TUG OF WAR PLANNED

Green Caps to be Burned in Afternoon; Luncheon to be at 12 for Everyone

Friday of Junior Week-end, which is being held as a holiday by the University, will see the old, traditional campus day with the green topped class in the spotlight.

At 9 in the morning, the freshman football squad will meet in front of the library. Here they are to be supplied with buckets of yellow paint and brushes, and the lettermen will escort them up Skinner's butte where they will deck the "O" in brilliant lemon shades.

Tug of War to be Fair

The hour of 10:30 will see the traditional freshman-sophomore tug of war, across the millrace. The event will take place at the usual spot, below the bridge. Each class will be represented by 12 men.

"The tug of war will be conducted on the basis of fairness to both sides," says Ed Tapfer, Junior Week-end head. "No men will be allowed to join in the pulling on either the freshman or sophomore sides, and there will be no tying of the rope to telephone poles or machines. It will be absolutely square."

After the tug of war, the frosh will parade to Kincaid field where the bonfire will be blazing and the green caps will be burned. Claude Robinson will speak as the green burns.

Luncheon at Twelve

The campus luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock. The following list of girls and men are to help with the serving, the girls to serve the plates and the men to help serve ice cream and carry the food from the hall to the open space in front of Deady, where the tables will be spread.

Naked Truth Brings Victory To Campus Political Genius

By Leon Byrne

When rescued by a reporter from a widely clamoring throng of admirers last night in order that a statement might be obtained from him for publication, Ed Miller, the "Fearless Statesman," whose whirlwind campaign of "truth" overwhelmed the campus and carried him upon a triumphant wave of notoriety into the office of senior man on the student council, struck his characteristic campaign pose—feet at right angles, right hand in the bosom of his vest—removed his campaign mouthful of cut plug, pushed his plug hat back on his head and said, "Truth did it."

Known to his friends as "Bashful Eddie," Edward Miller does not im-

OREGANA TO BE READY BY MAY 16 IS REPORT

Book Result of Hard Work, Says Freda Goodrich

Copies of the Oregana, student year book, will be ready for distribution about May 16, says Freda Goodrich, editor.

The book is coming out on contract time in spite of the fact that it is usually ready by Junior Week-end. The reason for the later date this year is that the festivities usually come later in the month and from the standpoint of time consumed, the year book will be out on the traditional date for its appearance, about the middle of May.

Fifteen hundred copies have been printed and almost every one is already sold. According to present plans, distribution will be made from the Co-op. Those who signed up for books were required to pay a $2.50 deposit during the winter term. They will have to pay the remaining $2.00 on the total price of $4.50 before delivery.

This year's Oregana will contain 494 pages, 30 more than last year. Thirty persons, including the business staff, have been working on the book. This is the largest staff ever organized in putting it out. The workers are planning to hold a celebration as soon as their labor is over.

"We realize that the book is not perfect," said Miss Goodrich, "but it represents a year of hard work on the part of the staff. We have done our best and we hope the Oregana will measure up to the expectations of the students."

Tournament Will be Held at Salem, Saturday

With the tennis season under full sway, the Oregon squad will meet Willamette university in a tournament at Salem on Saturday.

The varsity team will be made up of McBride, Rice, and Meyer. McBride and Rice will make up the doubles team. The tournament will consist of three sets of singles and one set of doubles, with the possibilities of a tie score in the tournament quite probable.

Last weekend, or on the opening of the varsity tennis schedule, the Oregon net men, got off to a poor start, but these initial contests have strengthened the squad considerably in experience.

From advance reports, the Willamette university is accredited with having a fairly dangerous combination of court artists. This match will prepare the varsity for one of their most important tournaments, when they meet the O. A. C. net men on May 17.

EXTRA INNING GAME IS LOST

Vandal Baseball Artists Win in Twelfth Frame Stiver's Run Breaks Tie

SCORE IS SIX TO FIVE

Hobson's Homer Ties Count in Ninth; Ringle and Pil Do Good Work in Box

Idaho and the varsity nines battled until the stars came out last night, and darkness was about to put an end to a hard-fought game when "Skippy" Stivers, Vandal shortstop, drove a home-run drive over King's head in centerfield, which enabled Idaho to walk off the winner in the twelfth inning. Stiver's clout broke up a 5-5 tie and made the final count 6-5 for the visitors.

It was a disappointing finish for varsity supporters as the Lemon-Yellow tossers had come from behind in the ninth inning and were going great guns when Stivers put an end to hopes of victory.

Idaho Gets Lead

With Oregon two runs behind and two out in the ninth frame, Howard Hobson turned the game into extra innings by smashing out a home-run which drove Ringle in ahead of him and tied the score. After that Reinhart's tossers tried hard to shove over a win, but excellent fielding by the Vandals prevented them.

Up to the ninth canto the contest was Idaho's all the way. Ringle on the mound for the varsity pitched good ball, but, aided by varsity errors, the Vandals managed to get to him for four runs during the first seven innings. Wick's single, followed by Bittner's error, gave them the first counter of the game in the opening inning. A base on balls to Kennison, followed by Lawson's sacrifice, and Campbell's single, gave them another in the second. They ran it up to four in the sixth on Cameron's triple, Kennison's single and errors by Sorsby and Latham.

Varsity Scores in Seventh

Up to the seventh frame, the varsity were able to connect for only two hits and were held scoreless. But in the traditional "lucky" inning, the Lemon-Yellow stickers came to life and nearly tied the count. A single by Terril, Bittner's three-bagger, brought in the first varsity run, and Ringle drove out another single which scored Terril, and which Cameron, the Vandal gardener, kicked around long enough for Ringle to reach third. Ross then came to the fore with a single which scored Ringle and Oregon was one behind.

Ringle presented the visitors with a run in the eighth when he made a wild throw to first and followed with a wild pitch which eventually enabled the runner to score. No further scoring until the ninth, when Hobson came through with his Babe Ruth blow, tying the score.

Pil's Work Good

Coach Reinhart took Ringle off the mound in the tenth after Fitzke had slammed him for a double. Pil, who relieved him, pitched good ball and kept the bases clean until Stiver's blow in the twelfth.

The game would never have gone into extra innings but for some loose work in fielding by both teams. Oregon earned four of her runs and the visitors but two. At that, there was some nifty fielding in spots. Terril staved off a cer-

RUTH AKERS WINS OUT AS SECRETARY

Don Woodward and Fred Martin Unopposed in Race for Emerald Editor and Yell King; Ellis, Miller and Wilson Are Senior Men

Randall Jones, of Eugene, was elected president of the A. S. U. O. in the heaviest balloting recorded in recent years, approximately 1450 votes being cast.

A total of 731 votes were counted for Jones against 687 for Clyde Zollars, making a difference of only 44 votes. This is the closest race recorded in recent years for the office of president. Russell Gowans, of Portland, won the vice-presidency with a majority of 36 votes over his nearest competitor, Hesden Metcalf.

Donald Woodward, of Portland, ran a lone race of editor of the 1924-25 Emerald. This is the first time in the history of the University that this office has been uncontested. The student body minutes will be kept by Ruth Akers, of Wasco, for the coming year, the tally being 746 votes as against 650 for Mary Hathaway, her only opponent.

Augusta DeWitt, of Portland, will edit the 1925 year-book, winning this editorial office by a majority of 97 votes over Frances Simpson, the other aspirant for the position. Senior woman on the executive council went to Mary Skinner, also of Portland, and Kenneth Stephenson, of Portland, won the office of junior man by a majority of 30 votes over Rodney Keating, his nearest competitor.

Amendments Are Passed

The three amendments were all passed by a large majority. Only one bulletin was posted before the final count, this one being given at 6 o'clock.

A glance back over records for the past two years shows that for the year 1922, 36 candidates were in the running for offices and 1,269 votes were cast. In 1923, 35 names were on the ballot and 1,395 votes cast, while this year, 35 names on the ballot again, but a total of 1,450 votes cast.
