

CONCERT HALL TO BE FINISHED

Bids for Music Auditorium Are Being Accepted

PLAN TO OPEN IN FALL

Dean Lawrence in Charge of Building Work

The auditorium in the Music building, which everyone has been waiting to see completed, will probably be ready for use by the opening of next fall term. This is the opinion of Dean John J. Landsbury, of the school of music, and is based on the fact that the building committee has accepted bids for the necessary work. Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture, who is at present in the East, has charge of the work.

The auditorium will seat about 650, and is to be finished so that it will be the little gem of the whole campus. The main entrance to the music building will open into the foyer of the hall, as will the doors connecting it with the lounge room. Above the foyer is a balcony arranged so that no one will be sitting beneath it.

Acoustics to be Best

The plans have been pronounced perfect by the best acoustical engineers in the country, and a person on the stage, speaking in his natural voice, can be heard without effort by one in the back of the balcony. It is desired that this auditorium be the one place on the campus where the acoustics will be perfect for speaking and music, and it will be used for speakers of interest to a minority of the students, as well as for recitals and plays.

A glassed-in sun-porch will extend on the east side of the auditorium from the lounge room of the Music building on the south, to the stage on the north, and will open into both rooms. This can be used as a hall, thus letting actors have the use of the studios for dressing rooms, as accommodations of this sort in the auditorium would be a hindrance to good acoustics. The lounge room will be refinished to fit the color scheme of the later work.

Concerts Primary Use

The double doors from the foyer into the lounge room and from the lounge room into the part of the building containing the studios, can be thrown open, and will provide an excellent passage for processions, as it will form a long hall from one end of the building to the other.

A pipe organ is to be installed in the front of the auditorium, with an echo organ above the balcony. The building is primarily a concert hall—thoroughly modern and up to date, and everything possible is to be done to make it unexcelled.

SPIRITUAL TRAINING NEEDED, SAYS WILSON

Personality Depends on Character and Body

"Whatever you do in this world, I hope you will so take care of your body, mind, character, conscience, and spirit that you will have an energized personality," declared J. Stitt Wilson, former mayor of Berkeley, in his message to the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinet members at a luncheon yesterday in the "Y" hut.

"A recognition of those interior admonitions of your conscience and of the spirit is the best way to develop your personality," he said.

Nearly every problem in the world is now a moral problem in the opinion of Mr. Wilson. "You are not going to Slabtown, you are going out into a civilization as big as the world itself, where problems are world-wide and heart-deep."

Much of the debauchery and troubles in the world are due to a long lack of spiritual training. Mr. Wilson said, adding that he believed a revolution in education was coming when the lack and need of spiritual and moral training will be recognized. "So many are totally incapable when confronted with questions that require moral decisions," was another statement of Mr. Wilson's.

In speaking of the differences of attitude found in Oriental and American institutions, Mr. Wilson said he noticed the Orientals were much more eager for an education and to listen to leaders because both were so hard to get.

HAMMER AND COFFIN ELECTS FIVE MEMBERS

Officers of Local Chapter Named for Next Year

Hammer and Coffin, national publishing society, yesterday chose five men to membership. The organization formerly published Lemon Punch, and is a chapter of a national body, chapters of which are located at the University of Chicago, Stanford University, University of Washington, University of California, Oregon Agricultural college and the University of Oregon.

The men chosen have all had experience along artistic or literary lines this year. Ed Miller at present day editor of the Emerald, last term won the first prize for the best feature story; Joe Brill, Warren Small, and Phil Berg are well known for art work, and Larry Riddle is "Enigma," who conducts the "Emerald Aisle" in the Emerald.

The national convention of Hammer and Coffin will be held this year on June 1 at O. A. C. at Corvallis. Representatives from all chapters will be present, and the Oregon chapter, which is composed of 19 men, will attend in a body. The plans for publication of a college comic on the campus for next year are now being discussed, and will be announced later.

Officers of the local chapter for next year were also elected yesterday. They are as follows: George H. Godfrey, president; Webster Jones, secretary; and Ed Britz, treasurer. Retiring officers are Eugene Short, president; Francis Linklater, secretary; and Frank Loggan, treasurer.

At the national convention held last November at Minneapolis, Minnesota, a policy of expansion was decided upon by the society, and before the end of this year chapters are expected to be installed at the University of Wisconsin, the University of Oklahoma, Cornell University, Columbia University, Toronto University, and several others. It is expected that the petitions of these will be acted upon favorably at the coming convention.

Publications now controlled by Hammer and Coffin, among which are some of the best in the United States, are The Stanford Chapparall, at Stanford; The Pelican at California; The Orange Owl at O. A. C.; the combined Sundodger and Columns at Washington, and the Phoenix at Chicago.

Bert G. Bates, a syndicate columnist, is a member of Hammer and Coffin, as is Will Irwin, and other humorists of note. Several are expected to be elected by the next convention, it is announced.

TEAM LEAVES TODAY FOR CORVALLIS MEET

at Seattle two weeks ago. This is the sum of varsity experience for these two. Kinney is a veteran track man who got his start in the east as a 100 and 220-yard dash runner. Bill Hayward put him at the quarter last winter and the big boy's performances at this distance shows the coach's wisdom in making the change. Risley is a two-year letterman and a powerful runner who has made a name for himself as a fighter.

Captain Spearow and Walt Kelsey will uphold Oregon honors in the pole-vault with very little trouble if they continue working, as they have been doing in practice. The squad will eat at the College Side Inn at 11:15 and embark from there at noon for the invasion.

FLOOR TILES FOR ARTS BUILDING ARE FINISHED

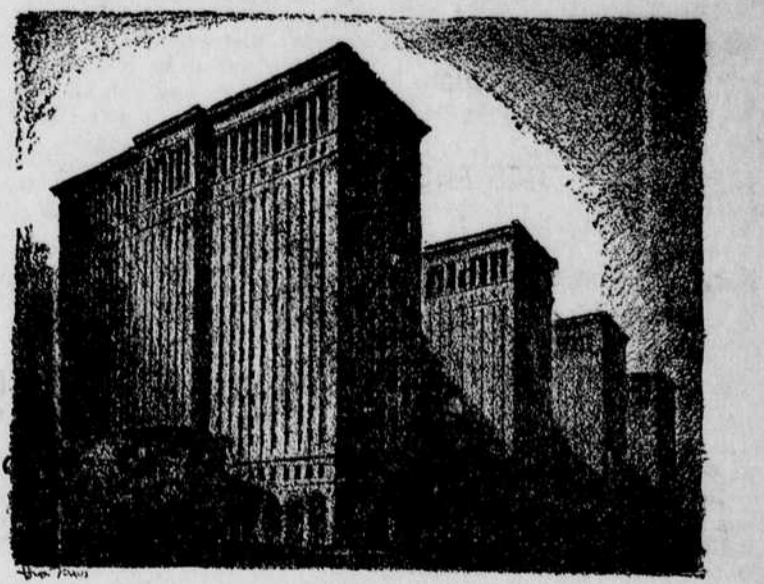

Colors Harmonize With Gothic Windows

Tiles for a floor border in the vestibule of the Arts building have been completed by the class in applied design under the direction of Miss Victoria Avakian, normal arts instructor, and will be dried for a week before being in-laid by a concrete worker.

Sixty tiles from the border, which is carried out in soft tones of purple, dull yellow, gray-green and brick red. The design was worked out earlier in the year by students under Miss Maude Kerns, head of the class.

The main difficulty in the problem was to work out colors which would harmonize with the Gothic stained glass already installed. The tile, as completing the tying together of the glass and the architecture, adds interest as an embellishment completed by the student work.

The colonettes in the courtyard, the sculpture relief above the west entrance to the Arts building, and the tiles used as a wall decoration around the same entrance, are all student work. The idea of the school has ever been based on the plan of Dean Ellis F. Lawrence to make the arts collaborative.

"In Terms of the Colossal"

THE co-ordination of commercial strength, architectural vision and engineering skill which created this titanic quadruple office building represents the motive and creative force which has turned the eyes of the world toward this type of American architecture.

This, the largest office building in the world, possesses fundamentally magnificent largeness in its conception, and a clean-cut directness in its execution which place it among the most significant of American buildings.

With such existing structural achievements no architectural future is impossible, no project too vast or too complex to come readily to our imagination.

Certainly modern invention—modern engineering skill and organization, will prove more than equal to the demands of the architecture of the future.
