetings a week. Mayhap they will get a chance at a good coaching situation row, and at least their pictures will go in the Oregana and perhaps the Portland papers as being "campus leaders."

Lull Follows Nominations

When their year's over, they will all be pretty sure they had the chance to serve, but they will all swear that they "wouldn't do it again on a bet." At least that's what some who have been through the mill predict.

But that's getting into the future, and right now elections are the correct theme. The campus saw quite a political flare last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Then things quieted down—"the lull before the storm," declare political enthusiasts—but we are a little inclined to say that there is not enough real interest in the election to keep interest at high pitch for any length of time.

Today will probably see a revival of interest, and tonight many lights will shine from behind drawn window shades, where amateur "politicians" will be in progress.

Carter Chooses Board

Frank Carter, vice-president of the student body, is in charge of printing the ballots and of choosing the election board. His announcement says that the polls will open Wednesday morning at 9 and will close at 3 in the afternoon. A large group of upperclassmen will handle the balloting and if the vote is as heavy as last year the final count will probably not be announced until midnight or after.

It looks as if there are going to be a number of races that will have to wait for the final count before they are decided. We wouldn't bet a nickel on the vice-presidential race or on the run for secretaryship. These two races, in addition to the battle for the presidency and the Oregana contest, are consuming most of the student interest. Council position contests are not rating even their usual gallery.

Campaign Managers Busy

We have to smile a little at some of the self-appointed campaign managers. Even the council candidates have them, and they are a lot more concerned about the election than are the candidates themselves. People who earlier in the month they would have characterized as "good Joes" they malign quite freely. To hear them talk, one would think that the Oregon campus is a nest of corruption.

It has always been a source of wonder to this writer why open political discussion has always been banned. Students who have a friend in the race seem to think it would be a breach of morals to come out openly and squarely in his favor. Instead there is much whispering and plenty of the attitude of, "Well, now we can talk—we are all among friends." Such an attitude necessarily creates an unsavory situation. Even legitimate discussions are labelled "dirty politics" by the political enemies of those who do the talking.

Perhaps in years to come the campus will stage its political campaign.

Heads of Sports to Be Nominated at Meeting Today

Nominations for heads of sports for next year will be made at the mass meeting of W. A. A., to be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock, in Villard hall. The officers of the organization were elected earlier than usual this year to enable the new president to attend the conference in Berkeley in April.

Reports of this convention will be made at the meeting of the two Oregon delegates, Dorothy McKee, active president, and Maude Schroeder, next year's executive. The main points brought up at the national meeting will be summarized today.

The tentative program of the annual Field Day, to be held on June 7, will be outlined. At this time, many different sports are represented in class contests.

MEETING OF EMERALD STAFF CALLED TODAY

Term Awards and Prizes Will be Discussed

There will be a meeting of all members of the Emerald staff this afternoon in Editorial hall of the Journalism building at 5:00 o'clock.

Announcements will be made concerning the awarding of Emerald "O's," a limited number of which are given to workers on the daily faithful effort. These emblems are in gold and are awarded by the student body as are letters won in athletics.

The list of cash prizes to be given staff members for excellent work in certain lines on the Emerald will be announced, also. The prizes total $85.00 each term, and are divided into amounts of $15.00, $10.00 and $5.00. Winners will be chosen before the annual Emerald banquet which will be held Thursday, May 29. The prizes and emblems will be presented at that time.

A short round-table discussion on problems relative to publication of the daily will be held by day editors and night editors, and requirements for stories for use in the Sunday Emerald will be given by the Sunday editor.

Students to Vote on 3 Amendments for Constitution

To Amend Article IX, Elections, Section 1, to Read: Officers elected. The president, vice-president, and secretary of the student body, the student elected members of the executive council, editors of the publications, with the exception of Lemon Punch, the elected members of the student council, and the yell leader, shall be nominated on a date set by the student council, not earlier than eight weeks, not later than five weeks, prior to the close of the school year, shall be elected by ballot six days after the nomination, and shall hold office as hereinafter provided.

To Amend Article IX, Section IV, to Read: The officers of this association shall assume the duties of their various offices two weeks after elections at the last regular meeting of the A. S. U. O.

To Amend Article XI, Section I, to Read: The regular meetings of the Associated Students shall be held on the first Thursday in October, December, March; the last two meetings shall be held on dates as provided in Article IX, Sections 1 and 4.

BOTANY SOCIETY ELECTS TWO TO MEMBERSHIP

Samara, a society for botany and bacteriology majors, has elected Frances Rose of Portland, Oregon, and Alice Mortensen of Springfield, Oregon, to membership.
