- Sophomores
Villard hall, 5:00
- Freshmen
Villard hall, 4:00

Today is class nomination day. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen will each have their own meetings, and for the first time in the history of the University, candidates for officers of all classes for the following year will be known on the same date.

The new plan originated among the presidents of the four groups and it is expected its adoption will stimulate interest in class affairs and dignify the elections, which will be carried out on the ballot system instead of in open meeting, as heretofore.

Elections to be Thursday
Elections will be held on Thursday. A joint committee will be formed to handle the polls in Villard, which will be open most of the day. This will do away with the necessity of having four groups of officials working independently of each other on the same type of work when one body will be sufficient to have charge.

The senior meeting will be at 7:30 in Villard hall. Nominations for a permanent secretary will be entertained. Plans for the annual spring picnic will be discussed and a committee will be appointed. Virginia Pearson will be the senior representative on the election board.

At 5 o'clock, in Condon hall of the Administration building, the juniors will hear a detailed report of Junior Week-end from Ed Tapper, general chairman. A financial statement has been prepared and will be presented for action. Plans for the remainder of the term will be open for discussion and nominations for the offices of president, secretary and treasurer will be made. Lillian Baker will be the junior member of the election board.

Picnic Report Due
The sophomores will hold their gathering in Villard hall at 5 o'clock. Nominations for president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer will be placed on the ticket. A report will be submitted on the class picnic, scheduled for May 29, by Joe Frazer, chairman. No election member has been named.

Candidates from the freshman class will be presented before the meeting listed for 4 o'clock in Villard hall. The question of holding a picnic or a dance will be decided. Clifford Zehring is in charge of elections for the 1927 class.

PADDOCK MAY RACE AT OLYMPIC TRYOUTS

An invitation has been extended to Charles Paddock, the world's fastest human, through Graduate Manager Benefield, to run an exhibition race at the Olympic tryouts to be held here May 31. Paddock has been forced to forego racing for the past few weeks because of a torn muscle in his leg; but believes he will be back in form before time for the tryouts. He won the 100 yard dash at the Olympics held at Antwerp in 1920.

Plans are under way to secure two fast men to pace him in this race; Vic Hurley, former University of Washington star, now under the Multnomah club colors, and Hank Foster, unattached. Paddock holds a record of 9 and 3-5 seconds in the 100 and 20 and 8-10 in the 220 yard dash.

Synonym Contest for Term, Pigger, to Close Thursday

Are all the students and faculty of the University so flush that a prize of $5 does not appeal to them? That is the question considered by the group of journalism students who recently offered this amount to the member of the University who turned in the best substitute for the word "pigger."

This term is frowned on for publication in the daily and some other designation is desired to apply to the man who "dates out." So far but one suggestion has been turned in to the managing editor.

Thursday evening is the last date before closing of the contest. Judges will be a representative student and faculty committee. Award will be printed in the Sunday Emerald, May 18.

CHARLES WOODBURY ASSEMBLY SPEAKER

'Emerson and His Friends' Will be Subject

Charles J. Woodbury, last of the Concord group, of which Emerson was the greatest, will be the speaker at next Thursday's assembly to be held in Villard hall. The subject that he will speak on will be "Emerson and His Friends."

Mr. Woodbury has an intimate knowledge of this subject not only because he was a member of the group around Emerson, but also because he was private secretary to Emerson for some years.

This same address was given by Mr. Woodbury at an assembly during the summer session at the University last year. Mr. Woodbury, though quite advanced in years, is still a forceful and pleasing speaker. He has a fund of reminiscences of Emerson and a wealth of material about him.

Mr. Woodbury has been on the campus at other times than last year and was well received as a speaker. He has made lecture tours all over the United States, speaking about Emerson and the Concord group of writers.

The music and the person who will give the invocation will be announced later.

Diplomas of Honor Awarded Paintings of Art Professors

Diplomas of honor have been awarded to both Alfred H. Schroff, head of the fine arts department, and Virgil C. Hafen, professor of fine arts, for their paintings in the annual national competition at Springville, Utah, according to word received from that city. The paintings sent by Professor Schroff were: "Windswept Cypressess," "Sea of Gold," and "The Coming Storm." Professor Hafen submitted "Agate Beach," "The Sheep Trail," and "Silver and Gold."

Last year Professor Schroff won first prize, and this year his name comes first among the honorable mentions. "A Grey Day," his prize-winning picture last year, which he presented to the Springville collection, was unveiled at

ALUMNI RESPOND TO DRIVE APPEAL

National Reports Indicate Graduates Are United in Support of the Campaign

QUOTAS ARE PROMISED

Faculty Banquet Speakers Well Received at Group Meetings Called on May 9

Reports from all sections of the West indicate that the alumni phase of the Gift Campaign is getting well under way. Thirteen alumni were present at the dinner May 9 in Baker, Oregon, at which Dr. Edmund S. Conklin was the representative from the University.

"There were many others who live in outlying districts," Conklin said, "so that the section was not completely represented. Another reason why there were not more present was because of other affairs scheduled at that time."

Baker Alumni Loyal

Professor Conklin said yesterday that that section would do well with the campaign. "They are well organized people and they showed a marked spirit of loyalty to the University and to President Campbell. They will raise a good deal of money."

"They treated me like an old grad," he continued, "and asked me all about former members of the faculty and customs."

"I found the Oregon City people," said Dean John Bovard, who addressed the former students at the alumni dinner there, "most interested in the fact that the University is against a hard proposition and that the gift campaign is the only way of pulling up. Others have done it and they can, appears to be their idea. They think that the tax is not excessive and that they can raise the necessary quota."

Dinner Is Held

Thirty people attended the dinner. Many alumni residing in that district live nearer Portland than Oregon City, and attended the Portland meeting.

"I met a very enthusiastic group of Oregon people at Cottage Grove," said Alfred H. Powers who was Oregon's delegate there in the interests of the alumni for 1,000,000. "We had a dinner with 17 Oregon people present, and they were very appreciative of the needs of the University and made statements of its building needs."

The younger alumni were from the classes between '13 and '21 and the older alumni were mostly from the classes of '85 to '90.

"With 10 at the dinner at Newport we had a high percentage of attendance of alumni," said Dan E. Clark, who was sent there by the University. "The attitude expressed at the dinner was enthusiasm. Everyone present was back of the campaign and I haven't a doubt but they will come through well. Only one present had been a student within the last 10 years and many have children who will be here soon."

Sheldon Speaks at Astoria

"We had a very successful and a very enthusiastic meeting with 60 at the dinner at Astoria," said Dr. H. D. Sheldon who attended the meeting.

Professor of Art To Study Mural Painting Abroad

French School Accepts 100 Americans

Professor Alfred H. Schroff, head of the fine arts department, and Mrs. Schroff, are among the 100 American students who have been accepted for work in the Fontainebleau school in France. To enter this school the person must have professional standing as a qualification. Professor Schroff will study mural painting (under Gorguet and other famous Frenchmen, and plans a quiet summer of painting, visiting the galleries in Paris on weekends. Mrs. Schroff will go on with the study of painting also.

Two months in France, a visit to the British exposition for a while, a month in Italy—this is the program, far removed from the cares of teaching. The Schroffs leave Eugene June 10, and will sail for Europe June 18.

The European tour with a group of art students has been postponed for a year.

Twenty-five names have been submitted for the 11 positions to be filled. The nominations were announced a week ago at the regular mass meeting of W. A. A.

UNIVERSITY HIGH TEAM MEETS FIRST DEFEAT

The University high school baseball team met their first defeat of the season at the hands of Corvallis high at Corvallis Saturday. The score was 13 to 11. Burton pitched a good game for University high until the sixth inning.

The score at that time was 9 to 0 in favor of University high, but the Corvallis stick men found Burton and made 13 runs before Ridings was switched from catcher into the box in the eighth inning. He held the Corvallis men for the next two innings but the University high was unable to overcome the lead that Corvallis had gained.

STUDENTS FIND JUNIOR WEEK-END ENJOYABLE

The first prepperless Junior Week-end in the history of Oregon University has passed, and varied and many are the remarks made concerning its success and reception. The general consensus of opinion is in favor of a weekend for campus pleasure alone, without the responsibility of guests and the extra work that goes with them.

Among representative and prominent women on the campus, those asked for their opinions were, in the majority, in favor of the present system and considered it better than the former weekends. Some of these opinions were modified, however. Georgiana Gerlinger, while thinking it a good plan, felt that, as long as there were no guests and the affair was for the campus alone, there should be less work and expense put on the Junior Prom, and everything should not be so formal.

Dorothy McKee, ex-president of the Women's Athletic association, said that she had been wondering whether the school would receive sufficient advertising among the high school students if there were no guests on this occasion. She expressed the thought that the amount of work and expense put on the canoe fete seemed futile without the guests.

Other women who expressed their opinions on this subject were Mary Cleri, newly elected vice-president of the Women's league; Margaret Morrison, editor of the Sunday Emerald; Mary Skinner, winner of the Gerlinger cup; and Maude Shroeder, newly elected president.

HENDRICKS HALL WINS BASEBALL LEADERSHIP

Class Tryouts Scheduled for This Afternoon

Doughnut baseball for women ended yesterday when Hendricks hall won the championship in the finals between the leagues by defeating Susan Campbell hall. Class tryouts will be today with Miss Emma Waterman in charge.

Both teams of each hall topped the leagues in which they played and the finals were held between them. Hendricks' team I headed league I by winning all games played. Susan Campbell team II defeated all its opponents and gained the leadership of league II. In league III, Susan Campbell's team I won three games and added another through default, winning in that league. The other team of Hendricks hall won in league IV by winning all its games.

In the finals played yesterday, Hendricks II defeated Susan Campbell I by a score of 24 to 11, and Hendricks I won from Susan Campbell II by 27 to 6. Both games were well played, the girls showing good team work. By having both of its teams win, Hendricks won the championship.

Class tryouts will be today from 4:20 to 5:45 and will be the only time to try for the class teams. It is hoped that those who can not come at 5:00 will be able to come at 4:20. The girls will be tested on batting and fielding and general ability. Teams will be picked later from the group trying out.

ORDER OF 'O' TO GIVE BENEFIT DANCE FRIDAY

A benefit dance to create a loan fund for Oregon varsity athletes, who, through illness or injury incurred in athletics, are unable to attend school, will be held Friday evening, May 16, in the Woman's building. The affair will be staged under the auspices of the Order of the "O."

Everyone on the campus is expected to buy a ticket whether he plans on going to the dance or not. Tickets will be $1.00 a couple and can be purchased by any member of the Order of the O. They will be on sale starting tomorrow morning.

A special feature for the dance is being arranged and will be ready to announce later. Earl Shafer is arranging the feature. Ted Gillenwaters, Harry Myer, Howard Hobson and Gordon Wilson are handling the tickets. Kenneth Bailey is in charge of the music, which is to be given by the Mid-nite Sons; and Bob Mautz and Doug Wright are in general charge of the dance.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED TO OREGON STUDENT

Frances E. Taylor of Forest Grove, Oregon, a senior in the University of Oregon law school, was recently awarded a $1000 scholarship to New York University for the purpose of studying diplomacy in international affairs. Taylor is one of four men who were successful applicants for the scholarship which is given under the will of the late Frederick Courtland Penfield, ambassador to Austria, who left a fund of $80,000 for the purpose.

Scholarship and general fitness are taken into consideration in making the award which is open to students in any standard university or college in the United States. Taylor is a nephew of Dean H. Wellington Taylor of the Graduate School of Business Administration at New York University. He was one of the first Americans to be sent overseas during the war.

DEAN STRAUB RECALLS PIONEERS' DONATIONS

In a Gift Campaign pamphlet issued recently, Dean Straub recalls that in the early days of the University, when there was no money to pay the workmen on one of the new buildings, a friend went into the country and solicited donations. He came back with a load of hay, a cord of wood and a cow.

These were the gifts of farmers who wanted to help build the University of Oregon. Sacrificial giving was the order of the day in those times of early struggle. Even the school children of Lane county gave their nickels and pennies to the amount of $2,000 to put windows in Deady hall.

The pamphlet stresses the fact to the alumni that they, who have received so much from the University, should now be willing to follow in the footsteps of those who gave so freely and received in return nothing but the satisfaction of giving.

YEARLING TRACK TEAM IS STRONG

Portland Contests Prove Potential Strength of First Year Aggregation

ROOK MEET IS MAY 24

Two Weeks of Training Left; Flannigan Jumps Over 22 Feet in Meet Last Friday

Winning two meets in two days from the combined track and field teams of the high schools and Columbia university of Portland has earned his first year men a period of recuperation, said Coach Hayward yesterday. Consequently, the day's training consisted principally of "playing around" and listening to warnings of the coach to the fact that there are only two weeks left to "point" themselves for the meet with the rooks.

The Portland trip has demonstrated that this year's crew of green-capped track athletes has more potential strength than any squad of first year men that has been on the campus since the "good old days" when it was a disgrace for Oregon to lose a track meet. If the "Gods of Scholarship and Finance" can be sufficiently appealed to insure the return of these men next year—Oregon should have a track team which might give any aggregation real competition.

Sprinters Show Promise

In the sprints, Westerman, Holt, Extra, and Stonebreaker form a crew of speed artists that not only gave a good account of themselves in the meets last weekend, but are young, and under the coaching of Bill Hayward, have a future. Heinie Hall won both his races in the high hurdles—and seems to have gotten over the habit of kicking over the sticks which disqualified him in some of the early season meets. In the low hurdles, both Rodda and Clark placed against fast men in the last meet. Rodda won his race the first day.

Flannigan jumped 22 feet and 2 inches to win the broad jump Friday; and Egtvet won a first in the varsity dual meet here Saturday by jumping 21 feet 1 1/2 inches. Cash won his race Friday in the 440; and in the races Saturday, Wilbur and Jeffries took a first and second in a time only slightly less than the varsity men are running it in. Swank took a second in the 880.

Johnston Wins Weights

Tiny Johnston was the premier performer in the weight heaving contests, winning both the shot and the discus both days; and Hemming and Kjelland are green men who are developing this year. Simonton is the freshman mainstay in the javelin throwing event.

Oregon has been weak in the distances since the loss of Glen Walkley; but with the advent of Conley and Barnes, two boys who hail from sunny California, Lemon-Yellow stock in these races is rising. Though neither won their event Friday or Saturday, they were up against good men, and need another period of seasoning in the Oregon climate before they will be able to put out their best.

With two weeks for conditioning and further training, this team should give the first year O. A. C. men a real battle when they meet May 24.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS TO EDIT SEATTLE STAR

University of Washington—The Seattle Star on May 17 will be the handiwork of the students of journalism of the University. The twenty or twenty-five members of the staff will be selected from volunteers. All journalism students will fill the positions. Editorial class members will write the editorials.

Leon Starmont, now editor of the Spokane Press, was editor of the Star in 1921 when University students were first given a chance to demonstrate their ability, and this will be the third time that the Star has come out under student journalistic hands.
